THIS SIMULATED ACCIDENT was used as a practical problem for persons attending the professional emergency care course being conducted at Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls. Arranged by the PRIM instructional team, the "accident" provided persons taking the course with an opportunity for first hand experience in handling victims in an accident situation. Special make-up provided by the PRIM team added to the realism of the program.

Bicycle Safety Check Slated at Arena Saturday

Annual bicycle safety check, sponsored by the Thief River Falls Jaycees in cooperation with the Veterans of Foreign Wars and local law enforcement agencies, will be held Saturday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the city arena.

James Richter, general chairman for the project, noted that city ordinance requires licensing of all bicycles used in the city and the inspection of bicycles before licenses are issued. Both the inspection and licensing will be accomplished on Saturday.

Joining with the Jaycee and VFW volunteers will be members of the city police department, Pennington county sheriff's department, Minnesota highway patrol and state driver's license examiners.

Dr. Achenbach Withdraws from School Election

Election for the Thief River Falls board of education moved back into a three-way race with the withdrawal of incumbent Dr. H. R. Achenbach from contention.

According to Robert Bredeson, clerk of School District 564, Dr. Achenbach formally withdrew from the race last week after filing on Tuesday. Currently in the race for two open positions on the board are Maynard Wedul, incumbent, Kenneth Murphy and Mrs. Dennis Rodin.

The annual school election will be held on Tuesday, May 13.

Set Meeting on Mod Scheduling

Public meeting to explain modular-flexible scheduling in the senior high school will be held Thursday at 8:15 p.m. in the Lincoln senior high school auditorium, according to Richard Edlund, principal.

Edlund, faculty members and counselors will give background and experience with the program and then answer questions from persons in attendance. The meeting is expected to last from 45 minutes to an hour and 15 minutes, Edlund said.

Any interested persons in the Thief River Falls district are urged to attend the session.

Theft, Accident Noted by Police

One theft and one traffic accident were reported over the weekend by the Thief River Falls police department.

The theft occurred on May 2 at 8:20 p.m., when Mrs. Violet Weberg, city, reported the larceny of her billfold from the launderette. The billfold contained $100. The billfold was recovered on the 3rd and later on the same day a local grocery store reported a young boy was in the store with a $50 bill. The youth was questioned, admitted the theft, and the $100 was recovered by the police department. The boy was eight years old.

On Saturday at 11 a.m. a pickup driven by Vernon Wavra, Red Lake Falls, was going North on Arnold and at the intersection of Zeh street struck a car driven by Stuart Rugland, rt. 4, going east on Zeh. Damage to the pickup was $50 and to the Rugland vehicle $400.

Fact-Finding Hearing Is Held Here on Thursday

INSTRUCTORS for the professional emergency care course at Northwestern hospital included this group from the Professional Rescue Instructors of Minnesota (PRIM) organization. Seated are Wayne Johnson, Carlton, and Walter Hughes Jr. (right), Northfield; standing are Al Johnson, Cloquet (left), captain of PRIM team number five: Jerry Rice, Northfield, and Richard "Bud" Chida, Duluth. The course was designed primarily for law enforcement personnel and persons who will be working with ambulance service in the area.

Formal fact-finding hearing by the three-member adjustment panel seeking settlement of school board-faculty differences was held Thursday evening at the Lincoln high school auditorium in Thief River Falls. Both school board and faculty presented prepared testimony before a question period resulted in some heated discussion.

Opened to the public, the hearing drew approximately 300 people, most of whom are teachers in the Thief River Falls system, and their spouses. The entire hearing was carried on the local radio station, and it is believed that a number of other district residents heard all or part of the hearing over the air.

With the fact-finding hearing completed, the three-member panel will meet Tuesday to deliberate on information presented Thursday night. The panel has 15 days from the date of hearing to present its findings to the parties involved and the state commissioner of education. If the panel fails to agree, individual findings can be filed. None of the panel's findings is binding on either the teachers or school board.

Kenneth S. Nelson of Warren, appointed to the adjustment panel by Judge Warren A. Saetre of the district court, presided at the hearing on Thursday. Other panel members are Joe Forberg, appointed by the teachers' negotiating council, and C. L. Charlson, appointed by the board of education.

All members of the teachers' negotiating council presented testimony at the hearing, with school board testimony presented by Supt. Lloyd Johnson, administrative assistant Francis Hamerlinck and board chairman Dr. George Martin.

Harold Waala opened the testimony for the teachers' council, listing a chronological history of teacher offers in attempting to negotiate settlement of the salary question. He expressed the dissatisfaction of the teachers with a 12-month pay proposal as stated by the board.

Ed Sisler reviewed the economic status of the community and the city of Thief River Falls, stating that 36 new homes were built here last year and 50 new homes were expected this year. He cited the increase in number of workers in the city and the percentage of school operation expense which comes from local taxes.

Bill Blankenfeld, co-chairman of the negotiating council, also reviewed the teachers' proposals. He said the January 8 offer of $7,600 base included 10 steps and seven lanes, and that the negotiating team prorated its offer to 12 months at the February 5 meeting. At the same meeting it dropped this request to a base of $9,667 and on February 18 offered to drop its request for income protection insurance.

Patrick Klemisch gave a comparison study of the salary schedule in Thief River Falls as last proposed to the negotiating council by the board's negotiating team. The comparison showed Thief River Falls lower than Crookston, Staples, East Grand Forks, Fergus Falls and International Falls in all areas of BA and MA minimums and maximums. He said the history of local raises in this district has kept salaries in a low range.

Ted Hellie, co-chairman of the faculty's negotiating council, presented a list of 26 points listed as "Obstacles Preventing More Significant Negotiating by the Teachers' Council". Some of these were the 12-month work schedule at nine-month salary, school year extended to 36 weeks, eight-hour minimum work day "in confinement", elimination of existing salary schedule, elimination of Easter and Christmas vacations, failure of the board to match concessions made by the teachers council, changes in teaching practices without consultation of the faculty and a number of other grievances.

Opposing Views

Supt. Johnson opened the board's presentation by noting last year's salary increase of 13½ to 17 per cent in instructional salaries. He said the first proposal by the teachers' council would require a dollar increase of $504,414 or an additional levy of

Brooks School Bids Awarded To Low Bidders

Four bids were opened on the proposed new school in Brooks last week. The bids were opened by the school board which felt that these will be the best bids that the school district could hope to get at this time. It was also noted that the district has sufficient funds to cover the complete cost of the building without using the bond levy which the residents of Brooks district passed some time ago.

The low bidder was Fugelberg Construction company, East Grand Forks, with a bid of $69,950 for general contract. Submitting the low bid on the electrical contract was Ken's electric, Red Lake Falls, with a bid of $11,785. Mild April Helps Outlook for Crop

Temperatures for April proved to be on the mild side as the average high temperature was the highest recorded since 1964, according to records kept by the Times office.

Average high temperature for the month was 54.8 degrees, while the average low was the highest in five years with a 32.8 degree reading. The average temperature was 43.9 degrees.

Along with being a mild month, April failed to provide many of the showers which are supposed to bring May flowers. Only 1.29 inches of precipitation fell during the entire month, the lowest amount recorded since 1966 when only 1.17 inches fell. More than traceable amounts were noted on only six days, the greatest amount being .55 inch on April 9.

Highest temperature for the month and for the year so far was recorded on April 25 with a 71 degree reading, while the lowest temperature was recorded on April 5 when the mercury dropped to a low of 15 degrees. Highest low was 47 on the 20th and lowest high was 27 on the fourth.

The mild weather in the area has enabled farmers to get some field work in, as the high winds of the last couple of weeks have enabled the ground to dry out faster. Crop prospects for 1969 brightened considerably.

Daily highs and lows for the month, recorded by North Central airlines personnel at the municipal airport are as follows:

H. Williamses Celebrate 45th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Williams were honored on their 45th wedding anniversary on Saturday evening, March 29, at a celebration at the Silver Creek Lutheran church. Attending the event were members of the congregation, neighbors, relatives and friends from the Thief River Falls area, Newfolden, Ada, Minneapolis and St. Paul.

Among those present was Mr. Williams' brother, Clarence, who served as best man at the wedding 45 years ago. He was accompanied by his wife. They, together with the honored guests, were presented with corsages and boutonnieres by Mr. and Mrs. Bernard (Lucille) Myers and Mr. and Mrs. Percy (Doris) Hagen, sons-in-law and daughters of the H. S. Williamses.

The celebration began with a program. Donald Rupprecht, chairman of the Silver Creek congregation, served as master-of-ceremonies. In addition to extending congratulations and best wishes, he read an appropriate poem. Devotions, based on Psalm 23, were given by Mrs. William Kaushagen. Mrs. Gordon Kaushagen gave a reading and Valerie Hanson, a member of the Bible class instructed by Mrs. Williams, sang, "Follow Me". Also on the program was a selection, "Bless This House" by the Silver Creek ALCW and an original article regarding the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Williams that was written and read by Mrs. Eddy Anderson.

Extending best wishes and congratulations in behalf of the Silver Creek congregation and its organizations were Rev. Kenneth Kramer, pastor of the parish; Mrs. Vernon Philipp, Sunday school superintendent, and Mrs. Seymore Nelson, president of the Silver Creek ALCW.

Vocal selections by the family of the honored couple concluded the program. The daughters and their husbands sang, "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross". They were joined by their children in singing, "Kum Ba Yah".

A reception in the parish hall followed. For the event, the hall was trimmed with yellow streamers and white wedding bells. A three-tiered anniversary cake centered the serving table. The cake, baked and decorated by Mrs. Lawrence Lubitz, featured yellow and white roses and was topped by a Christogram. On either side of the cake were blue candles and vases of blue and yellow carnations.

Assisting the members of the Silver Creek ALCW in serving the reception were the daughters and sisters-in-law of the honored couple. Mrs. Bernard (Lucille) Myers and Mrs. William Kaushagen, sister-in-law, cut and served the cake while Mrs. Clarence Williams and Mrs. Gordon Kaushagen, sisters-in-law, poured. Mrs. Percy (Doris) Hagen and Mrs. Craig Pladson, a granddaughter, served as waitresses. Presiding at the guest book were Charlene Myers and Eldon Myers, grandchildren of the couple.

Noreen Oftedahl Is Bride Of Howard G. Henrickson

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gary Henrickson are at home at 319 East Johnson avenue, Warren, following their marriage March 29, at the First Evanger Lutheran church in Fertile.

The bride, the former Noreen Caral Oftedahl, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Oftedahl of Fertile. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Pete Henrickson of Grygla.

Officiating at the candlelight services were Rev. Wayne Halvorson and Rev. Wilfrid Frick. Richard Ramsey of Grand Forks, N. D., the bride's high school music instructor, was the soloist. He sang, "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer". Pianist was Mrs. Orris Moen of Fertile.

Forming the chancel setting were arrangements of Easter lilies on the altar, piano and organ. White ribbon bows marked every other pew.

For her wedding, the bride chose a floor-length gown of Chantilly rosebud lace over taffeta with a flowing train of matching lace. Designed in empire fashion, the gown was styled with elbow-length bell sleeves, a full skirt and a high rounded neckline enhanced with sequins. A petaled headpiece, dewed with pearl teardrops, held her waist-length veil of silk illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses and white carnations.

Mrs. Arne Telgland of Moorhead attended her sister as matron of honor. Other attendants were Mrs. Rudy Rude, Mrs. Virgil Collins, both of Thief River Falls, and Rosiland Refling of Fargo, N. D. All wore green embossed with gold, floor-length gowns in empire fashion, complemented by white wrist length gloves and veiled headpieces secured by double bows of green satin. Each carried a long-stemmed mum with a green velvet bow. Their pearl pendants were gifts from the bride. Usherette was Debra Rude of Thief River Falls.

Serving as best man was Gerald Kiesow of Warren. Groomsmen were brothers of the groom, Gordon Henrickson of Goodridge and Gene Henrickson of Thief River Falls. Arne Telgland of Moorhead and Ronald Howard of Minneapolis seated the guests. The groom and his attendants wore black tuxedoes with black bow ties and white boutonnieres.

The mother of the bride was attired in a navy blue dress complemented by white lace trim and off-white accessories. The mother of the groom wore a green three piece ensemble with beige accessories. Both wore identical corsages of yellow roses and white carnations.

A reception in the church parlors followed the ceremony. Miss Audrey Sevold of Fargo, N. D., registered the guests while a cousin of the bride, Miss Judy Halvorson, Fargo, N. D., served the punch.

Centering the serving table was a four-tiered wedding cake trimmed in green and white and topped with a miniature bride and groom. Cutting the cake were Mrs. Gunda Myrom of Chisholm, aunt of the groom, and Mrs. Philip Munson of Fargo, N. D., a cousin of the bride. Mrs. Donald Anderson, Jamestown, N. D., sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Darlene Hall of Grand Forks, N. D., a cousin of the bride, poured.

Waitresses were Gail Helm of Duluth and LaVonne Leiser of Fargo, N. D. Mrs. Gerald Kiesow of Warren presided at the gift table.

The groom is a graduate of the Goodridge high school and Bemidji State college. He is teaching in the Warren elementary school system. The bride is a graduate of the Fertile high school. She was employed in Fargo, N. D., and prior to her marriage was employed in this city by Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc.

For the event, the bride-elect was seated in a special decorated chair. Suspended above the white covered chair was a white wedding bell with streamers and crepe paper roses cascading to the chair. During the evening, the streamers were pulled, causing the bell to burst, showering the honored guest with colored confetti.

A large assortment of gifts was presented to the honored guest by Miss Lynne Frances Anderson. Recording the gifts, as they were opened and passed around for viewing were Misses Sheila Louise Anderson and Myra Sabo.

Among the special guests attending were Mrs. Oscar Sabo, mother of the bride-elect; Mrs. Melvin Ernst, mother of the prospective groom; Mrs. Minnie Myrom and Mrs. Inga Sabo, the grandmothers, and Mrs. Ethel Larson, a great aunt.

The festive lunch featured fancy pinwheel and ribbon sandwiches and pastel iced petits fours in flowered cases. Completing the bridal shower theme were multi-colored nutcups topped with plastic parasols in pastel colors.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the Kitchen of

Mrs. Jerrold Nelson
rural Goodridge

Rhubarb fans in this area are ecstatic. For them spring has officially arrived as the first rhubarb of the season is ready to use. In the old established beds, some stocks are already eight to 10 inches long. However it was stocks much shorter than that that the hostess used in the pie and crunch served Friday evening. That first rhubarb dessert heralded the season. From now until the stocks become too old, I hope that you, the readers of Kitchen Karnival, will send us your favorite rhubarb recipes.

We are grateful to Mrs. Jerrold Nelson for sharing her rhubarb cake recipe with us.

Rhubarb cake

1½ cups sugar
½ cup shortening
1 cup sour milk
1 teaspoon soda
1 egg
2 cups flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 cups rhubarb, cut fine

Method: Mix in order given and pour into a greased 9 x 13 inch pan. Combine one-third cup sugar and 1 teaspoon cinnamon and sprinkle over top of batter. Bake in a 350 degree oven for one hour.

Mrs. Nelson stated that this cake keeps a long time. It may be served either hot or cold and with or without whipped cream or ice cream.

The Jerrold Nelsons live eight miles east and four miles north of Thief River Falls, on Goodridge route 3. They are engaged in diversified farming.

The Nelsons have five children. Pamela (Mrs. Gary Battleson) and Melrene (Mrs. Jerry Eggenberger) live in Minneapolis and each has a daughter. At home are Doyle, a student at Lincoln high school, and JoDee and Danae, who are attending school at Washington elementary.

In addition to her regular home duties, Mrs. Nelson teaches Sunday School at the Silver Creek Lutheran church, where the family attends services. She is also a member of the ALCW and the parish board of that church, assists with the 4-H club work and is a member of the homemakers group.

Her husband is a member of the Agder town board and just completed a term as deacon of the Silver Creek church.

Moum Gives Review Of "Jazz Ensemble"

Friday, April 24th, 8:00 p.m., Lincoln High School:

Tonight I was given the privilege of witnessing a college student demonstration. The occasion—a concert by the Wisconsin U. "Brass choir and jazz ensemble." 30 young men and women uniting their musical talents to bring us a little old and a little new. Their program ranged from antiphonal brass of the 1500's through the ages down to the modern day when "Snoopy's Waltz" a waltz in the jazz idiom is put back to back with Afro-Cuban jazz of "A Pretty Face" (Bossa Nova).

The ensembles were directed by Dominic Spera a modern day trumpet and Fleugel horn artist who has done tours of duty with Henry Mancini and others. Mr. Spera a very capable performer who is no stranger to the upper stratosphere of the trumpet also has done his work well as the young men in the trumpet section demonstrated by their ability to absorb the punishment meted out by a trumpet soaring above high C. The brass choir delivered an organ like, well controlled sounds, reminiscent of the early cathedrals. Bach's "Komm, Sosser Tod" (Com Sweet Death) and Purcell's suite were done in a reverent and tuneful move. Vaclav Neihybel's "Chorale for Brass and Percussion" was very fiery and dramatic much like its composer. A very fine organization with beautiful, healthy brass sounds, heightened by the six french horns that add so much to the reverence and beauty of a brass choir.

"The jazz ensemble" music for fun. Done in a manner that makes everyone who hears such a group relive the 1940's. Again the brass was the dominating figure although a drummers duel in which each drummer tried to out do the other was a fine effort in Ad-lib. The Rudiments were flying thick and fast. "Snoopy's Waltz" written by Mr. Spera and soon to be published was one of those interesting jazz waltzes that have been with us since Steve Allen of TV wrote "The Gravy Waltz". Mr. Spera's trpt and fluegel horn played a dominent part in the ad-lib as he shared honors with the young lady playing lead alto. The young lady and a colored gentleman shared the duet honors. A moving interesting waltz with definite jazz riffs by the brass and percussion. Afro-Cuban music a newcomer on the scene is interesting as a result of the many percussion instruments he used. "Claves, Guira (scratcher) timboles, tambo, and a jazz drummer. These coupled with jazz figures in the brass and an Afro beat are the ingredients for a modern musical jazz setting. The program closed with an old pop tune "Trolley Song" given a new suit of clothes, a jazz beat and a modern sound. Terminating the entire evening of music was the plaintive bleat of a bicycle horn signaling the passing of the trolley.

Three Consumer Protection Bills Signed by Gov.

Gov. Harold LeVander recently signed into law consumer protection measures providing for state meat and egg inspection programs and establishing controls on the use of pesticides. The three bills are a part of the governor's legislative program.

The first bill will provide surveillance of meat moving in intrastate commerce and will designate the department of agriculture as the agency to administer the act.

The department also is empowered, under the second bill, to administer the egg inspection program and to collect fees from egg breaking plants to fund the inspection service.

The third bill signed by the governor gives the commissioner of agriculture broad powers to regulate or prohibit the use of pesticides in Minnesota.

Chief authors of the meat inspection bill are Rep. Verne E. Lang of Pipestone and Sen. Howard Nelson of Lindstrom. Pesticide control authors are Rep. Ernest E. Schafer of Buffalo Lake and Sen. John A. Metcalf of Shakopee, while the egg inspection bill was authored by Rep. Ivan Stone, New Ulm, and Sen. C. R. Hansen, Austin.

In signing the measures, the governor congratulated the authors and said that Minnesota will maintain its leadership in pure foods.

"Our agricultural industry has always been known for its high standards and for its desire to protect the public interest," the governor said. "These three important bills will help Minnesota to remain as a national leader in this field."

Fact-Finding Hearing Held on School Salaries

110.8 mills. The second nine-month proposal would increase salary cost by $382,260. The last proposal by the teachers on 12-month employment would cost an additional $450,000. He said the Minnesota division of employment security showed a cost of living increase from January of 1968 to January of 1969 at three per cent.

Comparable profession in the Thief River Falls area which require a baccalaureate degree were listed by the superintendent. They included social worker, $560 per month; banking, $600-$650 per month; recreational therapist, $7,600 per year; accounting, $508 per month; auditor, bacteriologist, chemist and M.E.S. interviewer, $667 per month.

He also noted that Thief River Falls district has an assessed valuation of $4,551,000, with one mill producing $4,551 in revenue. Crookston district, by comparison, has a valuation of $8,274,096 and one mill produces $8,274 in revenue.

Hamerlinck's presentation was based on statistics gleaned from "School Management" publication. Comparisons in several study areas showed that the Thief River Falls effort toward education was high in relation to money available to conduct the school program.

Dr. Martin discussed compensation of the certified teaching staff, listing board opinion regarding parity of income. He said the usual work year is considered to be 240 or 241 days while the usual teacher contract calls for 177 to 180 days. The teacher's work day in his place of employment is shorter than the usual eight-hour day of the public or private professional in his place of employment, Dr. Martin said.

He noted increases in salaries for teachers in the last two years and the state education association's goal of a starting salary of $8,000 for 1970-71.

August Scholin Funeral Services Held Thursday

Funeral services were held Thursday at 2 p.m., at Redeemer Lutheran church in this city for (Sven) August Scholin, 82, of 515 South Merriam, who died Monday, April 28, at Northwestern hospital.

Rev. Dennis W. Rodin officiated at the services. Mrs. William Halbasch was the organist and Kenneth Poole, soloist. Sinding's Funeral chapel was in charge of arrangements. Interment was in Black River Lutheran cemetery, in Polk Center township.

Pallbearers were Melvin Scholin, Vernon Scholin, John Erickson, James Erickson, Irwin Johnson and Clifton Johnson.

(Sven) August Scholin was born March 10, 1887 in Westergotland, Sweden to Mr. and Mrs. Swen Scholin. In 1892, he immigrated to the United States with his parents, settling in Pennington county. He received his elementary education in the rural schools and farmed for many years in Bray township. He retired from farming in 1957.

He was a member of Redeemer Lutheran church and a former member of the Black River Lutheran church. He was active in community affairs, having served for many years on the school, township and Agricultural Stabilization boards.

On March 3, 1915, he was united in marriage to Alvina Erickson. She died in September of 1930. He married Gunvor Bronow on March 10, 1948 and she preceded him in death on June 4, 1968. On Nov. 27, 1968, he was united in marriage to Bertha Larson. She survives.

Also surviving are three sons: LeRoy and Arlo Scholin, both of Thief River Falls, and Einar of Crookston; a daughter, Mrs. Elna Lindblom of Moorhead, 12 grandchildren, 16 great-grandchildren, one brother, Oscar Scholin, living in Canada, and a sister, Mrs. Amanda Peterson of Santa Barbara, Calif.

Two sisters and three brothers preceded him in death.

So-called carnage on U. S. roads is actually a tribute to good driving when American statistics are compared to those of other nations. Our death rate is 52.6 per 100,000 registered vehicles. In jolly, polite old England, the rate is 76.3. In France, the rate is more than double ours and in Germany it is 159 per 100,000. In Japan, it is an incredible 402.2.

An "Expert" Speaks on Gun Laws

by Charles Lee Howard

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Charles Lee Howard, No. 122-596 at Ohio State Penitentiary, comes up for a parole hearing in May, 1975. Meanwhile he is a school librarian there, and has done teaching among inmates although he himself only went through the 11th grade. He wouldn't be writing this article, he says, if he planned to return to crime.

ABOUT THIS REPRINT

This copyrighted material is reprinted from the February 1968 issue of "The American Rifleman" (published monthly), the official journal of The National Rifle Association of America, 1600 Rhode Island Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

A convict serving time in Folsom (Calif.) State Prison agrees with Charles Lee Howard, Ohio State Penitentiary inmate, that stiffer gun laws would benefit crooks and hamper honest men. James F. Gallagher, 45, who is said to have admitted some 50 robberies, favored stricter gun laws "only if I continue to make my living as an armed robber when I get out of here."

Gallagher told John Moon, reporter for Copley News Service, that all that anti-gun legislators are doing "is disarming the honest citizen and making it easier for us." If released, he said, "I could have a gun by tonight."

At 26, I have possessed 20 pistols. And I acquired only one of them in even a semi-legal way. The other 19 were stolen by me or for me by friends.

This may shock those legislators and other nice people who believe that if you make it harder for a target shooter to buy a pistol, you automatically make it harder for the criminal to get one.

But it's old hat to me and my friends. You see, we are not target shooters, handgun huntsmen, plinkers or collectors. We don't belong to gun clubs or groups of that sort.

We must have pistols because they are the tools of our trade, crime.

We are the ones the anti-gun people want to crack down on by making it hard for old ladies who live alone to buy pistols for self-defense.

I am serving my third felony sentence, writing this from the Ohio State Penitentiary at Columbus. I arrived here Jan. 18, 1966, sentenced to 15 to 55 years on charges of armed robbery and kidnapping.

From inside prison, the anti-gun uproar makes strange reading. It is baffling that the people who want to prevent criminals like me from getting hold of guns expect to accomplish this by passing new laws.

Do they forget that the criminal makes a business of breaking laws? No criminal I know would obey a gun law while committing a crime of equal or greater seriousness.

There must be some things they don't know, these well-intentioned souls who say, "We don't seek to hamper any honest person's enjoyment of firearms: we only want to make it harder for the lawless to acquire them."

Perhaps they don't know that the statute books of most States are already well stocked with laws supposed to limit a felon's right to acquire a concealable weapon—in some cases his right to own any gun at all. The laws are there. But they are seldom enforced.

Perhaps they don't know how criminals do get their guns. Certainly crooks don't buy them, by mail order or over the counter, as do the hunters, target shooters, collectors and people requiring guns for self-protection.

I have spent quite a few years in prison and have known criminals ranging from non-support cases to brutal murderers. From experience I know that only a small minority of those committed for offenses involving guns obtained those guns through legal channels. Most of the guns used by criminals in my "circle" were either stolen outright or bought from shady friends. They weren't bought from the mail-order dealer, that demon of so many seekers after Federal anti-gun legislation.

The criminal who wants a gun doesn't have to look far. He can steal one from a private home, an office, a store, or a car. Bank messengers who carry large sums of money usually are armed. But in communities where it is illegal to carry a concealed weapon on one's person, they have to leave their guns in their cars when they make stops on business. It is easy enough for a crook to learn a bank messenger's route, trail him and, when the messenger makes a stop, lift the gun from the glove compartment or from beneath the seat. A veteran con I know swears he got 6 guns this way in a single day!

These aren't the gun-seeking criminal's only sources of supply. He can "hit" National Guard armories, gun dealers' stores, gunsmiths' shops, and gun factories. Theft of 46 carbines from a factory near Plainfield, N.J., compounded the dangers faced by police in last summer's rioting.

Stolen guns from all manner of sources abound in the underworld. No kind of gun legislation will take them out of circulation. Nor will it stop professional law-breakers from stealing guns as before.

Consider the situation in New York State, where the Sullivan Law makes handgun ownership difficult for the honest citizen and theoretically impossible for the crook. Has it disarmed the New York gangsters? Of course not. All it has done is to hamper the citizen in his justifiable attempts to protect himself from them. Every thief I've ever met would prefer robbing an unarmed person to tackling an armed one. I, myself, have passed up several lucrative "scores" because I knew the proprietor was armed. Easy money in your pocket is one thing. Risking a bullet for it is something else.

Still another argument against prohibitive gun legislation is that not every Honest John will observe to the letter laws he thinks are "unfair" and "arbitrary." Remember the shot in the arm Prohibition gave crime. At present, under the Sullivan Law, the New York syndicates are making some, but not much, money from gun sales. But they are always looking for new rackets. Let the law-makers disarm the country and goons will bootleg guns as they once did booze.

Since criminals, not guns, commit crimes, it strikes this convict that taking away one of the citizen's means of self defense is not the best way to protect him. Instead of taking away his gun, I would advocate a nationwide program to teach him how to use it safely and accurately.

Such a program would also brief him on when not to try to stop a robbery. Too many people are killed and injured in ill-advised attempts to frustrate a robbery. A live witness is far more valuable than a brave dead man.

The trained witness of a crime should be able to supply police with such information as the bandit's height; approximate weight; hair color; unusual speech patterns; the way he walks; whether he is right or left-handed; eye color (if the witness can get that close); mode of getaway; his weapon (most bandits use the same gun all the time).

In court, this is the information that leads to convictions. And convictions attack the root of crime—the guilty man, not the guiltless gun.

Rip Alvarado 25-7

LHS Bats Cooled By Bemidji, Moorhead

by Bob Wielinski
Times Sports Writer

Thief River Falls Prowler baseball team won one and lost two games last week. The Prowlers started out by hosting Alvarado on Thursday and fell one run short of tieing an all-time school scoring record in a single game, as they scored a 25-7 win over the Indians. The school mark is 26 set in 1954.

On Friday the Prowlers traveled to Bemidji to open defense of their Northwest conference crown, but found the Lumberjack's Tom Hill throwing a two-hitter and defeating them by a 3-0 score. On Saturday, the Prowlers were once again shutout on another two-hitter, this by Greg Troland of Moorhead as the Spuds scored a 9-0 win over the Prowlers. This game was played on the Prowlers home diamond.

Hill and Troland are about the best two pitchers in the state of Minnesota along with Rich Eich of Little Falls. Hill had the Prowlers in check as the only hits were singles by Don Balmer and Gordy Peterson. He struck out 10 Prowlers while walking two. Troland, on Saturday, struck out 13 and walked two while allowing only two hits. They were collected by Tony Johnson and Balmer.

Alvarado Contest

On Thursday, the Prowlers led off by scoring seven runs in the first inning as they romped to the 25-7 win over the Alvarado Indians at the fairgrounds.

In that opening inning the Prowlers scored seven times on five hits and three Alvarado errors. Collecting hits in that frame were Dennis Johnson, two, (who finished the day with three hits in four at bats), Dana Stromberg, Gordy Peterson and Brian Peterson (who collected four hits in four trips to the plate and drove in four runs in his first start for the Prowlers).

Ken Lindquist started on the mound for the Prowlers and after an easy first inning found the Indians coming right back in the top of the second and tieing the score at 7-7. Tony Johnson came on in relief and put the Indians down.

The second inning found the Prowlers once again batting around as they sent 13 batters to the plate and eight of them came home to score. Once again Alvarado committed three errors in the field as the Prowlers collected four hits.

Tony Johnson and Mike Hamerlinck, who came in to pitch in the fifth inning, held the Indians scoreless the rest of the way as they managed only three hits in the final five innings.

The Prowlers added three runs in the third, two in the fourth and five in the sixth for their total.

Ten Prowlers collected a total of 16 hits for the day with Brian Peterson leading the way with four; Dennis Johnson with three; Don Balmer, Stromberg and Tony Johnson with two each; and Gordy Peterson, Tom Wurst, Steve Daley, Bruce Broughton, Dale Hansen all collected one hit each. Tony and Dennis Johnson and Dale Hanson each drove in two runs, but Brian Peterson had four runs batted in for the day.

Bemidji Contest

The Prowlers opened defense of their Northwest conference crown on Friday as they traveled to Bemidji to meet the Lumberjacks. The Prowlers played one of their best defensive games of the season, only to find two bloop hits providing a 3-0 win for the Jacks.

Tom Hill kept the bats of the Prowler quite as only Balmer and Gordy Peterson managed hits. Hill struck out 10 batters on his way to the victory.

Dan Sullivan pitched the entire game as he was the first Prowler to go the distance on the mound this season. Sullivan fell victim to two lucky hits of the Bemidji team in the second inning: a double by Dave Rose which hit the foul line to put men on second and third for the Jacks, and LeRoy Shadlow's single to drive in both runners, this just topping third base by less than six inches of being foul, thus giving the Jacks the 2-0 lead. They added a run in the fourth on a fielder's choice and a single by Shadlow. Sullivan, in going the distance, gave up the three runs on eight base hits, struck out three and walked only two as he showed good control throughout the contest.

The win was the second for the Jacks in league play while the loss was the first in loop action for the Prowlers.

Moorhead Contest

Moorhead came to Thief River Falls on Saturday and Dana Stromberg kept the Spuds within reach until they scored five runs in the top of the seventh inning and went on to win 9-0 over the Prowlers. Greg Troland, ace righthander for the Spuds, threw the second straight two-hitter and second straight shutout of the season against the Prowlers.

Moorhead scored a run in the first inning but Stromberg settled down and retired the next eight batters before Joe Savre hit a high outside pitch over the left field fence for the second run of the game for the Spuds. In that string Stromberg struck out six straight batters.

Moorhead added a run in each of the fourth and fifth innings and then broke the game wide open as they tallied five runs on five hits in the seventh inning. The big blows of the inning were doubles by Loren Lee and Kevin Reitz.

Troland, in going the route, struck out 13 Prowlers while walking two. Stromberg went the route for the Prowlers, struck out seven and walked three in giving up 10 hits.

New Action

The Prowlers are back in action today (Monday) as they host Fertile in a 6 p.m. contest and then travel to Roseau for a Northwest conference game on Tuesday. They will be idle on Wednesday and then travel to Crookston on Thursday for a 4:30 p.m. contest and host Bemidji in a 5 p.m. contest on Friday. Both the Crookston and Bemidji games will be conference action for the Prowlers. The Prowlers on the year are 3-3. The game which was rained out against Red Lake Falls on April 25 will be played at the fairgrounds on Tuesday, May 20.

Northland Tennis Team Drops Two During Week

First action for the Northland state junior college tennis team was at Itasca on Wednesday with Hibbing junior college winning the five-team meet.

Barry Froiland, Northland, was the only bright spot for the Northmen as he won his first round of play with Prosen, Itasca, by a scores of 6-2 and 6-2. Northland's doubles team composed of Nick Neibauer and Mike Thompson was unsuccessful in the doubles match.

A second round robin doubles and singles match with the University of North Dakota junior varsity tennis team on Thursday at Thief River was a clean sweep for the UND team. Participating for Northland were Barry Froiland, Rocco Wilson, Mike Thompson and Nick Neibauer, who, according to coach Al Adams, gained valuable experience in these dual matches.

Results of the matches were: Scott Bradvold, UND, over Barry Froiland, Northland, 8-6, 6-4. Jim Anderson, UND, over Rocky Wilson, Northland, 6-1, 6-1. Kevin Bauer, UND, over Mike Thompson, Northland, 6-2, 6-4. Kevin Bauer, UND, over Nick Neibauer, Northland, 6-2, 6-2.

UP AND OVER the high hurdles on Saturday during the preliminaries of the Prowler-Jaycee invitational meet are, left to right, John Halvorson, Roseau; Tim Olson, Thief River Falls, and Curt Becker, Bagley. Olson won the heat and placed fifth in the finals of the event in the afternoon.

Bemidji Walks To Win Invitational; TRF Third

by Bob Wielinski
Times Sports Writer

Capturing seven first places in the first annual Prowler-Jaycee Invitational track meet Saturday, the Bemidji Lumberjacks walked away with the team trophy with 93½ points. A distant second was Crookston, as they edged the Thief River Falls Prowlers by a 34½ to 33½ score. Roseau was fourth with 25 while East Grand Forks finished with 18 points to place among the top five teams. A total of 13 teams entered the meet with all but two scoring.

Bemidji dominated the meet as they captured the one-two positions in the 100 yard dash, mile run, the 440 yard run and the discus throw. In addition to that, they took first place in the long jump, 880 yard relay and the 220 yard run.

Crookston took three firsts in the high and low hurdles and in the mile relay, while Roseau had two in the high jump and pole vault events, and Warroad captured the 880 yard run and the sprint medley.

The closest Thief River Falls came to taking a first place was in the 880 yard relay where they finished second to Bemidji's fine team. Otherwise the Prowlers took four third place finishes, seven fourths and six fifth place finishes in the meet.

The only double winners in the meet were Dave Decker, Bemidji, and Wayne Wagner, Crookston. Decker set a new Lumberjack school record in the 100 yard dash as he ran it in 10.1 seconds, and then captured the 220 yard run with a time of 23.1.

Wagner took firsts in the high and low hurdles as he finished with a time of 22.1 in the lows and took the highs with a time of 16.1, which he ran in the preliminaries in the morning. In the afternoon he took first place with a time of 16.2, but his time in the morning running was awarded him because of his winning time in the afternoon.

Bemidji finished one-two in the 100 yard dash as Decker took first, followed by Wayne Olson. Their one-two finish in the mile run was by Tom and Dave Anderson, in the discus throw, Larry Bewley and Tony Burke; and in the 440, George Coloumbe and Bob Aalberts.

The Prowlers managed to place in every event except the high hurdles, pole vault and two mile run. Taking third place finishes were Darrold Rodahl in the high jump as he tied with Kim Everhart of Bagley for the number three position; Wayne Olson in the discus; and the relay teams in the mile and sprint medley.

Fourth place winners were Mark Kays in both the shot put and discus; Rex Rugland in the long jump; Rich Habedank in the 100 and 220 yard dashes; Kim Murphy in the mile; and Don Schindler in the 440.

Fifth places were garnered by Jon Swick in the high jump; Rugland in the 100 and 220 yard dashes; Neil Rondorf in the mile; Randy Wentzel in the 440; Tim Olson in the high hurdles; and John Harris in the 880.

Mens' Fast Pitch Loop To Meet

Anyone interested in playing or sponsoring a team in the Thief River Falls men's fast pitch softball league this summer is asked to attend a meeting to be held Thursday in the office of the parks and recreation director in the basement of the city auditorium.

Business of the meeting will be to schedule the Far North softball tournament, prepare schedules for the coming year and plan the annual banquet which is held every year.

Sponsors who can't make it to this meeting are asked to call and leave their names at the office of the parks and recreation director.

Northwest Loop Tennis Meet Set For Here Tuesday

Thief River Falls Prowler tennis team will host the fourth annual Northwest conference tennis meet on Tuesday at Lincoln high school and East Side tennis courts.

Bemidji is the defending champion and is favored to capture the meet once again this year. The Prowlers will be the top contender to take the crown from the Lumberjacks.

The Prowlers have defeated both East Grand Forks and Crookston in dual meets but on Friday were toppled by the Lumberjacks by a 5-4 score. Steve Edlund and Mark Thyren were the only two winners in the contest as the Prowlers Tom Nepper and the doubles team of Kip Poppenhagen and Dan Jorgenson were defeated by the Lumberjacks.

It is expected that Edlund will have little trouble in winning the number one singles championship this year as he has had little trouble from any of the number one men of the other three teams so far this season. Last year he missed the meet because he was sick, and Scott Johnson, Crookston, was the champion. Johnson is expected to be back this year, but in the dual meet against the Prowlers he was the Pirates' number two man.

There are three Prowlers who will more than likely battle for the number two and three singles spot—Stuart Waltonen, Tom Nepper and Mark Thyren.

The doubles team for coach Whitey Olson will more than likely be Poppenhagen and Jorgenson, unless Poppenhagen moves into the singles competition and Olson finds a new partner for Jorgenson. Last year Poppenhagen was District 31 and Region Eight champion at the number two position.

Those expected to take part from the other teams are as follows: Crookston: Bruce Belchart, number one singles; Scott Johnson, number two singles; Bob Menzuber, number three singles; and Dennis Martin and Dave Ross, doubles.

East Grand Forks: Jay Forney, number one singles; Bill Gary, number two singles; Tom Lang, number three singles; and Steve Gravseth and Clive Weltzel, doubles. Bemidji will more than likely change their complete set-up as they have done in the past.

The meet begins at 10 a.m. on Tuesday and should provide some top tennis matches throughout the entire day.

Northland Golf Team Third In Itasca Meet

Northland state junior college golfers placed third in a six-team match at Itasca on Wednesday.

Team play and scoring was based on 18-hole medal play with each team consisting of five players with the four lowest scores counting toward team standings.

Team results were as follows: Itasca 305; Mesabi 336; Northland 343; Hibbing 350; and Brainerd 362. Ely entered only three men so didn't figure in the team score.

Medalist honors went to Ken Oja, Itasca, with a score of 74. The four low scorers for Northland were: Emery Wicklander, 84; Scott Brummer, 85; Jay Guillemette, 85; and John Adolphson, 89.

Next action for the Northmen will be May 7 when Northland will host an invitational meet at the Thief River country club.

Prowler Golfers Capture First at Bagley Meet

Lincoln high school golf team opened the season on Thursday by taking part in the Bagley invitational meet at the Bagley golf course. Ten teams were entered in the event with the Prowlers coming out on top with a 247 score.

On Friday the Prowlers traveled to Fargo for a 20-team invitational and finished fifth, according to head coach Jack Boyer, although no results were turned in to the Times office.

In the match on Thursday the Prowlers edged out Red Lake Falls by one stroke to take home first place in the meet. The Eagles finished with a 248. In third place was Bemidji with a 254; Ada was fourth with a 265 and Bagley was fifth with a 266.

Taking medalist honors for the meet was Steve Phillion, Red Lake Falls, with a 77; runner-up was Jim Hofius, also of the Eagles, with an 81.

Topping the Prowlers in scoring were Rob Womack and Jay Moum with 82's. Mark Charlson and Randy Carlson followed with 83's, Roger Relerson with an 85 and Tim Carlson with an 87. Both Womack and Moum had identical 41-41 for their 82 total. Relerson shot a 41 on the front nine holes but shot a 44 on the back nine for his 85. Charlson started with a 42 on the first nine and then scored a 40 on the second nine for his total of 83. Tim Carlson had a 42 on the front nine and carded a 45 on the second nine for a total of 87.

Next action for the Prowlers will be on Wednesday as they travel to Grand Forks for a quadrangular meet with Crookston, Grand Forks Central and Grand Forks St. James. On Friday they will travel to Roseau to take part in the Rams invitational.

Bertogliat Resigns As Goodridge Football Coach

Goodridge high school athletic director Glen Peters announced recently that head football coach Julian Bertogliat has resigned the position at the school and will be moving to Esko high school where he will be assistant football and track coach next year.

Bertogliat took over the head coaching duties from Peters this past fall and guided the Huskies to a third place tie in the North Tri-County conference with a 4-2-1 record, posting an overall 4-3-2 mark. He was also assistant to Peters in basketball.

Three members of the Goodridge team were voted all-conference selections this past year and indications are that the Huskies will have a veteran line-up back next fall.

As of Friday, the head football position and assistant basketball job at Goodridge remained open.

SUPERVISED ACTIVITY for boys in the fifth, sixth and seventh grades was provided during the winter months in a Wednesday night recreation program at Franklin junior high school. Orall Johnson, counselor, and Cheryl Hoff, school social worker, supervised play, swimming and recreation. Assistance was given by five junior college boys—Ed Walseth, Jerry Marks, Lee Walseth, Larry Swanson and Bruce Wold. Objective of the program was to develop character and a sense of responsibility for the boys in the program as well as to provide a healthful activity, Miss Hoff said. Several of the junior college boys are shown with the younger participants in the above photos.

Highway Dep't. Will Help Resort Industry

Tourists have difficulty locating resorts. They know where they want to go, but cannot find their way. Many roads leading off the state highways are not well marked.

The highway department has just announced a road marking policy which will greatly aid the tourist in finding the resort for which he is looking, C. M. Larson, district engineer of the Bemidji state highway district, an area with many resorts, said that all directional signs will be erected in his area by the end of 1969.

Representatives from several resort associations have worked with the highway department in reviewing policies regarding signs for resort areas and the convenience of travelers. In realization of the special needs of the resort industry, the following policies were formulated:

1. When the access to a resort is via a number or named county or other road, appropriate identification of such road or other named route will be provided on the state highway by the state.

2. Where resorts are located in an area that is identified by name, or on a named bay, or other geographical designation accessible from a common access road, a guide sign will be placed on the state highway indicating the designated name and direction to the area, bay or lake.

3. When a resort near a state highway is not visible from that highway, and a sign cannot be located on private property so as to be effectively seen by approaching drivers because of width of highway right-of-way and growth of timber, and the access to the resort from the highway is a private road and entrance, then the state will erect an identification sign adjacent to the point where the road or entrance leaves the highway.

Originally the resort industry was made up of a few primitive accommodations. But with the coming of the motor car and better roads, nearly every accessible lake had accommodations for fishermen, campers and families to spend their vacations. Soon the trails through the countryside were littered with directional signs to enable the motorist to find these resorts or camps. The signs became so numerous that means were taken by the state to govern the placing of signs at road intersections.

The rise of additional resorts (nearly 4,000) resulted in numerous slat-type signs on a post at intersections, and signboards appeared bearing the names of dozens of resorts. The promiscuous signing slowed traffic, created safety hazards and cluttered the scenic countryside, all of which was instrumental in proposing legislative action to control resort signing, the highway department reports.

Eventually, Minnesota will have several travel information centers on major highways located at entrances to the state, which will contain bulletin boards with information and directions to reach the resort areas. Rest areas will also have bulletin boards containing information.

The highway department, as the policy indicates, will begin posting advance and road identification signs in the manner trunk highways are now identified. No signs will be erected on Interstate highways which already carry a more sophisticated signing system.

In many cases, supplemental guide signing may be placed to provide additional information on particular lakes or areas, which may be isolated and present a situation not normal to typical areas.

Road Contract Let by County In Grygla Area

Road construction contracts were awarded by the Marshall county board of commissioners in special session last week.

The board awarded two bids, one of which will affect the Grygla area. The contract was awarded for construction on 8.6 miles of CSAH 54 between the south county line and highway 89 near Grygla. The successful bidder was Kolstrof construction of Lake George with a bid of $150,237.40. The only other bidder was Holthusen construction, Grygla, with a bid of $165,961.75.

Get Away From the Crowd On Minnesota's New Fun Trails
By Curt Bernd
(Trail system coordinator, Division of Parks and Recreation, Minnesota Conservation Department)

Minnesota is on its way to developing a state-wide system of trails where those who want to get away from the cars and the crowds can find a quiet and leisurely thoroughfare to travel as they enjoy the outdoor scene.

Already authorized by the legislature and on the way to development are 16 canoe routes. The designated rivers and streams are described in detail in the new publication "Minnesota Voyageur Trails". Edited by the staff of the Minnesota Conservation department's information bureau, with maps prepared by the division of parks and recreation, the book is available from the State Documents Section, 140 Centennial Building, St. Paul at a price of $2 per copy (sales tax included).

So-called "development work" on the canoe trails will be held to a minimum. The natural scene will be preserved as much as possible. Signs used to mark rapids, falls, campsites and portages will be few and of a rustic nature. Small primitive camp sites will be created along the streams at regular intervals and provide only rudimentary facilities. Access to the streams will be controlled by judicious placing of canoe launching sites.

Because of the unpredictable nature of water-flow in some of the streams—and the importance of this factor to safe canoeing—the conservation department this summer will establish an information center which "voyageurs" can contact for water conditions on streams they are planning to travel.

Snowmobiles have also received considerable attention by the department. Devotees of Minnesota's fastest growing sport have some 1,200 miles of posted trails on state and federal land available for use, and more trails are planned for development during the next two years.

A brochure listing state laws on snowmobile use and containing a map showing the location of the trails is available without charge from the Minnesota Conservation Department, Bureau of Information, 350 Centennial Building, St. Paul. Trail maps are also available at the individual locations.

In many cases these same snowmobile trails will also be available for hiking and horseback riding during the spring, summer and fall seasons. One should check with the local information source listed to find out what trails are available for the desired use and for existing conditions (fire danger, wet surface, etc.). Authorization for establishment of five routes will be requested of the legislature now in session. The five routes are as follows:

1) From the Twin Cities to Taylors Falls, thence paralleling the St. Croix river, and thence northerly ending at Jay Cooke state park near Duluth;

2) From Ft. Snelling state park south along the Minnesota river to LeSueur;

3) From the Twin Cities west, toward the Willmar area;

4) From Sibley state park near Willmar through Glacial lake state park to Lake Carlos state park;

5) Along the Cannon river from Faribault to the river's junction with the Mississippi.

The trails would be open to hiking, horseback riding and snowmobiles, but motorcycles and trail bikes will not be permitted because of the danger involved.

The Minnesota trails system would tie in with two federal trails being proposed—one planned to cross northern Minnesota and the other along the Mississippi river.

One multi-purpose trail of the kind described here has already been established. At the 1967 legislative session the "Casey Jones" trail was authorized from Pipestone to Lake Shetek state park. The abandoned railroad right of way used for this is also a designated state-owned wildlife management area. While hiking and horseback riding are permitted on this trail, snowmobiling is forbidden in order to avoid disturbing pheasants which seek winter cover in the tall grass and brush.

Primitive camping sites and primitive toilets would be established at various places along the land trails, similar to those on the canoe routes.

Those who enjoy bicycle riding should know that a demonstration trail is being planned for a location near the Twin Cities. If it proves popular and practical, more such trails may be created during the coming years.

If estimates are correct, and judging from the response in other states, the creation of a trail system will add an important new dimension to outdoor recreation in Minnesota. Hiking has been an important outdoor recreation pursuit for many years in the Rockies and the eastern mountains. Both land and water trails give access to scenic vistas not seen from the highways, which are built to provide the shortest possible route between two locations and to avoid broken terrain and water obstacles if possible.

Those using Minnesota's new trails may well see sights they didn't even know existed in the state. And unlike freeway travellers, they will be able to stop whenever they choose and enjoy the view.

Polaris Builds 80x360 Steel Plant Addition

Polaris Industries has announced that construction has begun on a new 80x360 addition to the present plant in Roseau. The building, which will be all steel, is being erected to the west of the present accounting and parts building.

The new addition is to be used to house expanded parts department, additional quarters for the maintenance crews and for parts storage.

The new building is expected to arrive in mid-May and erection is expected to be complete for occupancy this summer.

Polaris also announced that its distributors' show is set for the Thunderbird Motel in Minneapolis on May 26.

Veterans and nonveterans alike can purchase from the Veterans administration houses originally financed with GI loans.

Lamp Adjustment Helps Improve Home Lighting

Sometimes a few simple adjustments in your lamps will give you just the improvement in lighting you need, according to Glenda Humphries, extension specialist in household equipment and assistant professor at the University of Minnesota.

When a bulb in a lamp is too high, it restricts the downward circle of light and shines into the eyes of persons standing near. If you have that problem, you can lift the lampshade with a riser. Risers come in multiples of one-half inch and can be screwed to the top of the harp.

If the bulb is too low in the lamp and shows beneath the lower edge of the shade, replace the lampshade with one that is deeper or use a shorter harp or a different diffusing bowl.

Another reason for poor lighting could be that the lamp base is too short, and the light is not shining at the proper level. If so, set the base on wood, marble, ceramic or metal blocks to raise the lamp to the proper height. For ease in handling the lamp, make sure you cement the block to the base.

Shades can make a big difference in light intensities. Shades should be made of translucent materials with white or near-white linings and open tops. You may use color on the outside of the shade if the inside is white; however, neutral or pale tints, off-white, beige and light gray are preferred.

Keep all light sources operating efficiently by replacing blackened bulbs promptly. Replace present bulbs with those of higher wattage, but do not exceed the rated wattage of the lamp. For better control of lighting, use three-way sockets and bulbs.

One of the easiest ways to improve lighting is to keep your home lighting equipment in good condition by regular cleaning. A collection of dirt and dust on bulbs, diffusion bowls, lampshades and fixtures can cause a substantial loss in light output.

A Little Humor

Into every legislative session a little levity must fall. Such was the case last week when the House general legislation committee in Minnesota passed, amid snickers, a bill banning pay toilets in public places.

Rep. Andrew Skaar of Thief River Falls was listed in the Minneapolis Tribune as the bill's sponsor, and quoted as saying: "I think this could be the greatest relief measure of the session." We imagine this produced everything from guarded giggles to generous guffaws in both the House and Senate.

Meanwhile, back at the precinct, the humor is a little less spontaneous. Taxpayers are facing a crisis annually as their contributions to the coffers of increasingly expensive government continue to grow. Education legislation in the last session has the potential of creating a shambles of Minnesota's quality education program. Highways are deteriorating faster than they can be built or maintained. Wildlife resources are suffering from inadequately financed programs. Pollution is a major problem which is yet unsolved. Minnesota—for all its greatness—has troubles that need attention.

Minnesota's people look to the legislature wistfully, harboring the fading hope that the learned men there will find solutions to these troubles. Legislators and others say legislative sessions should be held annually because of the overburdening load of work to be considered. This year the law-making body has been in the pangs of false labor since early January and brought forth nothing.

Then one learns that valuable time is being spent on such nonsense as prohibiting pay toilets. You'd think a legislator would be ashamed to have his name connected with such a bill. Honest John!!

Pesticide Problem

Concerned opposition is beginning to build against the use of DDT and other pesticides which do not become harmless over a short period of time. Danger of DDT to animal life—including humans—has been known for some time, but public interest has not been aroused to a degree whereby our law-makers can be stimulated to act.

When first discovered, DDT was considered a boon to mankind. It was effective against insects which destroyed crops or carried disease or made life uncomfortable for humans. With proper application in proper amounts it was no immediate health problem.

Over the years, however, the situation has changed. DDT retains its toxic nature indefinitely. It has been found in penguins in Antarctica and reindeer in Alaska, although it may have been applied to areas thousands of miles away. Its residue has been carried by water from tiny streams to ocean currents throughout the world.

It has been said that Americans have an average of 12 parts per million of DDT in their fatty tissues. A steak with that concentration would be declared unfit for animal consumption by the federal food and drug administration!

Across the country, concerned people are beginning to call for a ban on pesticides. Arizona and Michigan have already temporarily banned DDT. A national advisory committee has been named to make a six-month study on the health hazards of pesticides. Findings of that committee will be most interesting, but likely will not get as much play in the press as the highly-publicized report on smoking and health. This will be true although pesticide residue would affect far more people than cigarette smoking.

Work must continue to find suitable substitutes for existing common pesticides which present a residual concentration danger. Pesticides will continue to be necessary as agriculture seeks to feed rapidly growing world populations. Successful substitutes to present insect control chemicals must be found, or man will eventually kill himself while fighting his insect enemies.

How to Stop Inflation

Following is part of an editorial from the Wheaton "Gazette" which gives the editor's opinion on how to stop inflation:

Inflation, as we understand it, is nothing more than devaluation of the dollar caused by continuing price rise. In other words, the value on products inflates, while the dollar deflates. A dollar which you earn for let's say a half-hour's work today can buy about three loaves of bread. Suppose a year from now, the price of bread goes up to 50 cents a loaf. Had you saved a dollar earned to day and spent it on bread a year from now, you would only have two loaves. Your product, the bread, would have an inflated value in relation to the value of the dollar you earned to buy it.

There is little question in anyone's mind about the fact that we are living in a day of inflation. The federal government has been very concerned about this situation and has attempted steps to halt it.

But nothing the federal government has done has had much effect. And the reason is pretty obvious. The federal government itself stands as the prime cause of our inflation today.

The federal government operates on the premise that the way to stop inflation is to cut back on spending. They have tried to encourage this by various means, the most pronounced during the past year when they added a 10 per cent surcharge to income taxes. The claim was made that this additional tax was made not to gain more money for the federal coffers, but rather to take money out of circulation, cut back private spending, and halt inflation.

Yet the federal government continues to spend money at new record level. There has been little indication of any thrift in federal spending. The government has been guilty in many areas of reckless spending which breeds inflationary conditions.

We've been told that some people are getting sick of hearing others rant and rave about high taxes. Well, let them get sick of it. We intend to keep on ranting and raving. Taxes are high, far too high! When you consider what the average man must pay in federal income taxes, in state income taxes, in real estate and property taxes, in sales taxes, and in multitude of hidden taxes added to the price of nearly every product you buy, you will soon discover that over half of his working hours are put in JUST TO PAY THE TAXES. That's a lot more government than we need or want.

Anyone who thinks that there is no room for complaint about high taxes today is an utter fool. He hasn't the vaguest idea of how much government the American people are paying for.

What causes inflation? Taxes upon taxes upon taxes—that's what causes inflation. And the only real cure must attack the source of the problem.

One Who Suffers Most

The following letter to the editor appeared in the Chicago Tribune and should be published in every paper in America, for it shows the very attitude that has made this nation great:

I understand that here in Illinois, welfare cuts are being contemplated, and there will be a march protesting such cuts.

Well, I will welcome such cuts, provided all recipients are investigated and the ineligibles, black and white, are rooted out, and that this action will not be directed to the black community only.

I come from Mississippi, but I have never felt that anyone owned me a living.

I see discrimination in every phase of life in Chicago, yet I never felt that this was reason enough not to work.

I realize there are individuals for whom welfare is absolutely necessary, but not simply because they were born in the ghetto. I know individuals who are on welfare, yet work - live in public housing, yet have roomers - on ADC, yet have husbands living with them.

And I am tired of taking care of such free-loaders.

Taxes constantly are going up, yet I see so many of these "welfare recipients" owning homes (we can hardly afford to rent). They drive new cars (we have a vintage model, and can hardly buy gas for it).

Yet we must work every day to make a way for loafers. I deeply resent it.

It's time something were done to lighten the load of the average taxpayer.

Legis Lative Letter

from ANDREW SKAAR

STATE REPRESENTATIVE

For the first time in six years, hunting and fishing license fees will be increased across the board. For example, the small game licenses would be increased from $2 to $4; the deer firearms license would go from $5 to $7.50; the individual angling license would be stepped up from $2.25 to $4. I voted against this increase but both House and Senate have now approved it so we will have to live with it.

The division of game and fish is financed by license fee money and the inflationary pressure has resulted in a serious financial squeeze for the department. I would prefer to have the license fee money deposited in the general revenue fund and have the department come before the legislature to prove their case and to be funded on the basis of need, and not be dependent upon license fee money for the operation of the department.

The fee increase bill will also provide money for expanded programs for the improvement of wildlife habitat and fish propagation. Supporters of the bill indicated that more than one million dollars will be spent for these programs in the coming biennium.

An expanded deer management program, which as you will recall was started during the snow crises in northern Minnesota in January, is being developed. Under present plans, up to 1,500 deer "yards" in 25 counties will be mapped and these yards will be improved by contract work with private loggers and state crews.

Winter food conditions for deer will be improved through the rotation of timber cuttings, supervised burnings and bulldozing operations in cooperation with forestry agencies. This habitat improvement is planned for federal, state, county and private lands, and it is expected that more than $600,000 will be spent for this part of the program.

Southern and western Minnesota will receive attention from the department in a broad effort to improve pheasant and duck habitat. About 30 dams and dikes, numerous tree and shrub plantings and nesting cover and food plots are now "on the drawing boards." This work will be done under contract with landowners and by state crews in 60 counties of Minnesota.

Additional funds will also be used for a greatly-expanded game fish management program during the next biennium. Several larger lakes will be rehabilitated, artificial spawning areas will be created and the northwestern Minnesota walleye hatchery will be reconstructed.

Another measure which received favorable action this week would permit the transfer of three and one-half million dollars from the general revenue fund to the department of conservation. This would provide operating money for the department in the event license fee sales fell off or if it became necessary to close seasons for a period of time. In other words, the department would not be dependent upon license sales for continued sound operation.

CAPITOL COMMENT

BY MARTY MCGOWAN

A number of unusual things have been happening at the legislative session. To summarize them this report will consist of a pat paurri covering a variety of subjects.

Following up the discussion last week about regents of the University of Minnesota, the House higher education committee removed two more incumbents from the slate of nominees. One had been named by Gov. LeVander to fill a vacancy. If their replacements are elected there would be four new members on the 12-member board. Only two of the incumbents up for consideration appear likely to return in the balloting this year.

With the rejection of three incumbents, the legislature appeared to be expressing its dissatisfaction with the way the university administration handled a recent racial situation there, the Morrill hall takeover. As indicated last week, this selection of regents is one of the ways the legislature has of exercising some control over the university. The personnel is not all that important, but the message is clear.

The two new nominees would restore to the board of regents a representative of labor and one from the Mayo organization in Rochester. Legislators obviously feel these two segments of the population should be represented. A more recent move has been the effort to get a minority member nominated and this suggestion has merit, considering the recent problems at the university.

In another area the matter of public notice keeps coming under fire. Each session there are moves to raise the limits above which competitive bids must be called by counties, school districts and municipalities. This session is no different.

One bill suggests that county financial statements be shortened to summaries. Another bill would allow the commissioner of administration to purchase meat from a vocational school for state institutions without calling bids. One move in the opposite direction is a bill to require publication of school district budgets.

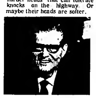
Most of these moves for condensing publications, proceedings and legal notice are proposed under the guise of saving money. The League of Municipalities and the county government organization are two which constantly press for such measures. However, these groups are not organized to serve the public, just the officials who work for the public. Many public officials regard public notice and calling bids as nuisances. They would rather be free to run their offices like private domains.

Public notice and publication of proceedings have proven their worth many times in the past by preventing shenanigans by public officials. In the long run the small amount expended on such publications saves money by keeping the bids down and the public informed.

Those favoring a moratorium on enforcement of the fair trade law on liquor prices pulled a fast one in committee last week. Although their measure was defeated in the committee on regulated industries, they introduced a constitutional amendment bill that went to the general legislation committee. The bill was a dummy bill, since once it went to committee the authors amended everything except the file number and put the liquor measure in place of the constitutional amendment. The proponents of the moratorium got the bill out of committee but when it reached the floor it was ruled out of order.

Most unusual proposal of the week voted by a senate committee was one which would remove from those age 21 and older the requirement for wearing crash helmets while riding motorcycles. Reason given was that beginning riders under age 21 need the helmets more than older riders, some of whom are challenging the constitutionality of the present law.

Highway department officials rightly called this bill a step backward in highway safety. One wonders if those over age 21 have harder heads that can tolerate knocks on the highway. Or maybe their heads are softer.



Governor LeVander Reports

I have recently signed an important piece of legislation which will protect our citizens against the dangerous effects of pesticides by restricting their use if necessary.

The new law gives the State Commissioner of Agriculture broad powers to control the time, place, amount and type of pesticides to be used.

Because the discovery of pollution and contamination caused by DDT and other pesticides is a relatively new concern, it is, in many instances, the cause of emotionalism. I personally am pleased that the Minnesota Legislature has enacted a law which provides for the exercise of proper control to any degree necessary for the safety of the people.

I recently attended a conference in Chicago with the Governors of Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin and Indiana aimed at finding ways to further protect against pollution in the Great Lakes by pesticide controls.

I was very pleased to learn at this meeting that Minnesota is once again a leader in preparing for potential problems. As far back as 1962, the State of Minnesota quit using DDT to spray on State-owned lands.

Other government agencies such as the Metropolitan Mosquito Control District have quit using DDT as well.

We have also been involved for years in studies relating to the effect of pesticides on plants, animals and foods for human consumption.

It was decided at the meeting to establish four technical committees consisting of experts from each state, to quickly study water pollution, public health, agriculture and natural resources, and recreation as each might be affected by pesticides.

The Governors also requested the Federal government to wait to establish pesticide tolerance levels in fish until the committees report on July 1.

And, as a third protective step, we decided to step up monitoring programs in each state to better determine the amount of pesticides being placed into the Great Lakes and what detriment they might present to fish.

As I said before, I am very pleased after talking with the other Governors, to note that Minnesota has greatly curtailed the potential of the pesticide problem.

Still, I am determined that we will take every necessary precaution to see that no danger develops.

Study Methods To Help Safety At RR Crossings

Methods for improving automobile safety at highway railroad crossings in Minnesota are being studied by a "diagnostic team," according to N. T. Waldor, state highway commissioner.

The team is made up of representatives of the Minnesota state highway department, the U. S. bureau of public roads, the Minnesota public service commission, the Minnesota highway patrol and railroads operating in the state.

"Of primary interest to the team," Commissioner Waldor said, "is the basic problem of calling drivers' attention that a grade crossing exists in the immediate vicinity and providing sufficient time for the individual driver to react."

Sight distance, approach grades, speed limits, existing protection and volumes of traffic are being studied. Less obvious factors such as the presence of factories, distracting signs and the angle at which the tracks cross the road are also included.

The study, part of a nationwide program being conducted through the U. S. bureau of public roads, will include a national inventory of highway-railroad grade crossings. Through a sampling in each state of one grade crossing for each four thousand miles of federal aid highways, the effectiveness of protection currently provided for motorists will be analyzed.

As needs are identified by the local team they will be brought to the attention of the proper authority for corrective action. The group will also look into the feasibility of developing a priority rating that can be used for all crossings.

Minigarden Is Possible If Space Is Problem

Growing vegetables in a minigarden can be fun for youngsters—as well as for the not-so-young. If you have a windowsill, a balcony or a doorstep you have enough space for a minigarden, says Orrin Turnquist, extension horticulturist at the University of Minnesota.

The basic materials you'll need for a minigarden are some containers, synthetic soil and some seeds. A large redwood tub, plastic or clay pots, and old pail, a plastic bucket or a wire basket will all work. Almost any container is satisfactory—from tiny pots for your kitchen windowsill to large wooden boxes for your patio. But make sure every container has holes in the bottom to provide for adequate drainage.

You can buy a soil substitute, or synthetic soil, prepared from a mixture of horticultural vermiculite, peat moss and fertilizer. This mixture comes ready to use and is available at garden supply centers and seed dealers.

You can also prepare your own soil substitute from peat moss, compost and a 10-10-10 fertilizer. Use a three or four inch potful of 10-10-10 fertilizer for every three bushels of soil. Mix this material thoroughly. If the material is very dry, add a little water to reduce dust during mixing.

You can also incorporate some vegetables along with flowers in the border, or close to buildings. But make sure you add organic matter to the soil at the rate of three to four bushels per 100 square feet, and till the soil thoroughly.

Success in minigardening depends partly on the quality of the seed you plant. Vegetable seed envelopes are stamped with the year in which they should be planted. Old seed often germinates poorly and doesn't grow vigorously, so don't use last year's seed.

Turnquist suggests using tomato plants or peppers surrounded by several leaf lettuce plants to give a "tossed salad" effect. Recommended varieties are Patio tomato, Pinocchio pepper and Buttercrunch or Grand Rapids lettuce.

A minigarden can provide you with a dual purpose—beauty and utility. The foliage of carrots, colorful tops of beets and purple and red color of sweet corn will make an attractive combination. Steak tomatoes will add orange and red color and provide an accent in the border.

Advise Use of Policy Number On GI Insurance

The Veterans administration—which handles six million policies—urges veterans or their dependents who write the VA concerning GI insurance to include the policy number on all correspondence to assure an early reply.

If a veteran is unable to provide the number that will identify his policy, then he is advised to include his "C" number—the claim number which is assigned to each veteran who has filed for any VA benefit. The identifying insurance policy number or "C" number will allow VA to take action on the request without delay.

John R. Murphy, manager of the VA center in St. Paul, said the veteran who cannot include either number should report this fact when communicating with the VA and include his military serial number, date and place of birth, and full name. Letters with inadequate information have to be returned. All correspondence concerning insurance should be sent to the VA insurance office to which the veteran sends his premium payments—St. Paul or Philadelphia.

Murphy said inquiries concerning other veterans benefits, including those relating to the new GI bill (which covers veterans with service after Jan. 31, 1955), should be made at the VA center, St. Paul or at their nearest veterans county service officer.

National Parks Will Restrict Visitor Service

Sharp cutbacks have been made in visitor services at national park service areas, according to the Minnesota AAA.

Many visitor and information services at national parks will be manned on a curtailed schedule this summer, and a number will be open five days a week instead of the usual seven days. Generally, facilities will be closed down the early part of the week and will operate on weekends, the motoring organization reported.

These cuts in service were made necessary by the federal economy drive which resulted in a reduction in personnel, according to the park service.

BUYER BEWARE BE WISE

DOUGLAS M. HEAD
Attorney General
State of Minnesota

One of the fastest-growing—and one of the most deceptive—merchandising techniques in the nation today is "pyramid selling", a complex plan usually concerned more with the endless recruiting of distributors than with actual product sales to the public.

In a typical pyramid selling scheme, the promotor of a "revolutionary new product", such as a cleaning solvent or an ingenious automobile stabilizing device, persuades small investors that they can earn tremendous profits by serving as distributors of the product.

Prospective distributors are told that they can make huge sums of money—incomes of $100,000 and more—by recruiting sub-distributors and retailers.

One multi-distributorship project, called the "Terrific Success Plan", promised distributors a large percentage of their recruits' investments and an override on all of their cleaning solvent sales.

The promotor of this plan invited potential investors to lavish dinners and told them that they could easily make $15,000 a year as cleaning solvent distributors.

Investors were assured that their investments were secured by inventory at a commercial warehouse, and were given impressive looking—but phony—warehouse receipts. Instead of making handsome profits, investors in the "Terrific Sales Plan" lost nearly $400,000.

Often, promotors tell investors that they have fabulous money-making products but that they lack the money to market them. Investors are then offered a chance to make a huge profit by investing substantial amounts of money in the marketing programs.

Investors are told to tell their friends that they, too, have an opportunity to invest in the programs, with the result that everyone supposedly profits through an endless chain of investors.

But it doesn't work that way. If one person recruits 10 people, and each of those 10 recruits an additional 10, there are 100 people each looking for 10 more investors. For the pyramid to expand to just eight more levels, it would require the participation of a billion people.

If recruits can't be found, and that often is the case, then the investor must rely on the sale of the product he is distributing. Past experience suggests that the "revolutionary" new products are rarely sold, and that investors are extremely lucky if they can get back their original investment.

Good bargains are hard to come by, and that's what makes discount buying guides attractive to consumers.

After all, who wouldn't like to save $1,000 on a new car, or get 50 per cent off on brand name furniture, appliances and cameras, or purchase a nationally advertised boat at a 70 per cent discount.

Or, to be more particular, a new Impala for $2,300, a $240 range for $122, or a $20 electric shaver for $9.88.

Those are just a few of the bargains supposedly available through one company's "buying service".

All you have to do to get those and other bargains, the company says, is to pay a $5 annual membership fee.

The promotional literature of such a company might give the impression that it is a huge purchasing center offering a variety of products for sale.

This is not the case, however. This type of company does not sell merchandise. It merely sells catalogs that contain the names of stores which supposedly sell merchandise at discount prices.

That's important to remember. These companies do not guarantee that you can buy the merchandise included in their buying guides at the listed discount prices.

In fact, the firms seldom have any arrangements whatsoever with the manufacturers or sellers of the "discount" merchandise.

For your annual membership fee you will receive just a few publications telling you how much to pay for certain items, and where you can buy merchandise at discount prices.

The companies selling the buying guides have no control over the stores included in their catalogs. Thus, the prices a store charged for certain items at the time a catalog was published, may have increased in the meantime.

What's more, the fantastic "discounts" are not all that great. The prices listed in the catalogs are often misleading. Many of the "discount" prices listed in the catalogs are based on outrageously-high "retail" prices.

"Retail" and "discount" prices stand side by side in the catalogs. The listed products, however, are seldom if ever, sold by any companies at the listed "retail" prices.

These companies should not be confused with organizations which test products and then publish consumer reports on the results of such tests. These latter organizations evaluate certain products, and do not tell you where you can buy merchandise at discount prices.

Most new car dealers treat their customers fairly. These dealers depend on their fair dealing to maintain a reputable position in the buying community.

There are a few dealers, however, who use deception to sell cars. This deception can take on several forms. One of the varities our office hears about most frequently is commonly known as "bushing".

Here's how it works.

Let's say you are in the market for a sporty new convertible. Naturally, you want to get the best deal available, so you shop around and compare the prices quoted by various dealers.

Most dealers make a similar offer—your old car in trade and $2,000 in cash.

One dealer, however, says he can sell the car for a cash difference of only $1,850. You take him up on the offer, tell him to have the car ordered, and sign a form agreeing to pay a cash balance of $1,850.

He says that the car should be ready for pick-up in about six weeks. Six weeks later, you call on the salesman. He looks unhappy, and tells you that the car has arrived, but that he has some bad news—his sales manager won't approve the order. You'll have to pay an additional $300 to get the car, he says.

You become angry, and tell him that the contract called for a payment of only $1,850. He says what you signed was not a contract, just an order form.

If you're like many people who have been confronted with this take-it-or-leave-it situation, chances are you'll pay the extra money.

You'll probably want the car too badly to back off from the deal. If you do pay the extra cash, you will join the ranks of other Minnesotans who have been similarly "bushed".

"Bushing" works in other ways, too. Delivery of a new car may, for one reason or another, be delayed; or it might arrive, but not with the right equipment—or in the right color.

After several delays, the salesman hints that if you ever want to get the car as ordered, you'll have to pay more money; or he might say that the trade-in allowance on your car has gone down because of the many additional miles you drove while awaiting delivery of the new car.

When you order a new car, be sure you have a clear understanding with the salesman. Find out whether the agreement you sign is a valid contract or simply an order blank. If you are confronted with a take-it-or-leave-it bushing situation, consult your attorney concerning your rights.

Now that spring has officially arrived, itinerant repairmen, transient peddlers, and others will begin moving into the state in hopes of peddling grossly over-priced products and services to Minnesota homeowners.

Each spring, our Consumer Division receives hundreds of complaints from irate residents. Here are some of the recurring problems we hear about most frequently at this time of the year.

One of the classic frauds is used by the humus peddler who arrives in a truck at your door, offers an impressive-looking topsoil to bring your brown lawn back to life, and says that several bushels at a dollar apiece should do the job.

You give him the go ahead, resume your household duties, and before long he presents you with a bill for $200 to $300. Either pay up, he tells you, or court action will be taken. Many people confronted with this situation end up paying because they have no way of knowing for sure just how much topsoil was spread on the lawn.

The springtime weather also brings out several phony roof repairmen. A transient roofer may knock at your door, identify himself as an experienced roofer who has been working in your area, and tell you that he noticed your roof needs fixing.

If you let him go ahead with the work, he may present you with a staggering bill. And often the roof probably never needed fixing in the first place. If the roof really did need work, chances are the roofer didn't make the needed repairs.

Another recurring springtime fraud has cost many Minnesotans the loss of expensive lawn tools. Strangers may come to your door, identify themselves as representatives of local, reputable dealers, and offer to clean or sharpen your lawn tools for a fair price. If you hand over your tools, however, you may never see them again.

Itinerant termite "experts" also make the rounds each spring. One of these so-called experts will examine your trees and shrubs, and then declare that they have been infested with termites. Unless something is done immediately, you are told, the termites might get into your house and destroy everything. The fees of these "experts" are exorbitant. And often, they do their work even though there were never any termites anywhere near the house.

Itinerant house painters also con many Minnesotans each spring. Some unscrupulous painters will coat your house with a paint of such poor-quality that it will wash off with the first, heavy rain.

Strangers may also approach you and offer to resurface your driveway at what sounds like a bargain price. If you let these strangers do the job, however, often they will do no more than spray a mixture of crankcase oil and gasoline on the drive-way. It looks nice, but it never dries.

Minnesotans should be on guard against these and other consumer frauds. Always try to deal with local companies of known reliability. And remember—deals which sound too good to be true usually are.

FISHING LINES

By DICK WOLFF

A CHILLING CHALLENGE

In the early morning darkness we hunched into the deep collars of our coats as we left our car at Woodcleft Canal, Freeport, and boarded the party boat, Captain Al. The cold breeze off the canal mixed the smell of clams with the perfume of hot coffee coming from the boat's cabin where a dozen or more shadowy figures congregated, waiting to cast off for a day's cod fishing off Long Island.

Cold weather cod fishing is Al Ristori's thing, and he had enticed me along with the irresistable challenge, "You've got to be rugged to go out cod fishing in this weather."

Well, there I was — with no doubt about the cold.

Two more hardy souls clambered aboard and we had gotten to the bottom of our coffee mugs when the idling engine was throttled forward and the Captain Al churned down the canal that would take us into Long Creek and out through Jones Inlet into the Atlantic.

We were an hour cruising to the open bottom fishing grounds. Seven o'clock, and the early morning overcast was just breaking, letting the rays of the morning sun dance on the rippling green surface. It was bright as we got to work with our tackle after anchoring, but there was little warmth in the sun's rays on deck. Al and I were using Garcia Conolon 2668s, 6½-foot heavy action boat rods, and Mitchell 624 saltwater gamefish reels loaded with 30-pound test Bonnyl line. We were serving the cod skimmer clams for breakfast on 7/0 O'Shaugnessy hooks.

Bonnyl on the 624's wide diameter spool is ideal for cold weather cod fishing. The line is impervious to water and won't freeze on the reel, and its small diameter lessens water drag of strong ocean currents. On the other hand, the large diameter spool makes retrieve in deep water a lot easier.

Below, the cod came to breakfast and before long we had lots of action on our hands. Men and tackle strained at the rail of the Captain Al as the large mouth cod with their tell-tale lower jaw barbels came to the surface and the eager gaffs reached out to lug them aboard. They were 12- and 15-pounders and eight were taken while breakfast lasted.

We picked up anchor and moved on after two hours, heading for a sunken wreck to the southeast — a favorite gathering place for large cod.

Fishing the wrecks presents its own special problems. There's no telling when you'll snag your line below, and many a fisherman has lost his terminal tackle because his line was too light to pull free without breaking. Al and I had just the thing — a second set of reels packed with 50 pound test line which we quickly converted to our rods.

That morning, I had a 20-pounder which held up through mid-afternoon as the largest catch, but a strong armed night postal worker named Phil came up with a beauty — a 33-pounder — which took the prize.

In between the cod we ran across hungering schools of mackerel and rapidly put over lighter tackle for jigging. Al and I both worked well with Mitchell 306 spinning reels, the effort warming us as we pulled in the heavy feeders.

It was a weary but cheerful group that came up Woodcleft Canal that evening aboard the Captain Al.

"That fish must have worn you out, Phil," someone kidded, "you'll have to skip work tonight."

"Wouldn't miss tonight for anything," said Phil "that fish is going to get a lot bigger after I punch in."

How's Your Health

(Prepared in the public interest by the Minnesota Medical Association.)

One of the biggest stories in medical transplant news today is that more than 1400 persons are now living after kidney transplants. It is especially exciting because kidneys are vital to life.

Exquisitely sensitive, the kidneys constantly are at work monitoring moment-by-moment changes in body chemistry. They are equipped with 140 miles of tubes and millions of filters and, in one day, the body's blood supply filters through the kidneys 25 times. Each time the kidneys conserve materials of value and discard materials that are useless or dangerous.

Specifically, the kidneys have these functions: they keep body fluids and other materials at the right levels; they guard against the blood becoming either too acid or too alkaline; they capture wastes and process them into materials that the body can discharge; and they help regulate blood pressure and red blood cell production.

The kidney is bean-shaped and in color is purplish-brown with a grayish cast. In the average adult, it is four and a half inches long, two and a half inches wide, and one and a half inches thick. They are located on your sides snuggled under your ribs, well-protected against ordinary blows, although frequently they bruise or rupture under massive impact, as in an auto crash.

For most of us, the kidneys function so dependably that we forget they are there, yet, kidney-related diseases comprise one of the leading causes of time lost from work.

You should contact your doctor promptly if you or your child shows any of the following signs:

1) puffiness about the eyes, particularly in children or swelling of body tissues.

2) a burning sensation on urination; increased frequency of urination.

3) coffee-colored, smoke-colored or bloody urine.

4) unexplained fever, low back pains, constant fatigue.

At age 23, John O. "picked up" gonorrhea, a pernicious, sexually contractible venereal disease. So have over one million people each year in our country alone. More than half of those afflicted are teenagers and young adults under 25 says the Minnesota State Medical Association.

John O. was fortunate, his symptoms came on strong during completely curable stages, and he quickly consulted his physician after noticing a copious discharge and an increasing burning sensation every time he urinated. He was treated and cured with penicillin.

Others are not as lucky as John D. Gonorrhea can be an insidious disease, especially in women, and its victims may not be aware of it until widespread and permanent damage has been done.

Germs causing gonorrhea, gonococci, obtain nourishment for survival by absorbing or engulfing nutrients from body cells—particularly the tissue lining the urethra and sperm tubes of men and the cervix and Fallopian tubes of women. Outside the human body, the germs will die within a few seconds.

Ovoid in shape, the gonococcus must be carried in fluid to susceptible tissue. This is done, most conveniently, during sexual intercourse or homosexual activity and gonorrhea is contracted almost entirely through extramarital and premarital sexual intercourse. The gonococci can infect the eye, as when a baby passes through the birth canal. Although rarely, a gonorrheal infection may result from germs entering a skin wound.

Once the gonococci has entered the body, they steadily overwhelm the body's defenders and migrate to many locations of the body, destructing tissues along the way. Eventually, the germs may invade the joints, heart, or brain if left untreated.

John D. was lucky, because his infection was detected before the germs had a chance to migrate to deeper tissues and cause irreparable damage. But, what about his sexual partners? Fortunately, John D. contacted each, urging them to see a physician for treatment.

There is no magic way of preventing VD—no magic pills or immunizing vaccines. But everyone should become well-informed about venereal diseases and bring the serious implication of them to their friends and others in the community, says the Minnesota State Medical Association.

UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION SERVICE

Follow a complete spray program to control insect and disease problems of tree fruit. Proper timing, thorough coverage of foliage and correct chemicals are essential.

Handle all pesticides carefully. Read and understand the label information before using the chemical to prevent injury to children, pets, or yourself. In addition, store all chemicals under lock and key and appropriately dispose of empty containers and waste chemicals.

Tree fruit pollination depends almost entirely on bees. So don't apply insecticides to plants in bloom and avoid drift onto blossoming legumes and other plants.

Many chemical companies sell all-purpose spray mixtures that contain recommended insecticides and fungicides. These mixtures are ready for use; mixing instructions are on the container's label.

For apples and pears, apply the first spray when fruit buds show pink at tips. If the all-purpose mixture is used, it will control apply scab, cedar-apple rust, and aphids. Additional sprays are needed every 7 to 10 days throughout the season.

For control of stone fruit pests—apricots, cherries, plums—begin spraying with Bordeaux mixture before buds open. When three-fourths of the petals have fallen, apply additional sprays of the all-purpose mixture. For additional information on spray schedules, see your county agent for a copy of Extension Pamphlet 184, "Home Fruit Spray Guide."

Well, What Do You Know?

fun, games and knowledge

by MARTHA GLAUBER SHAPP, Editor, The New Book of Knowledge

What is sonar?

The word "sonar" comes from the first letters of "sound navigation ranging." Sonar is very much like radar. Sonar can detect and locate objects under the sea by echoes. Since radio signals cannot travel far underwater, sonar sets use sound signals instead. Compared with ordinary sounds, sonar signals are very powerful. Some sonar sets give off sounds that you can hear. The pitch of other sonar signals is so high that your ear cannot hear them. The sonar set has a special receiver that can pick up the returning echoes (reflected sound signals). The echoes are then used to tell the location of underwater objects.

Sonar set on fishing boat sends out short, powerful signals and receives echoes from schools of fish.

How strong is an ant?

Have you ever seen ants carrying sticks or pebbles? A scientist once saw an ant lifting a stone out of its nest entrance. He took both the ant and the stone back to his laboratory and weighed them. He found that the stone weighed 52 times as much as the ant. If a man of average weight were as strong as the ant is for its weight, he would be able to lift nearly 4 tons.

Why do stars twinkle?

The light from the stars passes through the earth's atmosphere before reaching your eyes. Within the atmosphere, at an altitude of 30,000 to 45,000 feet, is a layer of air that is called the twinkling layer. As the light from a star passes through the twinkling layer, the light shifts and changes continuously and seems to twinkle. Scientists do not know what causes the starlight's path to change and shift. But many believe that differences in temperatures and the presence of water vapor in the twinkling layer may be responsible for the stars' twinkle.

1040 U.S.I. Taxpayers Ask IRS

These questions most frequently asked by taxpayers on federal income tax matters with authoritative answers are provided by the office of the district director of internal revenue, St Paul.

Q—Who can file the short form, 1040A?

A—This form can be used in the following circumstances:

1. Income is under $10,000; and
2. Income consists entirely of wages subject to withholding and not more than $200 from dividends, interest, and other wages.

"The Form 1040A cannot be used by taxpayers who either itemize their deductions or who claim special tax credits or deductions such as the retirement income credit, sick pay exclusion, or moving expense deduction.

Further details on filing requirements are given in the instructions that accompany both the 1040 and 1040A tax forms.

Q—I sold my house just before my 65th birthday. Does that mean I won't be entitled to the special benefits for the elderly on those sales?

A—The law requires you to be 65 or over before the date of sale or exchange to qualify for these special benefits.

Q—Are gifts ever taxed?

A—The recipient has no Federal income tax to pay but the giver may be taxed if the gift is sizable. The law generally requires a gift tax return to be filed by the donor when a gift or gifts to any one person during the year exceeds $3,000.

However, income earned on gifts is taxable to the recipient.

Q—Does it make any difference whether I file the red, white and blue tax form I got in the mail or one of the plain ones the Post Office has?

A—Either form is acceptable, but the colored form is preferable. However, if you do not file the return mailed you, please be sure to remove the name label and put it on the return you do file. Use of the address label will properly identify your return and speed any refund due.

The use of color on some of the 1968 tax returns is an experiment to determine whether the use of color to highlight certain sections of the form will reduce errors.

Q—I was married last month. Since my name has changed do I have to change my Social Security number?

A—When your name changes, notify your local office of the Social Security Administration as soon as possible. Your number will not be changed, but your record will be corrected to reflect your married name.

Q—How long should it take between the time I send in my return and my check comes?

A—If the return is accurate and complete, it takes five to six weeks to receive an income tax refund. To avoid delays, read the instructions that accompany the tax forms carefully.

If you are expecting a refund, file your return direct in the IRS Service Center, Kansas City, Missouri 64170.

Q—I hear many people are making mistakes on their tax returns because of the surcharge. What are they doing wrong?

A—Taxpayers are either forgetting to add the surcharge or they are figuring it wrong. Mistakes like these delay processing as well as any refund that may be due.

To avoid these mistakes check your instructions which explain how the surcharge should be handled.

Q—My brother has just been sent to Vietnam by the Army. Does he have to file a tax return?

A—Military personnel in Vietnam do not have to file tax returns while stationed there. Your brother may wait to file his 1968 tax return until 180 days after he leaves Vietnam.

Q—Is a tax refund income that has to be reported?

A—Federal tax refund has to be reported as miscellaneous income if the taxpayer deducted the tax in a prior year.

Break The Life Cycle Here!

The most effective time to control corn rootworm is during the spring when the rootworm eggs are hatching and before the young larvae have an opportunity to attack the root system of the plant.

The corn rootworm passes the winter months in the egg stage and hatching begins in the spring as the soil warms up, usually in May.

The larvae feed on the roots of the growing corn, often consuming the smaller roots of the plants and severely tunneling into the larger roots. While the larvae feed on the roots of the corn from early June through August, the most important damage will occur from mid-June to mid-July. When the larvae are fully grown, they change into an inactive stage called the pupae.

While there are several species of corn rootworms, the resistant western corn rootworm is by far the most costly to farmers in the Corn Belt area. This species will begin to emerge from the soil in July, as the adult or beetle stage, and will continue to emerge until early fall when they start to lay their eggs in the soil . . . often 300 eggs or more per adult.

While recommendations for control of the resistant western corn rootworm vary from state to state, entomologists in the Corn Belt states recommend Thimet 15-G for control of the pest.

Applied at planting, Thimet 15-G is the lowest in cost of all leading rootworm insecticides and highly effective in controlling all species. It works well under all weather conditions.

For optimum control of the resistant corn rootworm, be sure to follow the label directions on the Thimet 15-G package.

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Q—I was discharged at the end of December 1968 after two years service. I had a tooth filled about six months before I got out of service. The filling has fallen out. Can I get the tooth repaired by the Veterans Administration?

A—Yes. Dental work on a one-time completion basis may be provided veterans with service-connected but noncompensable dental conditions which existed at time of separation provided application is made within one year after discharge. Your application for VA dental treatment should be sent to the nearest VA regional office, where your records are on file, before the end of December 1969.

Q—I am not eligible for a GI home loan since my husband, who died of a service-connected disability in 1967, was in service after World War II but before the Korean Conflict, from January 1948 until January 1950. Am I entitled to educational assistance from the Veterans Administration under a new law that went into effect last December?

A—Yes, you are entitled to VA educational assistance of up to 36 months as the widow of a veteran who died as the result of military service. However, your education must be completed by November 30, 1976. Your husband's military service could have been at any time from the Spanish-American War to the current Viet-Nam era. Wives of veterans who are permanently and totally disabled as the result of military service are also entitled to this benefit, which amounts to a maximum of $130 a month for full-time training. Contact your nearest VA office or local county service officer for additional information and assistance concerning this program.

Q—I was recently discharged from the Army and have applied for a certificate of eligibility from the Veterans Administration for a GI home loan. The home I am interested in is still under construction and has been inspected periodically by the VA. Will the VA appraisal or guaranty of my loan constitute a guaranty as to the structural soundness of the home?

A—Neither the VA appraisal on the home nor the guaranty of your loan will constitute a guaranty that the house is properly constructed in all respects or that you will be satisfied with the home in every way. The purpose of the VA inspections is to determine if the house is built in accordance with plans and specifications and the applicable minimum property standards. By law VA may only guarantee your loan, not your home. Thus it would be wise for you to check with people of your choice who are knowledgeable with home construction and home building if you have any questions on the plans and specifications or about the location of the property and the house itself. VA representatives will be happy to answer any questions concerning the GI home loan program.

Q—Recently I applied for an increase in my service-connected disability rating from the Veterans administration. When I was discharged from service two years ago and originally rated service-disabled by VA I did not apply for the National Service Life Insurance available to veterans with service-connected disabilities. Will an increased rating entitle me to apply for this NSLI coverage?

A—An increased rating for a service-connected disability originally rated more than a year ago will not entitle you to apply for NSLI coverage. However, you could become entitled if service-connection is allowed by VA for the first time for a different disability. You would then have a year from the rating of the different disability to apply for this special NSLI policy.

Q—Recently I received information on the new pension law and a card to fill out and return to the Veterans administration. Must I fill out this card and return it to the VA? Must I elect to accept the new pension law?

A—You are not required to complete the card and return it to the VA or to accept the new pension. However, it could be to your advantage to fill out the card, being certain to report all of your income, and return it to the VA. The information you submit will be examined very carefully. If you elect to accept a pension under the new law, but the VA determines that it will not be to your advantage, you will not be changed to the new law. However, once you cash a pension check payable under the new law, you cannot thereafter change your election and revert back to the old law.

Q—My husband has a heart condition which developed in service. He was able to work until three months ago when he had a heart attack and the Veterans administration awarded him 100 per cent disability. The doctor says that he will never be able to go back to work. With two children in college, I will have to work to help support us but I don't have any training. Can the VA help me?

A—Possibly. VA education assistance is available to the wives, sons and daughters of veterans who are determined by the VA to be permanently as well as totally disabled. For a maximum of 36 months, the VA will pay a wife, son or daughter up to $130 a month for full-time institutional training. Since you indicate that your husband has been rated totally disabled, you should check with the VA regional office where his records are on file to see if his current condition is considered permanent by the VA.

Q—I am a veteran of World War II and will soon reach my 65th birthday. Will I be entitled to a VA pension?

A—You may be eligible for a pension from the Veterans administration at age 65 if your income from all sources does not exceed $2,000 a year if you are single, or $3,200 a year if you have one or more dependents. A wife's income and the size of your estate are factors which must also be considered. For further information and assistance, check with your nearest VA office or you local county veterans service officer.

Careers in Food and Fiber

One of the University of Minnesota's newest curriculums is resource economics which is offered by the Department of Agricultural Economics.

With agricultural change being what it has been, rural communities have also found themselves in the process of change, says Dale C. Dahl, associate professor of agricultural economics.

Dahl cites fewer farms and centralized purchasing by farmers as examples of this change affecting the rural community. He points out that at one time there may have been 100 farms within a 20 mile radius of the community while today there may be only 25. As a result, many communities are concerned about whether their community will be a ghost town or a meaningful one in the future.

"As we have been using less and less land, we find that land not being used for agriculture has been diverted to other uses such as recreation, highways and urban development," he says. This has resulted in many government agencies initiating programs to help communities, states and industries minimize the social costs of change in our communities.

"We need people to guide these changes who are knowledgeable in the management of our scarce resources," Dahl says. As a result, the Bachelor of Science degree program in resource economics was established with the past year.

Included in the program are courses never offered by the University before, such as community resource development, resource economics policy and regional economic analysis.

The curriculum is designed for individuals who will work in local government programs, man state development programs and work with industry in rural communities.

According to Dahl, initial employment opportunities will be in government. However, firms such as gas and railroad companies are developing economic sections or departments which will be of service to rural communities. "If the community can get new industries, it will also help the company," Dahl says. He adds that it is good business for them to help other industries grow and develop more fully because they will expand their sales potential.

For more information on career opportunities in resource economics, write or visit the Department of Agricultural Economics, Institute of Agriculture, University of Minnesota, St. Paul, Minnesota 55101.

Horticulture—one of the fastest growing industries in the world—offers many rewards if you select it as a career.

Horticulture is the art and science of growing, handling, processing, and storing fruits, vegetables, flowers and ornamental plants, according to Leon Snyder, head of the Department of Horticultural Science at the University of Minnesota.

"There's a place for you in horticulture whether you want to spend your life working in a laboratory, out-of-doors, or at the desk," Snyder says.

For example, if you like science, particularly the biological and physical sciences, you can become a horticultural scientist and have a research or teaching career working with economic plants such as fruits, vegetables, and ornamental plants.

If you like the business world, you can work at the business side of horticultural crops and products—anywhere from producing to advertising and selling.

Or, if you have artistic talents and interests, you can become a professional landscape designer. These are only a few of the many choices available to you if you select horticulture as a career, Snyder says.

Snyder says the on-the-farm value of horticultural products in the United States exceeds 2.6 billion dollars annually. But the handling, processing, and merchandizing of these products embraces an industry valued at about 16 billion dollars per year.

Horticultural careers offer a good salary, and there is no "ceiling" for most horticultural positions. As a horticulturist, you have the opportunity to help people and make the world a better place in which to live and work through improved foods and more attractive surroundings.

Snyder points out that horticulture is a fast moving industry and gives these examples of revolutionary developments in recent years: Hybrid varieties, mist propogation, CO2 enriched atmosphere in greenhouses, controlled blooming of flowers, hormones to control blooming of plants and prevent apple fruit drop and control quality, and chemical growth regulators.

If you'd like more information on horticultural careers, write to Dr. L. C. Snyder, Chairman, Department of Horticultural Science, University of Minnesota, St. Paul, Minnesota 55101.

To display or not to display wedding gifts is the question that confronts many a bride. Display, by all means, says the Sterling Silversmiths Guild of America. If done tastefully, the display is a courtesy to gift-givers who like to see other gifts as well as their own. Here are a few guidelines for a well-planned display:

The display is always held at the bride's home whether or not the reception is there, usually several days before the wedding. Arrange gifts by category, with tableware in one area, appliances in another, etc. The rule is to show only one place setting of sterling flatware, china, and crystal, arranged just as it would be on a dining table. However, each gift of a sterling service piece, and each piece of holloware should also be on display. Remove cards from all gifts so that comparisons cannot be drawn between elaborate gifts and more modest ones.

Break The Life Cycle Here!

The most effective time to control corn rootworm is during the spring when the rootworm eggs are hatching and before the young larvae have an opportunity to attack the root system of the plant.

The corn rootworm passes the winter months in the egg stage and hatching begins in the spring as the soil warms up, usually in May.

The larvae feed on the roots of the growing corn, often consuming the smaller roots of the plants and severely tunneling into the larger roots. While the larvae feed on the roots of the corn from early June through August, the most important damage will occur from mid-June to mid-July. When the larvae are fully grown, they change into an inactive stage called the pupae.

While there are several species of corn rootworms, the resistant western corn rootworm is by far the most costly to farmers in the Corn Belt area. This species will begin to emerge from the soil in July, as the adult or beetle stage, and will continue to emerge until early fall when they start to lay their eggs in the soil . . . often 300 eggs or more per adult.

While recommendations for control of the resistant western corn rootworm vary from state to state, entomologists in the Corn Belt states recommend Thimet 15-G for control of the pest.

Applied at planting, Thimet 15-G is the lowest in cost of all leading rootworm insecticides and highly effective in controlling all species. It works well under all weather conditions.

For optimum control of the resistant corn rootworm, be sure to follow the label directions on the Thimet 15-G package.

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Q—I was discharged at the end of December 1968 after two years service. I had a tooth filled about six months before I got out of service. The filling has fallen out. Can I get the tooth repaired by the Veterans Administration?

A—Yes. Dental work on a one-time completion basis may be provided veterans with service-connected but noncompensable dental conditions which existed at time of separation provided application is made within one year after discharge. Your application for VA dental treatment should be sent to the nearest VA regional office, where your records are on file, before the end of December 1969.

Q—I am not eligible for a GI home loan since my husband, who died of a service-connected disability in 1967, was in service after World War II but before the Korean Conflict, from January 1948 until January 1950. Am I entitled to educational assistance from the Veterans Administration under a new law that went into effect last December?

A—Yes, you are entitled to VA educational assistance of up to 36 months as the widow of a veteran who died as the result of military service. However, your education must be completed by November 30, 1976. Your husband's military service could have been at any time from the Spanish-American War to the current Viet-Nam era. Wives of veterans who are permanently and totally disabled as the result of military service are also entitled to this benefit, which amounts to a maximum of $130 a month for full-time training. Contact your nearest VA office or local county service officer for additional information and assistance concerning this program.

Q—I was recently discharged from the Army and have applied for a certificate of eligibility from the Veterans Administration for a GI home loan. The home I am interested in is still under construction and has been inspected periodically by the VA. Will the VA appraisal or guaranty of my loan constitute a guaranty as to the structural soundness of the home?

A—Neither the VA appraisal on the home nor the guaranty of your loan will constitute a guaranty that the house is properly constructed in all respects or that you will be satisfied with the home in every way. The purpose of the VA inspections is to determine if the house is built in accordance with plans and specifications and the applicable minimum property standards. By law VA may only guarantee your loan, not your home. Thus it would be wise for you to check with people of your choice who are knowledgeable with home construction and home building if you have any questions on the plans and specifications or about the location of the property and the house itself. VA representatives will be happy to answer any questions concerning the GI home loan program.

Q—Recently I applied for an increase in my service-connected disability rating from the Veterans administration. When I was discharged from service two years ago and originally rated service-disabled by VA I did not apply for the National Service Life Insurance available to veterans with service-connected disabilities. Will an increased rating entitle me to apply for this NSLI coverage?

A—An increased rating for a service-connected disability originally rated more than a year ago will not entitle you to apply for NSLI coverage. However, you could become entitled if service-connection is allowed by VA for the first time for a different disability. You would then have a year from the rating of the different disability to apply for this special NSLI policy.

Q—Recently I received information on the new pension law and a card to fill out and return to the Veterans administration. Must I fill out this card and return it to the VA? Must I elect to accept the new pension law?

A—You are not required to complete the card and return it to the VA or to accept the new pension. However, it could be to your advantage to fill out the card, being certain to report all of your income, and return it to the VA. The information you submit will be examined very carefully. If you elect to accept a pension under the new law, but the VA determines that it will not be to your advantage, you will not be changed to the new law. However, once you cash a pension check payable under the new law, you cannot thereafter change your election and revert back to the old law.

Q—My husband has a heart condition which developed in service. He was able to work until three months ago when he had a heart attack and the Veterans administration awarded him 100 per cent disability. The doctor says that he will never be able to go back to work. With two children in college, I will have to work to help support us but I don't have any training. Can the VA help me?

A—Possibly. VA education assistance is available to the wives, sons and daughters of veterans who are determined by the VA to be permanently as well as totally disabled. For a maximum of 36 months, the VA will pay a wife, son or daughter up to $130 a month for full-time institutional training. Since you indicate that your husband has been rated totally disabled, you should check with the VA regional office where his records are on file to see if his current condition is considered permanent by the VA.

Q—I am a veteran of World War II and will soon reach my 65th birthday. Will I be entitled to a VA pension?

A—You may be eligible for a pension from the Veterans administration at age 65 if your income from all sources does not exceed $2,000 a year if you are single, or $3,200 a year if you have one or more dependents. A wife's income and the size of your estate are factors which must also be considered. For further information and assistance, check with your nearest VA office or you local county veterans service officer.

Careers in Food and Fiber

One of the University of Minnesota's newest curriculums is resource economics which is offered by the Department of Agricultural Economics.

With agricultural change being what it has been, rural communities have also found themselves in the process of change, says Dale C. Dahl, associate professor of agricultural economics.

Dahl cites fewer farms and centralized purchasing by farmers as examples of this change affecting the rural community. He points out that at one time there may have been 100 farms within a 20 mile radius of the community while today there may be only 25. As a result, many communities are concerned about whether their community will be a ghost town or a meaningful one in the future.

"As we have been using less and less land, we find that land not being used for agriculture has been diverted to other uses such as recreation, highways and urban development," he says. This has resulted in many government agencies initiating programs to help communities, states and industries minimize the social costs of change in our communities.

"We need people to guide these changes who are knowledgeable in the management of our scarce resources," Dahl says. As a result, the Bachelor of Science degree program in resource economics was established with the past year.

Included in the program are courses never offered by the University before, such as community resource development, resource economics policy and regional economic analysis.

The curriculum is designed for individuals who will work in local government programs, man state development programs and work with industry in rural communities.

According to Dahl, initial employment opportunities will be in government. However, firms such as gas and railroad companies are developing economic sections or departments which will be of service to rural communities. "If the community can get new industries, it will also help the company," Dahl says. He adds that it is good business for them to help other industries grow and develop more fully because they will expand their sales potential.

For more information on career opportunities in resource economics, write or visit the Department of Agricultural Economics, Institute of Agriculture, University of Minnesota, St. Paul, Minnesota 55101.

Horticulture—one of the fastest growing industries in the world—offers many rewards if you select it as a career.

Horticulture is the art and science of growing, handling, processing, and storing fruits, vegetables, flowers and ornamental plants, according to Leon Snyder, head of the Department of Horticultural Science at the University of Minnesota.

"There's a place for you in horticulture whether you want to spend your life working in a laboratory, out-of-doors, or at the desk," Snyder says.

For example, if you like science, particularly the biological and physical sciences, you can become a horticultural scientist and have a research or teaching career working with economic plants such as fruits, vegetables, and ornamental plants.

If you like the business world, you can work at the business side of horticultural crops and products—anywhere from producing to advertising and selling.

Or, if you have artistic talents and interests, you can become a professional landscape designer. These are only a few of the many choices available to you if you select horticulture as a career, Snyder says.

Snyder says the on-the-farm value of horticultural products in the United States exceeds 2.6 billion dollars annually. But the handling, processing, and merchandizing of these products embraces an industry valued at about 16 billion dollars per year.

Horticultural careers offer a good salary, and there is no "ceiling" for most horticultural positions. As a horticulturist, you have the opportunity to help people and make the world a better place in which to live and work through improved foods and more attractive surroundings.

Snyder points out that horticulture is a fast moving industry and gives these examples of revolutionary developments in recent years: Hybrid varieties, mist propagation, CO2 enriched atmosphere in greenhouses, controlled blooming of flowers, hormones to control blooming of plants and prevent apple fruit drop and control quality, and chemical growth regulators.

If you'd like more information on horticultural careers, write to Dr. L. C. Snyder, Chairman, Department of Horticultural Science, University of Minnesota, St. Paul, Minnesota 55101.

To display or not to display wedding gifts is the question that confronts many a bride. Display, by all means, says the Sterling Silversmiths Guild of America. If done tastefully, the display is a courtesy to giftgivers who like to see other gifts as well as their own. Here are a few guidelines for a well-planned display:

The display is always held at the bride's home whether or not the reception is there, usually several days before the wedding. Arrange gifts by category, with tableware in one area, appliances in another, etc. The rule is to show only one place setting of sterling flatware, china, and crystal, arranged just as it would be on a dining table. However, each gift of a sterling service piece, and each piece of holloware should also be on display. Remove cards from all gifts so that comparisons cannot be drawn between elaborate gifts and more modest ones.

Bicycle Safety Check Saturday

Thief River Falls youngsters who plan to use their bicycles in the city this summer are reminded of the bicycle safety check to be held on Saturday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Thief River Falls Jaycees are hosting the safety check in the city arena and licenses will be issued by the police department at the event.

Cooperating with the Jaycees in the program are the Veterans of Foreign Wars, who contribute reflectorized tape and volunteer workers; the Minneapolis Tribune and Modern Woodmen of America, both of which furnish educational material on bicycle safety; the Thief River Falls police department, county sheriff's department, state highway patrol and state driver's license examiners, all of which provide personnel.

City ordinance requires that all bicycles in the city be checked for safety hazards before being licensed, and that operators of these bicycles be tested for riding ability. The annual safety check permits all bicycle owners to comply with the ordinance at one time and place and saves time and expense for the local police department, according to James Richter, Jaycee project chairman.

Annual bicycle license fee is 35 cents and is payable when the license is received at the arena on Saturday. No other charge is made at the safety check.

Youngsters in grades four through six will be eligible for a special patch from Modern Woodmen of America if they achieve a score of at least 80 in a written test and riding skill test. The written test will be given in local elementary schools and the skill test will be given on Saturday at the safety check.

"We encourage all youngsters to come to the safety check and have their bikes licensed for the coming year," Richter said. "We want to impress every young rider and old riders as well with the importance of safety when riding a bicycle. Knowing and obeying safety rules can make the difference between life and death."

Family FINANCIAL PROTECTION

Q. Our family has been plagued with injuries and illnesses this year and we've filed more health insurance claims than ever before. In fact, we've received a great deal of help from these benefits. But now I'm worried. Is it possible for us to lose our policy if we make too many claims against it?

TOO MANY CLAIMS

A. This depends on whether your insurance is set up on a group or individual basis. It isn't possible in a group plan even if claims related to the same ailment are repeatedly submitted.

It could be possible, however, if you have an individual policy of the "optionally renewable" type. This means the company retains the option of renewing the policy when it expires (usually at the end of each policy year). Or, the company might, upon renewal, exclude benefits for a particular illness. Or your premium could be increased. Many people today have policies that cannot be terminated. They are called either "guaranteed renewable" or "non-cancellable guaranteed renewable". These policies would protect you against these actions. Both cost somewhat more than a policy that may be cancelled.

Q. I was recently released from a mental hospital after spending two years there. During that time I let my health insurance expire. Will it be possible for me to get coverage again?

A. If you have returned to work and your company has a group plan, you will automatically be covered under it.

If you are considering individual health insurance, it would be a good idea to talk to one or two insurance agents about special policies available for people with a medical history of disability, including mental illness. However, the insurance company will require a certain "recovery" period before issuing the insurance. Most people today are insurable, regardless of an earlier health problem.

Courneya Will Attend Session On Development

Pennington county agent Terry Courneya will attend a community and regional development workshop for leaders in northwestern Minnesota on Friday at Bemidji state college.

Purpose of the conference is to provide an opportunity for leading citizens in the region to exchange ideas and to discuss problems and approaches related to the development of individuals and communities in the region, as well as development of the region itself.

The conference is being sponsored by the University of Minnesota and Bemidji state college in cooperation with the university's technical institute at Crookston, junior colleges and area vocational schools in the region.

Stenberg and Bratteli Cited For Scholarship

Richard A. Stenberg of Thief River Falls and Diane J. Bratteli of Gonvick were among more than 1,000 St. Olaf college students who were honored for high scholarship at the college's annual honors convocation May 1.

In order to qualify for the honor rating, a student must have compiled at least a 3.0 (B) average during his course work at St. Olaf. This year's group included 302 freshmen, 257 sophomores, 235 juniors, 226 seniors and six special students.

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Q—How can I check to determine whether my wife is the designated beneficiary of my National Service Life insurance? This may be a strange question. However, my mother who was my beneficiary when I went into service, died recently and I cannot remember for certain that I filled out any form changing the beneficiary designation to my wife.

A—Write to the Veterans Administration office to which you send your NSLI premium payment and request that you be advised as to the beneficiary you have designated to receive the proceeds of that policy. In the event that your wife is not the designated beneficiary, ask the VA to send you form (29-336). It would also be a good idea to check the method of payment you may have previously selected to insure that the proceeds of your policy will be paid to your wife in the manner you desire.

Q—My brother has been in a VA hospital for some three months. His last pension check was reduced to $30. Why was it reduced? Can it be increased to the amount he received before going into the hospital?

A—Your brother's pension check from the Veterans Administration was reduced to $30 a month because of a law limiting pension to this amount for veterans without dependents after two full calendar months of hospitalization. Your brother's full pension will be restored after he is released from the VA Hospital.

Alcohol Causes 25,000 Deaths In Auto Mishaps

More than 55,300 men, women and children were killed in highway crashes in 1968, according to the annual highway accident data booklet published by a major insurance company. The toll was up from the 53,000 killed a year earlier.

At the same time, automobile accidents were responsible for injuries to some 4,400,000 persons in 1968, an increase of more than 200,000 from the previous year.

The booklet, titled "ALCOHOLOCAUST", points to a study by the U.S. department of transportation which concludes that "the use of alcohol by drivers and pedestrians leads to some 25,000 deaths and a total of at least 800,000 crashes in the United States each year".

It notes, however, that the reader must read between the lines of classifications in the statistical tables: "Speed too fast for conditions", "on wrong side of road", "reckless driving", "drove off roadway", "did not have right of way," to find the evidence of drinking and driving.

"A dead driver can't be asked to heel and toe or take a breath or blood test", a spokesman said. "The injured driver frequently needs swift emergency treatment. Technical examination for alcohol in his blood stream must come later when the aberant ingredient has been diluted or has disappeared altogether", he added.

According to a statistical table titled "Actions of Drivers Associated With Deaths ...", speed too fast for conditions accounted for more than 40 per cent of the deaths; on wrong side of road, 14 per cent; reckless driving, 14 per cent; drove off roadway, 12 per cent, and did not have right of way, 13 per cent.

The statistics in the booklet were compiled from reports of state motor vehicle departments across the nation.

ABOUT PANTYHOSE

Pantyhose in clear, light colors — with beige and gray in the lead — accent spring costumes.

RECENTLY PROMOTED to Major in the United States Air Force was Philip R. Pridham, son-in-law of Mrs. Claude Trickle of Thief River Falls. Pridham is married to the former Muriel Trickle of Thief River Falls. The major has received the Distinguished Flying Cross and his second through 11th awards of the Air Medal for action in Southeast Asia. He is presently stationed in Hahn, Germany.

Excessive Speed Major Cause of Accident Deaths

While more than 40 per cent of driver-error-caused deaths on America's highways in 1968 were blamed on excessive speed, only 20 per cent of the injuries were attributed to this activity. The second major cause of fatalities blamed on action of drivers was reckless driving. It figured in nearly 15 per cent of the deaths and more than 39 per cent of the injuries.

The statistics are contained in the annual booklet on highway accident data published by a major insurance company. Figures are supplied by state motor vehicle departments.

Other major factors involving actions of drivers resulting in deaths and injuries include driving on the wrong side of the road, not having the right-of-way and driving off the roadway.

In the 10-year period from 1959 through 1968, young driver involvement in fatal accidents increased more than 20 per cent. Last year, precisely one-third of people at the wheel when accidental death occurred in car crashes were 25 years or younger. The implication of immaturity expressed by speed is inescapable, said a company spokesman. "Under-25 drivers amount to only one-fifth of the driver total but they are in the terrible middle of one-third of all fatal auto crashes."

The 1968 traffic death toll reached 55,300 or 3,000 more than were killed in 1967. Injuries in 1968 rose to 4,400,000 from 4,200,000 in 1967.

No Stop Lights On 1,750 Miles Of Interstate

You can now get in your car and drive from the Twin Cities to Houlton, Maine, on the New Brunswick, Canada border ... without seeing a stop light!

The Minnesota AAA today said it could route a traveler from St. Paul to Houlton, Maine ... a distance of 1,750 miles ... and the whole trip could be made without making a stop for one red light.

The secret, says AAA, is completion of the interstate highway system between Minnesota and the East Coast. The AAA route generally follows I-94, I-90 and I-95, bypassing such cities as Madison, Chicago, Cleveland, Buffalo, Albany, Boston and Portland, Maine.

By driving the distance at an average speed of 60 m.p.h., the trip can be made easily in three days. Before the freeways were built, the trip would have taken at least four days ... with an average speed of about 40 m.p.h.

Tree Planting Is Good Practice In Conservation

Farmers in Marshall county this season will again be planting trees under the Agricultural Conservation program, according to Marcel Dahl, chairman of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee.

Tree planting, Dahl said, is a long-term investment that in time adds to a farmer's income. Also, as the trees grow, they provide worthwhile conservation benefits by helping reduce flooding and erosion; stabilizing and improving water supplies, thus helping to provide clear, clean streams; and providing hunting and other outdoor recreation opportunities.

Under ACP, the public shares with farmers a part of the cost of planting trees and of other soil, water, woodland and wildlife conservation measures. By sharing the cost of these practices, both the farmer and other taxpayers contribute to improvement and conservation of the nation's vital natural resources. Both share in the benefits from this work.

Candidates for U of M Prexy Give Platforms

"Humanizing" the university and restructuring and strengthening the Minnesota Student association (MSA) are the major aims of the three MSA presidential candidates at the University of Minnesota.

The student body will elect one of the three—Wayne Gilbert, Tom Gilsenan or John Hughes—in an all-campus election today (Wednesday) and Thursday.

Gilbert, a junior in history from Thief River Falls, believes that increased participation by the MSA forum (its representative body) in determining MSA policies will keep power out of the hands of a few and put it into the hands of the student body. To insure this participation, he suggests orientation sessions for the forum members to acquaint them with their roles.

"I have a wide variety of issues that are important to me, but first I want to make sure there is an effective structure to work through," says Gilbert, who is an MSA senator.

Another important issue to Gilbert is better relations between University students and the rest of Minnesota.

"You'd be surprised how interested out state areas are in the things that happen at the university. These people are taxpayers and they have the right to know the rationale behind the things we do." He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Edward L. Gilbert.

Tom Gilsenan, a social welfare junior from Minneapolis, believes it is the duty of student leaders to humanize the University.

"The MSA president must reach out to the students, and not just during the campaign," says Gilsenan.

By concentrating on a broad range of issues, from more parking spaces for commuters to the publication of lists of all human relations, Afro-American and American Indian courses, Gilsenan hopes MSA will be able to serve all groups on campus.

Gilsenan, who is now special assistant to the MSA president, actively opposes the proposed tuition increase.

The third candidate, John Hughes, an Institute of Technology junior from Hibbing, wants MSA to be a strong enough organization to bargain seriously and effectively with the administration and to respond to and control students extremist groups on either side.

Academic reform, especially in the freshman curriculum, is another important issue to Hughes. He proposes that the first year at the University be geared to individual education by replacing general courses with small seminar groups. This, he feels, will encourage the goals and ideals students have when they come to the University, rather than crush them.

There should also be more emphasis on the teaching function of the faculty and less on research, according to Hughes.

Clean-up Week Proclaimed by Gov. LeVander

For Minnesota communities that were in the flood plains, spring clean up will have already begun and the job will take months to finish. For every community, spring is the time for civic groups and householders to take a look at their town and their homes to see what can be done to make them more attractive, healthful places in which to live.

Officially, May 18-24 has been designated as state "Clean-Up Week." State board of health regulations require each local health officer to make an annual sanitary inspection tour of his municipality during "Clean-Up Week." He must report his findings to his local municipal council by June 1 and send copies of his report to the state health department by July 1.

The same kind of problems that hit communities in the flood plains can exist in every town. The time to correct potential health hazards in the environment is before emergencies develop, according to Frederick F. Heisel, acting director of the division of environmental health for the state health department.

"Under disaster conditions, communities have enough trouble coping with the emergency without having the situation complicated by situations that could be prevented in advance," he says.

Rat control and the safeguarding of drinking supplies, public and private, are two examples.

Several communities in the flood plains this spring reported rat invasions related to high water and dike-building. Rats are found in every community but they do not stay where they cannot find food, water or harborage.

Basements and yards that contain discarded rubbish are good harborages. Garbage, household and municipal, attracts them. Proper storage, removal and disposition of garbage are essential to rat control as well to the elimination of potential disease-bearing flies, roaches and other pests.

As part of spring clean-up activities, householders should provide proper storage of garbage and communities should maintain adequate municipal dumps that will cut down on rodent or fly infestation as well as offensive odors. Sanitary landfills are recommended by the state health department.

Most municipal water supply systems in Minnesota are located well above flood levels but all should be, according to Heisel. This spring several communities with only one well were without water because of flood conditions.

Extra chlorination at this time is recommended for communities in the flood plains to insure the safety of the water supplies for sometime to come. It is equally important that all municipal water supplies should have a chlorine residual as a protection against water-borne diseases. Not all communities add chlorine to their water supplies, although all should, according to Heisel.

Private water supplies can also be a problem. The state health department tests water samples on request. Individuals wishing to have their well water tested should request instructions and a plastic bag to contain the water sample from the Division of Environmental Health, Minnesota Department of Health, 717 Delaware Street S.E., Minneapolis 55440. The department does not provide sampling kits to other agencies or individuals for distribution to householders with wells.

Now Is Time To Prepare Ground For Young Trees

Remember the big snow drifts last winter? According to the Pennington soil and water conservation district, now is the time to get ready for future winters by preparing ground to plant trees next spring.

Best way to prepare tree ground is to summer fallow to kill the grasses. Young trees planted in grassy areas suffer from the grass competition.

This spring there are 46 land owners planting trees in Pennington county. Twenty-four of these will have their trees planted with the local soil conservation district tree planter. Farmers have their choice of 12 varieties of choose from. The most valuable windbreak tree has been the Dropmore elm, according to Bob Kloubec, district conservationist.

For more information and assistance in planning a windbreak, contact the conservation office in Thief River Falls.

How's Your Health

(Prepared in the public interest by the Minnesota Medical Association.)

Rh disease has been known for hundreds of years. In fact, its effects on the newborn were described in the writings of Hippocrates. Yet, not until 1968 was an acceptable preventive found that permits some parents with Rh incompatibility to have more than one child without fear.

Rh disease is the outgrowth of a mismatch of Rh factors in parental blood, says the Minnesota State Medical Association. Rh factor is a protein substance in red blood cells of 85 percent of the population. Such people are said to be Rh positive. The 15 percent who do not have this factor are called Rh negative. It is when the mother has Rh negative blood, the father has Rh positive blood and the child inherits the Rh factor from his father that trouble begins.

During the development and delivery of the first child, some of his red blood cells enter the mother's circulation. The mother's Rh negative blood reacts to the baby's Rh positive blood and develops antibodies in the mother that destroy the red blood cells containing the Rh factor.

In each subsequent pregnancy, the child's blood cells are attacked by the mother's antibodies. Enough of the child's cells are often destroyed to produce a severe anemia as well as complications resulting from blood cell destruction.

Up to 1968, only three treatments were available for Rh disease. These saved many but not enough of the thousands of babies affected.

Then physicians and immunologists developed a serum fraction called anti-Rh immune globulin. They found that when globulin is administered to an Rh negative mother with three days after the delivery or miscarriage of each Rh positive baby, it blocks the development of antibodies against the baby's Rh positive blood in the mother.

Use of globulin for mothers not sensitized by previous pregnancies or transfusions has been very near 100 percent effective and they may look forward to having more than one child. Women sensitized against the Rh factor by previous pregnancies or transfusions may not benefit from it.

At the present time, as with all new discoveries, anti-Rh immune globulin is in short supply. But it will become more readily available and help save the lives of at least 10,000 babies in the United States each year.

Johnson, Sullivan, Duke Pace LHS Wins

by Bob Wielinski
Times Sports Writer

Led by the pitching of Tony Johnson and Dan Sullivan and the batting of first baseman Tim Duke, the Thief River Falls Prowlers snapped a two-game losing string and started a two-game winning streak on Monday and Tuesday.

On Monday, Johnson stopped Fertile by a 5-2 score, as Duke collected two hits in three at bats, including the Prowlers' first home run of the season. His other hit was a triple. On Tuesday, Sullivan pitched the first shut-out of the season by blanking the Roseau Rams on three hits, and bringing home a 4-0 win in Northwest conference action. Once again Duke swung the heavy bat as he collected two hits in three appearances and drove in three runs, bringing his total to five in two games and seven for the season. In the game on Tuesday, Johnson also rapped out two base hits.

The two wins upped the mark of the Prowlers on the year to 5-3 and 1-1 in Northwest conference play.

Roseau Contest

It was a pitcher's duel all the way until the final inning when the Prowlers added three runs to their single tally which came in the third inning, as they stopped the Roseau Rams by a 4-0 score. The win evened the Prowler record in the Northwest conference at 1-1.

Dan Sullivan had the bats of the Rams in check all the way with the exception of the first inning when Dave Hedland doubled to center field but was later thrown out from center fielder Dana Stromberg to Brian Peterson on a double play. The junior left hander for the Prowlers struck out 10 and walked only two in going the distance for the second time this year. He recorded a strikeout in every inning and in the fifth retired the side on strikes.

The Prowlers scored first in the third inning when leadoff batter Steve Daley walked, stole second, went to third on a single by Tony Johnson and came home on an error by first baseman Earl Anderson, who had trouble handling the throw on Duke's grounder to second.

The score remained 1-0 in favor of the Prowlers until the top of the seventh inning. Jerry Morben singled, pinch hitting for Don Balmer. Dennis Johnson ran for Morben, stole second, moved to third on Daley's second hit of the game, a single, and came home on Johnson's single. Duke then drove in two more runs with a single to right, as the Prowlers took a 4-0 lead into the bottom of the seventh inning.

Sullivan then struck out the first two batters and the third out came on a fly to the shortstop, as the Prowlers won their second straight in two days by a 4-0 score.

Fertile Contest

Monday afternoon the Prowlers hosted the Fertile Falcons and came from behind twice to tie the score finally forging ahead of the visitors to score a 5-2 win and snap a two-game losing string.

The big bat in the game for Thief River Falls was Tim Duke who had two hits in three appearances at the plate. He smashed a triple in the third inning to drive in a run and then blasted a solo home run over the right field fence in the fifth inning. The drive traveled some 315 feet and was the first home run of the season by a Prowler.

Tony Johnson posted his third straight win without a loss as he hurled a six-hitter. He fanned 11 in the seven innings that he worked, the largest number of strike outs registered by a Prowler this year.

Fertile jumped to a 1-0 lead in the first inning. Tom Mjelde drove Johnson's second pitch to left-center for a single and moved to third on Mark Stevens' opposite field single down the right field line, just out of the reach of Prowler first sacker Tim Duke. Mjelde came home on a fielder's choice by Dennis Swendby. A walk to Scott Stevens loaded the sacks for the Falcons with two out but Johnson retired Grant Sannes on a strikeout after going to a 3-2 count on the batter.

The Prowlers came right back in their half of the inning as Steve Daley lofted a high fly between third and home while the Falcon catcher misjudged and it fell in for a hit. Daley stole second and moved to third as the Falcon catcher threw wide of second, then came home on a wild pitch and the score was 1-1.

Johnson retired the side in order in the second inning with the aid of a double play from second baseman Brian Peterson who caught a line shot off the bat of Pat Tuseth and caught the walking Craig Juelson off the bag at first.

Fertile added a run in the third inning as a double by Mark Stevens and a single by Luke Sannes provided the go-ahead run, giving the Falcons a 2-1 lead.

The Prowlers came right back in their half of the third to take the lead for keeps as they scored two runs after two outs were recorded. Tony Johnson lined a single to left, stole second and came home when the third baseman threw wild to first on Gordy Peterson's liner. Peterson then rode home on Duke's triple to right field to put the Prowlers ahead 3-2.

Johnson pitched shutout ball over the next four innings. The Falcons only threatened in the fourth inning as they had men on second and third when Johnson struck out Tim Tuseth for the third time in the game to end the inning.

The Prowlers added another run in the fourth inning as Dan Sullivan singled to center, stole second and came home on Stomberg's hit that took a bad bounce over the third baseman's head and the Prowlers led 4-2.

In the fifth Duke's homer to right gave the Prowlers a 5-2 lead. The win was the fourth for the Prowlers against three defeats.

Next Action

The Prowlers travel to Crookston on Thursday to meet the Pirates in a 4:30 p.m. contest and then host Bemidji on Friday in a 5 p.m. contest. Both games will be in the Northwest conference, of which the Prowlers are defending champions.

Northland Hosts Tennis and Golf Invitational Today

Seven junior college golf and tennis teams will take part in the Northland junior college invitational scheduled for the Thief River Falls tennis courts and golf course today (Wednesday).

Teams entered in golf will be Brainerd, Hibbing, Itasca, Mesabi, Crookston and Northland. All six of these plus Fergus Falls will be entered in the tennis meet.

According to coach Al Adams, Hibbing will be the top pick to capture the tennis event, while Itasca will be the top choice in the golf part of the meet. These two teams captured the number one position in the meet last week at Grand Rapids. Itasca has three fine golfers who shot in the 70's as they placed four in the top six players last week.

Northland will be placed in golf by Emery Wicklander, Scott Brummer, Jay Guillemette and John Adolphson. All fired 18-hole totals in the 80's at Grand Rapids last week, and could fire in the 70's on their home course, according to Adams.

The only hope on the tennis squad, according to Adams, is Barry Frolland. He was the lone Northman to score a victory last week at Grand Rapids.

Careers in Food and Fiber

The main divisions of horticulture you can specialize in at the University of Minnesota are fruits, vegetables, food handling and processing, and ornamentals, according to Leon C. Snyder, head of the Horticultural Science Department.

Snyder says scientific and technical training in fields related to fruit problems lead to many opportunities for horticulture graduates. The need for mechanization to reduce high labor costs is acute and demands much attention. The extremely perishable nature of fruits, and the strong trends toward fruit processing have created many positions for persons with training in fruit physiology.

Many fruit breeders and physiologists are needed to keep pace with the demands of rapidly changing systems of culture, storage and processing. Students well trained in this area of work are in high demand throughout the country, Snyder says.

If you're interested in specializing in nursery management, you can receive training in both the scientific and technical phases of nursery culture. The 4 year program leads to the bachelor of science degree, and prepares you for managerial or supervisory positions.

Landscaping is a multi-million dollar business in Minnesota alone, Snyder points out. Graduates in landscaping generally become employees of landscape nurseries and landscape maintenance firms, and some go into government service or related horticultural industries such as journalism and sales. Employment opportunities are excellent and the profession offers a pleasant and satisfying way of life. A new 2 year program is also offered by the University which prepares students for supervisory position in the landscape horticulture field.

The floral industry has grown rapidly in the 20th century and is a billion dollar industry today. Students specializing in floriculture get a strong background in the basic sciences as well as training in such areas as insect, disease and weed control, soils, botany and business.

The career outlook in vegetable crops is very promising because of the increasing importance of these crops in the world diet and increasing specialization in modern production. The high production possible in vegetable growing and the increasing mechanization of the industry gives this branch of horticulture a bright future in our hungry world.

Turf management is one of the newest areas of horticultural specialization. It offers a challenging and rewarding career for young men interested in sports and nature. Well trained college graduates in turf management become supervisors for golf courses, athletic fields, parks, cemeteries, playgrounds and sod nurseries. In all areas, turf men command some of the highest salaries paid in any agricultural field, Snyder adds.

For more information on horticulture careers, write to Dr. Leon C. Snyder, Chairman, Department of Horticultural Science, University of Minnesota, St. Paul, Minnesota 55101.

Employment in farm-related businesses supplying agricultural inputs and handling outputs has risen more than 50 per cent during the past 20 years.

As these farm-related industries grow, the demand increases for educated people with training in both the science and economics of agriculture, says Dale C. Dahl, associate professor of agricultural economics at the University of Minnesota.

To meet these demands the University offers a bachelor's degree in agricultural business administration. "The degree is offered jointly between the Department of Agricultural Economics and the School of Business Administration, which means that the person who graduates with this degree has a double major—one in agricultural economics, the other in business administration," Dahl says.

This degree program has developed over time to become the department's more popular one. Twenty years ago there was virtually no one in it. Today approximately half of the department's 200 students are in the agribusiness curriculum.

The agricultural business administration curriculum is designed primarily for students who wish to combine their rural backgrounds with business training for a career in industries related to agriculture.

Students in this curriculum receive training in management, finance, sales and other types of jobs in agribusiness.

If you plan a car trip or camping vacation with the family, here's a packing tip that will save a lot of time and trouble later. First, for easy washability on the road, choose outfits that are all-cotton. Pack one whole outfit for each child . . . cotton pants, shirt, underwear, socks . . . in a plastic bag and write the child's name on the bag. Then put all the plastic bags in one big suitcase.

How's Your Health

(Prepared in the public interest by the Minnesota Medical Association.)

One day, Mrs. Brown's hands began to itch and blister. Puzzled she consulted her physician. He asked her whether she was using a new brand of soap and several related questions. Then he applied a skin test and found that she was allergic to rubber. She discontinued using her newly purchased rubber gloves and her skin reaction disappeared.

Mrs. Brown had allergic contact dermatitis—a skin eruption caused by certain substances touching the skin. Generally, these are substances which cause no trouble for most people, says the Minnesota State Medical Association. This distinguishes them from primary irritants which produce inflammation of the skin of any person.

The contactants, as these reaction-producing substances are called, usually cause no apparent inflammation the first time a person is exposed to them. An incubation period, during which the skin becomes sensitive to the contactant, passes first. Some people are exposed to a substance for many years before becoming suddenly sensitive to it and reacting with a skin eruption. Some common contactants are nickel, rubber, dyes, chromates, poison ivy and related plants.

In allergic contact dermatitis, the skin itches and becomes red. It swells and little elevations and blisters appear. If the cause is not found and removed, the eruption becomes chronic and the skin may darken and become leathery and cracked. The size and shape of the eruption are determined by where the contactant has touched the skin. The distinctive pattern produced is important in diagnosing this condition.

If a physician suspects that a patient has allergic contact dermatitis he will question the patient to determine whether he has had recent contact with a new material. Then he will use patch tests, as the physician did on Mrs. Brown, which is a safe and quick way to determining allergies. In the patch tests, a small amount of the suspected substance is applied to gauze which is taped to the skin for several hours.

The person who develops contact dermatitis has one course of action, says the Minnesota State Medical Association—to avoid the substance causing the reaction and substitute products of materials which do not cause reactions for the products which do.

Salmonella, an intestinal infection caused by bacteria, has become one of the most important public health problems in the United States and throughout the world. It is most often transmitted by food but can have many unsuspected carriers, says the Minnesota state medical association.

The salmonella bacteria infects the body in one of three ways. They may invade and multiply in the blood, or, they may set up abscesses elsewhere—in the bones, for example. But most commonly, the bacteria affect the intestinal canal causing nausea, vomiting, cramps and diarrhea with or without fever. Such an infection is known as "salmonella gastroenteritis".

Perhaps the most well-known and worst (though fairly well controlled through sanitation laws) of the salmonellas affecting man is the S. typhosa, which causes typhoid fever. One incurs typhoid fever by ingesting material contaminated by the feces of the carrier.

Among the sources of salmonella infections are pets such as chicks, turtles, ducks, parakeets and canaries. Some toys made with feathers can transmit the disease. Pet food is a frequent source of infection and should always be handled carefully. A dye made from insects and used in medical diagnosis, drugs and food has been found to transmit salmonella.

But food products taken from a carrier animal or contaminated by a human handler are the common transmitters of salmonellas, and to avoid infection: 1) cook food to at least 165 degrees, immediately serve or refrigerate; 2) refrigerate unused portions of food immediately upon completion of a meal; 3) never use eggs with cracked shells unless thoroughly cooked; 4) pasteurize eggnog (if it comes from a dairy it is usually pasteurized) by maintaining it at 154.4 degrees for 30 minutes; 5) be especially careful in the summer months when germs grow faster.

In Memoriam

In memory of son Robert (Butch) Manning who was taken from us suddenly on May 7, 1966

Calm on the bosom of his God.
Our son is resting now.
While still with us his footsteps trod
Gods seal was on his brow.
Dust to its narrow house beneath,
Soul to its place on high.
They that have seen his look in death,
No more will fear to die.
Lonely the paths and sad the bowers,
Now his dear smile is gone,
But in a brighter home than ours
In Heav'n he awaits his own.

Missed by his mother and father. The Manning family. 1t37c

Edlund Captures 1st Singles Tennis Title

by Bob Wielinski
Times Sports Writer

Defending Northwest conference tennis champion Bemidji, for the second year in a row, won the Northwest conference tennis crown on Tuesday at the Lincoln high school and East Side tennis courts in Thief River Falls by topping the other three teams in the meet with 21 points.

The Lumberjacks doubles team and third singles man came out as individual champions, while Steve Edlund, Thief River Falls, captured the number one singles championship and Crookston the number two singles title.

Play began at 10 a.m. and concluded around six that evening as a spring shower right at the start of the second round of play halted activities for over an hour.

The Lumberjacks doubles team went through the round robin events by stopping the other three doubles teams. The team of Harlan Brooker and Bob Thorson first stopped East Grand Forks by a 9-0 score, halted Crookston by a 9-2 score and topped the Prowlers team of Mark Thyren and Dan Jorgenson for the championship by a 9-2 score.

Steve Edlund, who on Monday afternoon suffered his only loss of the season so far, to Grand Forks Central's Jim Gombucel, came back on Tuesday and topped the number one man from each of the other three teams participating in the tournament.

Edlund first defeated Jay Forney, East Grand Forks by a 9-0 score, then stopped Bemidji's fine sophomore Gary Conda by a 9-4 score and then topped Bruce Reichart, Crookston, for the championship by a 9-0 score.

The second singles was won by Scott Johnson, Crookston, who last spring won the number one singles event. This year Johnson posted wins over Kip Poppenhagen, Thief River Falls, by a 9-6 margin while Poppenhagen lost his first match of the day by falling to Jerry Nelson, Bemidji, by a 9-6 score. Poppenhagen came back in the final match of the day to score a win over Bill Gray, East Grand Forks. This was the first time this season that Poppenhagen has played in the singles event. In other matches he has been teamed with Jorgenson as part of the doubles team.

Johnson, on his way to victory, stopped Poppenhagen and sidelined Gray and Nelson by scores of 9-2 and 9-7 respectively.

Entered in the third singles event for the Prowlers was Stuart Waltanen, who won his first match but then dropped the next two as Bemidji's Phil Roholt took the number three singles championship.

Waltonen stopped Bob Menzuber, Crookston, by a 9-5 score in his first contest of the day, and then dropped decisions to Tom Lang, East Grand Forks, 9-7, and dropped a 9-6 set to Roholt.

Team-wise the Lumberjacks scored nine points in the doubles event, two in the first singles event, four in the second singles and six in the third singles for their 21 point total.

The Prowlers meanwhile scored six points in the doubles event, six in the first singles event, two in the second and third singles events for their 16 points.

Times' Sport Spotlight

GAME OF THE WEEK

by Bob Wielinski

U of M Lands Boucha

University of Minnesota hockey ranks were bolstered recently as they signed four of the top high school hockey performers in Minnesota and North Dakota.

Coach Glen Sonmor stated that "some of the finest products in American high school hockey were signed to the University of Minnesota". Signing letters of intent to the university were Henry Boucha, Warroad; Mike Antonovich, Coleraine; Dixon Shelstad, Minneapolis Southwest; and Jim Gombucel, Grand Forks Central.

Sonmor announced that all four of the players had been approached by colleges across the nation.

He added, "And they won't have long to wait to begin play under the new freshman eligibility rule adapted by the Western Collegiate Hockey association.

Boucha, Antonovich and Shelstad were stars of the 1969 Minnesota state tournament while Gambucel was a top notch player with the North Dakota state champions in 1969.

Former Prowler

Former Thief River Falls Prowler pitching star Tommy Tunberg, who pitched for both the Prowlers and the American Legion team last season, is now doing the same thing for the University of North Dakota.

Tunberg last week blanked the Mayville state junior varsity on four hits, while the University of North Dakota junior varsity swept a twin bill from the Mayville crew. In that game the UND team scored five times as they won the contest 5-0. In the second game they bombed Mayville 12-2.

Leading Hitters

Leading the Thief River Falls Prowlers after six games, not including those played against Fertile and Roseau this week, is sophomore Brian Peterson with an .500 average. He had his best day against Alvarado last week by going four for four and driving in four runs. It was his first start of the season, and he should be in the starting line-up more often if he continues to hit that way.

Don Balmer leads the regulars as he is ropping the ball at a .428 clip with six hits in 14 at bats. Tam Wurst, reserve catcher, is hitting an even .400 as he has two hits in five at bats, both doubles, and leads the Prowlers in two-base hits.

Veteran Tony Johnson is batting .350 with seven hits in 20 at bats. Tony leads the club in hits, and is also the leading pitcher with a perfect 2-0 record in six innings that he has pitched.

Leading the team in runs scored is Dana Stromberg with seven. He also leads the pitchers in strike outs with 12, and has allowed the fewest walks by a Prowler pitcher this season so far with two. He has pitched 13 innings also to lead this department.

Tom Duke is the leading RBI man with five, while Brian Peterson, Balmer and Gordy Peterson all have four each. The leader in errors for the squad is Tony Jonson, as he has committed four, one more than Gordy Peterson. Leading the team in striking out as a batter is Dan Sullivan with five.

As a team the Prowlers are hitting .260 with 47 hits in 177 trips to the plate. They have scored 47 runs, have 28 runs batted in, and have committed 14 errors. They have struck out 38 times and walked 23 times.

In the pitching department they have allowed 40 runs in 40 innings on 57 hits, while striking out 34 and walking 24. They have only committed one wild pitch.

These statistics are unofficial as these are my records and not those of coach Ralph Skay.

More Resignations

It seems that the coaches in the area are beginning to hand in their resignations at a greater pace now that contracts have to be signed. Four more area coaches have indicated that they won't be back, along with another Prowler -- assistant coach. Resigning as assistant wrestling coach at Lincoln high school was Lambert Brunkhorst. Brunkhorst didn't give any reason nor indicate if he intended to leave the school system, as he is still undecided.

At Roseau, Roy Kavanagh, head football coach for the past 13 years, has called it quits as head coach of the Rams and will move to Bemidji to be on the faculty next year. Warroad basketball coach Duane Weiss has resigned, and Hallock will also be looking for a new cage coach as Torrill Frederich also resigned as head of the Bears' staff.

Mahnomen, whose head football and basketball coach resigned a couple of weeks ago, found wrestling coach Jim Truckle also handing in his resignation. In four years at Mahnomen he posted a 33-13 dual record and captured the District 30 and Pine-to-Prairie crowns four times.

All-Time Record For Employment Slated in State

Nonfarm wage and salary jobs in Minnesota set an all-time record for March employment at 1,245,400, according to George J. Vavoulis, commissioner of employment security.

He said this is the eighth consecutive year in which March nonfarm employment has exceeded the previous year. Jobs were up four per cent from March, 1968, when employment was 1,197,000. Vavoulis said that 8,800 more Minnesotans were employed in March than in February.

Vavoulis also said that the number of unemployed—53,900—was significantly less than a year ago, when the unemployment rate was four per cent and 63,500 persons were without jobs. This year's jobless rate for March is 3.4 per cent.

The small drop of 600 in the number of jobless as compared with February left the unemployment rate unchanged.

Seasonally adjusted March unemployment rates were 2.8 per cent for Minnesota and 3.4 per cent for the nation.

Average weekly earnings of manufacturing production workers were up slightly in March to $132.85 for 41.1 hours from $132.45 for 41.0 hours in February. The average hourly earnings of $3.23 were the same for both months.

A year ago manufacturing production workers earned an average of $128.55 for 41.4 hours at $3.10 an hour.

Skjerven Will Open Plumbing Firm in Oklee

A Plummer resident, Jerry Skjerven, announced recently, he will construct a new 40x60 block building in Oklee in which he will operate a plumbing and heating business.

The new building will be located south of the county maintenance garage on a lot purchased from the late Joe Dessellier of Milwaukee, where he operated a feed mill several years ago.

Skjerven is in the process of buying some of the equipment and inventory of the Nadeau plumbing and heating company which was discontinued when Nadeau joined the Oklee Manufacturing company as vice president.

Skjerven also has a plumbing and heating business in Plummer and will operate both firms with the help of Irvan Flatgord of Oklee.

The new firm in Oklee will be known as Jerry's Plumbing and Heating.

Customs Service Gives Answers To Many Questions

(ED. NOTE: The U. S. Customs service receives many inquiries from citizens and foreign visitors on customs regulations. As a service to the public, the Times is publishing this question and answer column for the district director of customs at Pembina, N.D.)

QUESTION: As a nonresident visiting friends in the United States, am I entitled to bring gifts with me without the payment of duty?

ANSWER: Yes. Each nonresident may bring in free of duty and internal revenue tax gifts for other persons if:

The total value of all gifts accompanying him does not exceed $100.

He will remain in the United States for at least 72 hours.

He has not claimed this $100 gift exemption or any part of it within the immediately preceding six months.

One wine gallon (128 ounces) of alcoholic beverages and 100 cigars may be included within this gift exemption. (No Cuban cigars or cigars with Cuban tobacco may be imported.)

QUESTION: I am a watch repairman and am planning on moving to the United States. May I bring my tools with me?

ANSWER: Yes. Tools of trade, professional books, implements and instruments are free of duty if they have been used by the owner and are in his possession at the time he immigrates to the United States. This duty-free provision does not apply to machinery or other articles for use in a manufacturing establishment, for another person, or for sale, nor to theatrical apparel, properties and scenery.

QUESTION: I am getting married in Canada to a Canadian girl. Is she entitled to an exemption on the wedding gifts?

ANSWER: No. No specific exemption from customs duty is allowed a nonresident for wedding gifts as such. However, if you are in Canada more than 48 hours and have not had an exemption within 30 days, you may bring in wedding gifts free of duty up to the total of your exemption allowance. Gifts of U. S. origin may naturally be brought back free of duty if they can be identified as such.

QUESTION: I am moving to the United States. (a) May I bring my personal effects with me free of duty? (b) Are my household effects subject to duty? (c) May I import my automobile free of duty?

ANSWER: (a) You may import into the United States free of duty all wearing apparel and similar personal articles owned by you and in your possession before you move to the United States if they are intended for your own personal use and not for sale.

(b) Your furniture, carpets, dishes, linens and similar household furnishings may be imported into the United States free of duty if: 1. They are not imported for another person; 2. They are not imported for sale; and 3. They have been used abroad by you for not less than one year or were available for use in a household in which you were a resident member for one year.

(c) Your automobile may be brought in free of duty for the transportation of yourself and family. However, if you sell the vehicle within one year after its importation, duties must be paid to the United States customs office most convenient to you before the sale is completed.

QUESTION: If it is impossible for me to bring all of my personal and household effects with me at the time I enter the United States, can they be brought in later duty free?

ANSWER: Yes. Your goods can be shipped to you at a later time, or you may bring them yourself at a convenient time. Any customs office can explain the requirements to you.

What is your Customs question? If you have one, send it to the: CUSTOMS ANSWER MAN, District Director of Customs, Pembina, N. D.

Use Those Terrific Trailers!

By Tom Andrews

I'm not sure that anyone knows just when or why the first spoon fisherman cut a strip of light-colored cloth or bark to hang on his lure. But that's the man who should certainly be dubbed the "patron saint" of spoon fishing!

My tackle box has held an assortment of pork trailers for as long as I could afford tackle boxes. More recently, I've kept a few rubber skirts, too.

The pork rind available as a white strip for so many years was finally joined by the pork "frog." This chunky piece with its green and white-spotted trailer, threaded onto the hook of a Johnson Silver Minnow, cut a swath through the U.S. bass population 40 years ago—and is still a deadly combination.

Then came the "black eel" that is particularly (though not exclusively) productive in southern waters. And just recently, my buddies and I have been extremely pleased with the performance of the purple-dyed pork trailer and rubber skirts.

Just what a pork trailer can mean in terms of fish or no-fish was demonstrated only last year on the Chicago lakefront when I joined thousands of anglers of all ages crowding the city's beaches and parks, piers and jetties to try for that new "miracle of Lake Michigan"—the coho.

I used ocean-type spinning and bait-casting tackle capable of putting my lures a few hundred feet from shore.

The wife and I were well-stocked with the largest sizes of Silver Minnows and Sprites—the latter in both the blue mullet and chrome finishes.

I knew the coho salmon, before its transplantation to Lake Michigan, as a fast and furious eater that liked its lures bright and full of action. So I had a duo that certainly filled the bill in those respects.

But (and who ever said professionals never make mistakes!) I forgot my own cardinal rule of sure-fire fish catching: I forgot to outfit my Silver Minnows with those terrific trailers!

So I had to sit in the Johnson offices the next day and hear my co-workers tell me of a teenaged boy who, the day before and only a few hundred yards from me, had fitted a purple version of the Silver Minnow with an orange rubber skirt and had caught more coho than he knew what to do with!

To keep bright shining hardware closings on clothes and accessories from becoming discolored, apply a protective coating of clear nail enamel to the metal. To protect the surrounding fabric or leather from smudges, "frame" the hardware with strips of masking tape before you apply the enamel.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Taming the Kidnapper

Of all the agonies inflicted upon the family of a kidnap victim, probably the worst is the fear that harm will befall their loved one.

To stay the kidnapper's hand, the Federal Kidnapping Act — and some state kidnap laws as well — impose a milder penalty on the kidnapper if he releases the victim unharmed.

What does that mean? What kind of "harm" are these laws talking about?

Obviously there is harm inflicted, calling for the heavier penalty, when the victim has been subjected to a deliberate beating or a criminal assault.

Likewise, a court held that harm had been inflicted when two women and a child were locked in a small, overheated closet, and later bound hand and foot with ropes and wire.

On the other hand, when the only injury was that the kidnapper had gripped the victim's arms hard enough to hurt, the court refused to impose the heavier penalty.

"Such trivial injury," said the judge, "is not sufficient to constitute bodily harm."

Suppose the injury is indeed serious, but—rather than being inflicted by the kidnapper—is the result of the victim's own attempt to escape. Does that kind of an injury "count" against the kidnapper?

The court said yes in one case, in which a girl was hurt when she jumped from a moving car. The court reasoned that, since the kidnapper had been threatening to assault her, the dangers of an attempted flight could fairly be attributed to him.

But in another case, where no threats of harm preceded the escape attempt, the court ruled that the resulting injury could not justify a heavier penalty against the kidnapper.

It may seem strange to draw such careful distinctions in judging someone as reprehensible as a kidnapper.

Yet, after all, the law's purpose is not to do the kidnapper any favors but to reduce the danger to his victim. This can be achieved only if the kidnapper has reason to believe that, if he goes easier on the victim, the law will go easier on him.

Maverick's hot! Any questions?

Measure it any way you like. By the crowds. The news stories. The sales. Few cars have caused a sensation like Maverick or broken so many records. Every day more and more people are asking questions about it. Here are the answers.

Q. Why did you build the Maverick?
A. We think of Maverick as another one of Ford Motor Company's answers to the gold drain. Now Americans who want small car economy don't have to send their U.S. dollars overseas.

Q. Why did you call it Maverick?
A. You know what a maverick is. A maverick breaks the rules. A maverick is different. Maverick plugs the big gap between the compacts and the imports. It has a wheelbase eight inches shorter than a '69 Falcon, eight and one-half inches longer than a VW 1500. Nothing else like it.

Q. Why did you make it this size?
A. Maverick pinches pennies, not people. We gave Maverick more leg room. More shoulder room. More luggage room. Good example: the front seat of a Maverick offers you nine inches more shoulder room than the front seat of the leading economy import and its trunk can handle all the luggage for a family of four, including a set of golf clubs.

Q. What do I get for the price?
A. You get your money's worth. A complete, built-for-Americans kind of car. Room. Hot styling. Color-keyed interiors. Even the heater is included. Some economy car interiors are about as luxurious as a park bench. Not Maverick's. You get plush seats. Cloth and vinyl upholstery with unique tartan plaid cloth inserts. You also get safety features like smart pull-out door handles. Strong safety door locks. Two-speed electric wipers. Safety belts. Head restraints. Plus conveniences like armrests, coat hooks, lighted heater controls . . . important little things that add so much to your driving comfort.

Q. What about options?
A. You can get 'em if you want 'em. You can order integral air conditioning. (It's built in, not hung on.) Other options include 3-speed automatic or low-cost semiautomatic transmission, and a hefty 200 CID Six. But lots of people won't put an extra cent into this car. Because it's all there. A complete car all ready to drive home.

Q. What kind of gas mileage can I get?
A. That depends on you as well as the car. You can get as much as 25 or 26 miles per gallon—if you have an educated toe and the right road conditions. If you have a lead foot, or do a lot of city driving, you will get a lot less. In tests by professional drivers at our tracks, where we do our best to duplicate actual driving conditions, Maverick averaged 22.5 mpg.

Q. What kind of power does Maverick have?
A. Maverick's Six lets loose 105 galloping horses. That's 52 more than you get in the 4-cylinder VW 1500. Maverick can cover 417 feet in ten seconds from a standing start. That means you can get up to highway speed in a hurry. When you enter a 70 mph turnpike, you won't feel like a retired bookkeeper thrust into the middle of a pro football game.

Q. If it has an eight inch longer wheelbase than the leading import, does it still handle and park easily?
A. Maverick can U-turn in a tighter circle (35.6 feet) than the leading economy import (36.0 feet). Maverick can slant through traffic like a halfback. It can turn on a dime and give you nine cents change. If you've been driving any other American car, you'll find Maverick's neat size adds up to 5½ feet to any parking space.

Q. Can Detroit really build a small economy car that's tough and long lasting?
A. It's not easy, but we did it. Maverick's unitized body construction makes it light, strong and durable. It's welded like a battleship. Rustproofing compound goes into deep crevices that never see the light of day. Then all that strength is covered with four coats of paint for lasting beauty. Result: one tough little car that's put together to stay together. (The service schedule in the Maverick owner's manual goes up to 106,000 miles or nine years, that ought to tell you something about its rugged durability.)

Q. How about parts and service?
A. Maverick is designed to be unusually easy to service. You're dealing with made-in-America parts and 9,000 easy-to-find Ford Dealers. Fast repairs and easy replacements mean extra savings in both time and money.

Q. Is Maverick really easier and less expensive to maintain than an economy import?
A. Definitely. Maverick oil changes come only every 6,000 miles and chassis lubrication once every 36,000 miles. The leading economy import recommends oil changes every 3,000 miles (twice as often as Maverick) and chassis lubrication every 6,000 miles (six times as often as Maverick). Those are just a few examples of the many ways Maverick lessens inconvenience and lowers operating cost.

Q. Can I do my own maintenance work?
A. Yes, if you have an average amount of mechanical ability. The Maverick owner's manual contains 24 pages of detailed diagrams and easy-to-follow instructions for routine maintenance jobs you can do yourself, if you wish. You'll find it easy to change spark plugs, replace ignition points . . . plus many other do-it-yourself repairs and replacements.

Q. Can a small car be safe? And how safe is safe?
A. This small car incorporates the latest advances in engineering. Maverick's brakes are as big as a standard compact's—designed to stop cars weighing hundreds of pounds more. Maverick gives you weight . . . power . . . stability. Designed for American driving conditions.

Q. How does Maverick ride?
A. Here's where Maverick's longer, wider stance really pays off. You get a smoother, quieter ride. Maverick's light, strong, unitized body helps eliminate squeaks and rattles. Special insulation blocks out road noise. The people who brought you a Ford that was quieter than a Rolls-Royce now bring you a small car that doesn't sound like a power mower.

Q. Is there an advantage in the fact that Maverick is really a 1970 car?
A. Slower depreciation is one money-in-the-pocket advantage. Maverick's 1970 model designation means it keeps its trade-in value higher, longer. (Maverick is built to be a good investment from the minute you buy it to the minute you sell it.)

Better come take a look at this one. You'll find it where the action is . . . right in there with other great Ford values like specially equipped Ford Galaxie 500's . . . Fairlanes . . . Mustangs and Falcons.

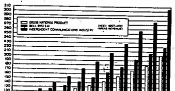
Independent Telephone Industry Investment Passes $10 Billion Mark



This chart shows how the nation's independent (non-Bell) telephone industry has gained in revenues over the last decade at a faster rate than either the larger Bell System or the nation's economy as measured by the Gross National Product.

Total plant investment of the nation's independent telephone industry has just passed the $10 billion mark.

This milestone was reported by William S. Kingman, president of the U.S. Independent Telephone Association headquartered in Washington, D.C.

He predicted that the fast-growing industry's plant investment will reach $15 billion by 1972. The 2,000 independent (non-Bell) telephone operating companies in the United States now rank among the nation's leading industries in terms of total investment.

The independents have nearly as large an investment in equipment as the nation's scheduled commercial airlines, Kingman said.

They are nearly half as large as the nation's mining industry in terms of capital equipment.

The independents during the last decade have grown faster than either the larger Bell Telephone System or the nation's economy as a whole.

Kingman said this was due to the burgeoning growth of the nation's suburbs and rural areas, many of which are served by independents. Rapidly advancing communications technology is also a factor.

The independents operate more than 18 million telephones — 1 in 16 of the national total — in more than half the nation's geographic service area. In 1969, they will invest more than $1.3 billion to expand and improve service, and their combined revenues are expected to be nearly $1.5 billion.

What is the international date line?

The international date line is an irregular north-south line that runs along or close to the 180th meridian. It extends from the North Pole to the South Pole. This line separates the regions of earliest and latest standard time on the earth's surface.

On the western side of the line the time is always 24 hours, or 1 full day, later than on the eastern side. For example, when it is 6:00 P.M. Friday (see chart) on the western side of the line, it is 6:00 P.M. Thursday on the eastern side.

How do bats find their way in the dark?

For centuries men who studied bats wondered how they found their way in the dark. How could a bat with no light to see by find a flying insect and catch it in flight? Many people used to think that bats had unusually keen eyesight and could see by light too faint for human eyes to detect. Scientists now know that a bat's ability to navigate depends not on its eyes but on its ears and vocal organs.

How old is the game of chess?

Since its origin in India and Persia more than 13 centuries ago, chess, the "royal game," has provided many exciting hours of play for both children and adults. The word "chess" is derived from the Persian word shah, which means "king." The term "checkmate," signifying that the enemy king is threatened and cannot be saved, can be traced to an Arabic phrase, shah mat, which means "the king is dead."

Is there really an Abominable Snowman?

The Abominable Snowman is a mysterious creature who is said to prowl the rocky heights of the Himalayas. He is pictured as an apelike man, covered completely with blond or reddish hair except on his hands, his face, and the soles of his feet. He walks upright and wears no clothes. The Sherpas tell many stories about yeti and claim to have seen him many times. Some people believe yeti is a primitive form of man. Others believe yeti is the creation of vivid imagination. But no one has been able to prove whether or not the Abominable Snowman really exists.

When you cut out cotton corduroy for sewing, don't fold the fabric crosswise. If you do, the same pattern piece will have the nap running up on one side and down on the other. Rub your hand across the corduroy to determine whether the nap runs up or down. It will feel smoother running down.

Light makes a difference

by Nancy Evans

Residential Lighting Specialist
General Electric, Nela Park

Mural wall paper is featured by cornice lighting on a dimmer, draperies floodlighted by reflector lamps. Ceiling-mounted "eyeball" highlights piano. Portable lamps provide ample light for reading and add decorative accent.

If a single room can be called the most important one to your house from a visual standpoint, it is the living room. This room is usually the focal point of a home . . the one most visitors see first, establishing the mood and decorative theme for the rest of the house.

But the most tastefully decorated living room is lost if not seen in the proper light. Good, balanced lighting should be an integral part of any home decorating plan.

Whether you plan an elaborate installation with built-in light sources and rewiring or a more economical and simple treatment, three basic types of lighting will apply: overall illumination, light for specific work areas and decorative or accent lighting.

A FEW decades ago, builders planned rooms with central overhead fixtures, giving no thought to other light sources. This type of fixture is not as common today but is still excellent for overall illumination. It should complement, rather than dominate, the rest of the lighting treatment.

Overall lighting is necessary to fill in between pools of light from table or floor lamps, eliminating harsh contrasts between light and shadows. Three-way bulbs are ideal with such lamps, changing the light level for TV viewing, conversations or other activities.

Areas of the living room used for sewing or reading should be illuminated with adequate yet comfortable and glare-free lighting. Floor, table and wall-mounted lamps or spot lights recessed in the ceiling are some of the lighting units which can be used.

ACCENT lighting is employed purely for its artistic or decorative effect. It can vary from tiny, recessed, incandescent spotlights highlighting a painting or piece of sculpture to "washing" a wall with fluorescent tubes concealed behind a valance board.

All of these lighting techniques will be treated in detail at a later date in this column. Combined, they can add that extra touch of dramatic creativity that sets your living room aside from the ordinary.

The Library Corner

by Flora Allison

We hope you missed the library column this last week: time just got away from us and we couldn't come up with anything creative. Your continued support and encouragement are heartening; without them, there would be no need for this type of publicity. As long as the arrangement is reciprocal—you read what we write and we'll write it—we'll do our utmost to oblige you. Besides, it's fun, getting together with you like this over the books we both like to discuss.

I guess the opinion in the minds of many, concerning the time when science fiction first came into prominence, might be the same as mine before I read that it really wasn't much a part of the literary scene prior to 1891. People just weren't thinking in terms of the cosmos; the world they lived on was enough, but there were a few pioneering minds who were peering beyond the stars and dreaming up a number of fantastic possibilities concerning the unknown. However, they weren't published much before the era of the big magazines, ushered in during the 1890s. 1891 is the date of the oldest such fantasies in "Science Fiction by Gaslight".

Once it began, the trend spread and each publication seemed to be outreaching itself in an effort to bring its readers appalling and terror-filled stories with a scientific theme. Read "The Thames River Catastrophe," for an example, and you'll be gasping. Read Jules Verne, Robert Barr, William Hodgson: you're sure to find something you haven't read previously in this thrilling anthology. Try on for size "Where the Air Quivered"; "The Monster of Lake LaMetrie"; "The Death Trap"; "The Ray of Displacement". Don't some of these sound like now? And if you're a teenager, like pow?

Achieving the unenviable status of notoriety, not entirely through his own fault, was Pontius Pilate, about whom Paul Maier has written a penetrating novel under that title. Cast in the role of judge of the innocence or guilt of Jesus as a traitor to his country, Pilate will be known forever as the tyrant who condemned innocence to death, the man who handed over the Christ to the executioners. This action earned Pilate the despicable phrase in the Christian creed: "suffered under Pontius Pilate..." What led up to this time in history which was to place him in the most unenviable position in which a man could find himself, and the stronger course his life was to follow after "the deed" are the subject of this discerning biographical novel. Maier has done a beautiful job with this one. Get it here at the library.

Teenagers (and their dads and mothers who like adventure) will sit up until the small hours of dawn with "Great Adventures With Wild Animals", edited by Helen Wright. Awesome escapes in their encounters with the behemoths of the jungle were the order of the day for the men on assignment to bring back trophies of elephant tusks, and other treasures of the wild for museums. Some others were merely observers, but their curiosity was as deadly as the stalking of the trophy hunters. Still others managed to tame some of the animals which so fascinated them, but you'll read also about every possible kind of escape and of some fatalities which were inevitable.

Man-eating tigers in India, elephants of Africa, army ants zeroing in on a jungle camp, wild gorillas and other animals fill the chapters of this book, and the chapter on flight of birds was as lovely and fascinating as any nature book I have yet read. If nature lore is your bag (and what better time to follow that instinct than right now?) here is your book of wonders, told like a diary and including interesting sidelights, such as being in a marine tank with killer whales and others just as novel and deadly.

Teenage girls who are a little more mature than those in early teens will want to include "Greensleeves" by Eloise McGraw in their summer reading. It's definitely a woman's book, about a youngish woman, Shannon Lightely, and the turmoil in her private world of growing up. In order to get her bearings following her parents' shattering divorce, she assumes a new name and identity and for the first time, a new independence.

Sorting out her confused feelings for a certain Sherry, who loved her, and whom she loved (perhaps) yet to whom she could not commit herself, being not completely sure, she holds all her deepest feelings in suspension until she can (hopefully) come to the wisest, best and most permanent solution. The book ends on a vaguely questioning note, yet with the fate of our young heroine and of her happiness in steady and maturing hands. You'll find it with the new fiction books on the adult shelf, for in it many women can find a counterpart for their own past youth.

"Hob Nob" by Christopher B. Wilson is about two brothers who will delight first and second graders, when they read it themselves, and the younger kids who have it read to them. The brothers were farmers; one raised corn, the other bees, and they both raised a lot of cain. (Ask your Mom or Daddy what that means).

Hob wanted some of Nob's honey to put on his corn muffins, and Nob wanted Hob's corn so that he could make muffins out of it. But both were too stubborn to give in. Finally someone pointed out how much better off they both would be if only they decided to get along, and share what they had. Getting along is hobnobbing, and the author thinks this might be where the term got its start. It's a valuable object lesson and an entertaining story in addition. The drawings are just to a kid's order.

With the coming of spring, perhaps we think more and more of nature and growing, and the world around us, than in other seasons. Or perhaps this grandmother is on a nature kick, what with the first two grandchildren's double birthday imminent: May 7, to be exact. With Patrick, about-to-be-three and already a confirmed "reader" (of pictures) and Shannon, almost two, also an avid learner, one is constantly being challenged to answer questions. In another year or two, Number One Grandson will be ready for the Mason series on animals: "Animal Appetites", "Animal Baggage," "Animal Clothing," and "Animal Tools" (the latter especially intriguing: the rattler's tail for giving warnings, the beaver's also for signaling, as well as swimming, the porcupine's for beating the next branch when descending a tree, the kangaroo's for jumping, and for leaning on when resting, the cheetah's for support and balance, and the bird's for all sorts of acrobatics').

And Millicent Selsam's books, also in that vein, include "Animals as Parents," "The Courtship of Animals," and "How Animals Live Together", will provide kids with lots of entertainment. They're in the 591 section of the junior library, just waiting to be read under a tree or in a lawn chair, perhaps. So come in and get them, and spend a great afternoon with your animal friends through the printed page.

The books are here for the taking; by the thousands. Come in and get your share.

To give crisp new body to dark cottons, dip them in a weak solution of plain gelatin and water. Roll in towels to absorb excess moisture and press while still damp. They will keep a crisp finish through several wearings.

Family FINANCIAL PROTECTION

Policyholder Questions Answered by the Health Insurance Institute, 277 Park Ave., N. Y., N. Y., 10017

Q. A friend of mine was shocked recently when he received staggering hospital and doctor bills following a minor operation. I've been thinking the same thing would happen to me and that I'd better do something about it. Since I do not have any health insurance, could you give me a quick run-down on the kinds of protection available?

A. Before talking about the various kinds of health insurance you should first ask yourself what your needs are. Next you must consider the number of people you want to cover in your policy. Are you single? Or the father of several young children? Are your children grown? You will also want to think about the extent of coverage you need and how much you can afford to pay. In each case, your needs would be different.

VARIOUS KINDS OF HEALTH INSURANCE

For example, if you have a young family you probably need basic "first dollar coverage," including hospital, surgical, and physicians' expenses to help pay for yours and the children's accidents and other illnesses. Protection against more serious conditions can be obtained through a major medical policy, which provides high maximum benefits to help pay those "staggering" bills.

On the other hand, if your family is in a good situation financially, you may find a major medical policy is all the protection you need.

If you are 65 or older you will also want to consider the advantage of health insurance coverage to round out your Medicare protection.

If you are self-employed, your first consideration might be disability income insurance that will provide immediate cash benefits to your family in case your income is cut off because of illness or accident. Of course, this insurance is important for anyone whose income would stop if he was unable to work.

So you see, it's important to analyze your needs first. An insurance man can fill you in on the details and work out a program suited to your needs.

Q. The girls in my bridge club were talking about health insurance the other day and one of them mentioned that she and her husband had recently taken out a policy with major medical coverage. I've heard the term before but I don't know exactly what it means. Can you explain it?

A. Major medical insurance is designed to help protect families against heavy medical expenses resulting from prolonged illnesses or accidents. It covers virtually every kind of medical treatment both in and out of the hospital. More than 62 million Americans now have this kind of protection.

Benefit payments help pay for 75 to 80 per cent of the expenses of all types of medical treatment prescribed by a physician above a certain "deductable" amount first paid by the insured person. The maximum amount provided by the policy for any one illness usually runs to $10,000, $20,000 or even higher.

Q. I have a good friend across the street who has three very young children. Unfortunately, she is careless about the things she leaves within easy reach of them. My warnings have done no good because she says cleaning compounds and such things taste so bad, the kids would never drink them. Can you help me convince her?

A. It's one of the peculiarities of children that they turn their noses up at good food, and eat what's bad for them. The result is often tragic. About two million American children will be poisoned this year by products commonly found in and around the house. Nine out of 10 of these kids will be under five years of age. And about 500 children will die as a result.

We hope these grim figures help your friend realize that it really is better to be safe than sorry.

Q. A fellow in my office who makes about the same salary as I do, and who has three young children, recently mentioned a "family income" life insurance policy he had taken out. I have four young children and was thinking maybe this policy would be appropriate for me. But I'm not sure how it works. Can you give me the details?

A. The family income policy combines two types of protection plans — a core of permanent life insurance in the form of a straight life policy, together with reducing term insurance. The term insurance covers the time while the children are growing up. If you should die during that period your family would have a regular income for the remainder of the term in addition to the face value of the straight policy at the end of the term.

For example, a 20-year $10,000 family-income policy would provide an income of $100 a month for the remainder of the 20-year family protection period after the father's death. It would also provide $10,000 for the family from the straight life policy.

If the father lives, the premium drops when the reducing term period has ended to cover only the straight life policy. Incidentally, the straight life portion of the policy accumulates cash values all along.

Roseau Men Will Be Sentenced for House Vandalism

Five Roseau men pled guilty to vandalism against private property in municipal court in Roseau recently, following extensive damage to a vacant house on the Roger Sandstrom farm (formerly the Green farm) near Malung hall early on April 25. A sixth man had eluded the law and a warrant had been issued for his arrest.

Judge Arnold Hildahl told the men they must have made complete restitution of the building by May 9, on which date he will pronounce sentence upon them.

Appearing in court were Vernon and Dennis Skagstad, Lyle Ruley, Louis Mansrud and Paul Burton. Sought on warrant is Glnyden Rugland.

The men had allegedly broken out all the windows in the house, destroying many of the frames, ripped a kitchen sink and cabinet from the wall, ripped off a cupboard in the entry, thrown a wash machine out into the yard and broke several doors. They had also reportedly turned on the gas from a propane tank before leaving the premises.

Their vehicle went out of control at the entry of the farm as they left and went into a ditch. They called at a neighboring farm at 2:30 a.m. asking to use the telephone.

When the neighbor later saw the windows broken out of the house, the owner was called and he in turn called Sheriff Knochenmus who investigated the incident.

Five of the six men were jailed by noon the same day. The sixth had not been apprehended, but was being sought.

Hog Chol'era Found In Southern Minn.

Dr. J. G. Flint, executive officer of the Minnesota livestock sanitary board, reports on two cases of hog cholera which recently occurred in Minnesota.

In Nicollet county hog cholera was diagnosed on a premises containing 15 head of swine. These swine were humanely destroyed on the premises and the carcasses transported to a rendering plant. The owner will receive indemnity in the amount of $495 shared in equal parts by state and federal funds.

In Brown county hog cholera was diagnosed on a feed lot. There were 1,519 swine on the premises. Two hundred and thirty-six head were salvaged through slaughter at a federally inspected slaughtering establishment. The salvage was approximately $14,000. The balance of the herd was humanely destroyed on the premises and the carcasses transported to a rendering plant. The owner will receive indemnity of approximately $37,400 shared in equal amounts by state and federal funds.

Hog cholera is a specific disease of swine caused by a filtrable virus. The disease does not affect other animals or humans.

The cause of the two outbreaks is as yet undetermined, but investigations are being conducted.

Your attention is drawn to the following news items which reveal the steps taken by your federal government and your state government to eradicate hog cholera from not only Minnesota, but the entire nation. When hog cholera is eradicated from the entire nation, markets in other countries will be open for our pork products which are presently not allowed entry because of the fear of introducing hog cholera into that country.

Hog cholera vaccines have at times been incriminated as being the cause of hog cholera. At the request of the swine industry hearings were held on the subject. There was overwhelming support by the Swine Industry for the cessation of vaccination of swine against hog cholera. The federal government has proposed rules and regulations that will end the shipment interstate of hog cholera vaccines on June 1, 1969.

As a further safeguard any swine that are vaccinated after June 1, 1969 may move in interstate traffic for breeding or feeding purposes until Dec. 1, 1969. If moved interstate after Dec. 1, 1969, swine vaccinated during the period above may move only to slaughter.

Swine moving interstate are required to be accompanied by a health certificate issued by a veterinarian in accordance with the requirements of the state of destination.

On July 1, 1969, Minnesota will enter the fourth phase of the national hog cholera eradication program. On this date the following actions to eradicate hog cholera in Minnesota will be in effect:

1. No hog cholera vaccines of any type shall be administered to swine in Minnesota.

2. Veterinarian's permits for the use and administration of modified live hog cholera virus vaccines will be revoked.

3. On premises where hog cholera is diagnosed, all swine will be destroyed in a humane manner and the carcasses transported to rendering plants. Salvage through slaughter will not be permitted.

4. Owners will be indemnified from funds of state and federal governments. Prior to destruction, the swine will be appraised at their true market value. Indemnity is based on this appraisal, but is not to exceed $80 for grade swine; $100 for registered swine.

5. Premises depopulated of swine shall be cleaned and disinfected before indemnity can be paid. Premises shall remain under quarantine for at least 30 days following completion of the cleaning and disinfection. Premises shall not be restocked with swine until after the quarantine is released.

6. Swine moving through public stockyards, state-federal approved markets for swine, livestock auction markets or to fairs and exhibitions will be required to be protected by the administration of anti hog cholera serum or antibody concentrate.

Owners are advised to check their swine herds closely and they are urged to contact their veterinarian at the first signs of illness in their swine.

Most Crimes in State Decease In Last Quarter

Attorney General Douglas M. Head has announced that for the first quarter since 1965 statistically reported crimes decreased in Minnesota by 8.8 per cent.

Speaking at the 7th District Republican convention, he stated that violent crimes—murders, manslaughter, rape and aggravated assaults—were down 11.2 per cent; crimes involving property (burglary, larceny and auto theft) decreased by 8.9 per cent; and robbery offenses increased by 6 per cent.

Statistics for the urban area were down 7.1 per cent as Minneapolis reported a decrease of 9.0 per cent, St. Paul 16.2 per cent and Duluth 18.4 per cent, he said.

Other cities in the state showed a crime decrease of 0.3 per cent, while the rural areas (communities under 2,500 population) showed a significant lessening of the crime rate by reporting a 20.4 per cent decrease.

State-wide, murder was down 62.4 per cent; manslaughter by negligence, down 22.2 per cent; rapes, down 14.7 per cent; aggravated assaults, down 7.7 per cent; burglaries, down 5.7 per cent; larcenies under $50, down 13.2 per cent; and auto thefts, down 3.2 per cent. Robberies, which increased 0.6 per cent and larceny over $50 which increased seven per cent were the only crime statistics to increase.

Head stated that although the severe weather might have had an effect on the crime rate, the figures were very significant and encouraging. "All of the statistics which showed a decrease in the crime rate are obviously noteworthy, but even the two instances of increase were significant. Crimes involving burglary and robbery have risen sharply in recent years and Minnesota has seen a clear reversal of this trend."

Bulk of Property Tax Increases Due To Schools

Two-thirds of the unprecedented increase in the total of property taxes payable this year is chargeable to school district tax levies, according to the Minnesota Taxpayers association.

Statewide, the taxes levied by all units of local government total $764,000,000, up 20.6 per cent from the $634,000,000 payable last year. The one-year increase of $130,000,000 is more than the combined total of increases for 1965, 1966, 1967 and 1968.

"School district levies account for $89,689,000 of the increase," states Charles P. Stone, executive director of the taxpayers association.

In Pennington county property taxes payable this year total $1,923,076, compared to $1,375,513 last year, an increase of 39.81 per cent. Of the $547,563 increase, $48,983 or 8.94 per cent was levied by the county, $110,649 or 20.21 per cent was levied by municipalities (cities, villages and townships) and $387,930 or 70.85 per cent was levied by school districts.

"This year's jump in property taxes is a real shocker," Stone said. "In most areas the boost in tax levies has raised tax rates to the highest point in history, and in some places to an almost confiscatory level.

"Since the state no longer levies a tax on property, and provides full reimbursement for revenues lost through elimination of the personal property tax on farm livestock and machinery and on either business inventories or tools and machinery, responsibility for the increase rests wholly with local government.

"If further increases are to be avoided, it seems that property owners must look to one of several alternatives: (1) positive action by school boards and other local tax-levying bodies at least to hold the line on spending; (2) legislative action to restrict and limit property tax increases, and (3) legislative action to authorize new, non-property tax revenue sources for local government."

600,000 State Taxpayers Get Federal Refund

Almost 600,000 Minnesota taxpayers have received refunds totaling more than $100 million, according to George Lethert, district director of the Internal revenue service.

"If you have a refund due, give the IRS 10 weeks from the date you filed the return," Lethert suggested. "By that time, most taxpayers have their refund checks, or an explanation of any delay in processing."

If it is necessary to write, taxpayers should give their name, address and social security number, and indicate when and where the return was filed. This information permits local IRS offices to check out any unusual delays in processing a return, and furnish information as to when the refund check may be received.

Inquiry letters should be addressed to the St. Paul office, even if the taxpayer filed his return direct in the IRS service center, Lethert stated. Unless additional information is required, return processing should be completed by the end of May, he indicated.

Who doesn't like to be remembered? It's natural to feel a certain glow when you receive a greeting card. It means that someone has thought of you, that someone cares.

Yet how foolish it would be for any of us to ever believe that we are alone or friendless. There is always Someone who cares, who cares very deeply . . . who cared enough to sacrifice His only Son for us.

At times, we are all lonesome. Yet we are never really alone. There are few places in the world where we cannot, if we but look, find a church that will welcome us wholeheartedly. God's house is not like other houses. There is always room [illegible] for one more. And when that one more has entered, there is room for yet another.

Start taking part in the life of the Church today!

Many farm families in this area have converted to electric heat.

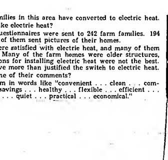
Why do they like electric heat?

To find out, questionnaires were sent to 242 farm families. 194 replied, and many of them sent pictures of their homes.

All of them were satisfied with electric heat, and many of them were enthusiastic. Many of the farm homes were older structures, so that the conditions for installing electric heat were not the best. Yet, the results have more than justified the switch to electric heat.

What were some of their comments?

You'll find them in words like "convenient . . . clean . . . comfortable . . . space-savings . . . healthy . . . flexible . . . efficient . . . adaptable . . . sure . . . quiet . . . practical . . . economical."



If you would like more information about converting to electric heat, check with your local rural electric cooperative. For a free booklet, showing actual homes which have been converted to electric heat, write to:

Many farm families in this area have converted to electric heat. Why do they like electric heat?

To find out, questionnaires were sent to 242 farm families. 194 replied, and many of them sent pictures of their homes.

All of them were satisfied with electric heat, and many of them were enthusiastic. Many of the farm homes were older structures, so that the conditions for installing electric heat were not the best. Yet, the results have more than justified the switch to electric heat.

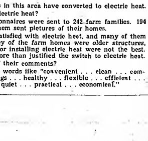
What were some of their comments?

You'll find them in words like "convenient . . . clean . . . comfortable . . . space-savings . . . healthy . . . flexible . . . efficient . . . adaptable . . . sure . . . quiet . . . practical . . . economical."



If you would like more information about converting to electric heat, check with your local rural electric cooperative. For a free booklet, showing actual homes which have been converted to electric heat, write to:

Advertising Pays . . . .

"It pays to advertise" is a commonly accepted slogan, and its truth is well-known from the seller's point of view. Perhaps equal or greater attention should be given to the advantage of advertising—and particularly price advertising—from the buyer's point of view. By being able to compare prices, the buyer is able to save money, and competition for the customer's dollar tends to keep prices down.

There are those who would like to see price advertising curtailed in certain fields. This is done in the name of professionalism. Some professions now having power of self-regulation do not allow price advertising. Most forms of advertising in these professions are considered "unethical".

Minnesota Optometric association is making its fourth effort in the Minnesota legislature to obtain regulatory legislation. Robert Shaw of the Minnesota Newspaper association testified against the bill. There is logic in his argument—logic which consumers should recognize as beneficial to the buying public. Excerpts from Shaw's testimony follow:

"We have a very simple and direct position: We defend the right of those who sell merchandise freely to ADVERTISE what they have for sale within the limits of the state fraudulent advertising statute. Dispensing opticians—the people who grind lenses and make frames—have a clear right, we believe, to ADVERTISE THEIR PRODUCT FOR SALE.

"But this bill gives these people a devil's choice: It commands them either (1) stop price advertising, or (2) you can't have a licensed optometrist working for you. Now why should you legislators—under strong pressure from ONE group of people—pass a law which gives a SECOND group of people—competing with the first—this kind of CHOICE?

"Banks hire lawyers, yet banks advertise. Insurance companies hire doctors, yet insurance companies are free to advertise. Lumber companies hire architects and contractors hire engineers, but lumber companies and contractors advertise if they wish. Why should optometrists seek legislation, then—and GET IT—to prevent NON-OPTOMETRISTS from advertising?

"I suggest that if you dig a little, you'll find the reason: Optometrists are COMPETITIVE with dispensing opticians. Both are in the business of selling merchandise—namely, glasses and frames. There is no doubt in my mind that the merchandising activities of large dispensing opticians....have cut into the profits of the independent optometrist. For it's true: You actually CAN get glasses as low as $9.90. And people LEARN about this from advertising.

"IS THERE ANYTING WRONG WITH THIS? I'm sure this competition makes optometrists uncomfortable, but what's wrong about honest price advertising from the PUBLIC point of view?"

Shaw notes that there was no evidence that the public's eyesight had been in any way damaged by dispensing opticians. He added that price competition keeps prices down. Then he concluded:

"Optometrists already have a law which makes it illegal for THEM to price advertise. They've had this law since 1929. We don't like this either. But when they go into RELATED fields to try to prevent OTHERS from selling their products at low prices, we just think they're going too far....This is anti-consumer legislation. Government has no business making truthful advertising a violation of the law."

"It is certainly very cold," said Peggotty. "Everybody must feel it so." "I feel it more than other people," said Mrs. Gummidge. —Charles Dickens

License Increase

Adoption of increased license fees for fishing and for hunting small game and big game in Minnesota took place recently by the Minnesota legislature. The increase will be met with a certain amount of displeasure by the sportsman—particularly the sportsman who pursues hunting and fishing pleasures only a very few times each year.

The avid sportsman, however, will not object to the increase—in fact, will appreciate the intent of it. So long as the entire license fee is dedicated to the department of conservation for its game and fish division, it is money well spent by sportsmen. Cost of license is only a fraction of total hunting or fishing costs, and it is an investment in continuance of these sports for the future.

Sportsmen have recognized for a long time that they have supported conservation of Minnesota's wildlife through their license purchases. Other nature lovers who do not hunt and fish but enjoy wildlife have been critical of the hunter and fisherman while freeloading on his dollars. By paying to harvest game, hunters have been providing the funds to allow management practices which preserve game and other wildlife species.

It would be proper for the conservation department to receive a general appropriation in addition to the license fee money—a contribution from the non-hunting public as its contribution toward preservation of one of the state's natural resources. We strongly oppose, however, the substitution of an appropriation for license revenue. It is more difficult to divert and pilfer dedicated funds than to manipulate general funds. The conservation department is at least assured of license revenue now.

Many is the time when the conservation department and the legislature have not seen eye-to-eye on particular questions. Legislators are jealous of their power and reluctant to surrender it. If the conservation department was forced to rely on the legislature for its operating funds each biennium, political expediency and compromise would likely work to the detriment of wildlife conservation.....and to the detriment of sportsmen.

We like to see the future of Minnesota's wildlife resource in the hands of dedicated conservationists who are trained in their work—rather than manipulated through the politically-inspired whims of legislators. We don't want to see wildlife programs bartered in the halls of the legislature, and we do want to be certain that money expended for hunting and fishing licenses is expended in the best interests of hunting and fishing.

Is Everything Rosy?

Elmer Roessner of New York analyzed the gross national product as follows in a recent edition of the "Daily Market Record":

The headlines said the gross national product increased $16 billion at annual rates in the first quarter of this year, bringing the annual rate up to $904.3 billion dollars.

That seems great: more food, more goods, more everthing for all.

But it's not as great as it seems, if you read the Department of Commerce's detailed explanation.

The increase was a rise of 1.7 per cent over the last 1968 quarter. But one per cent of the rise was due to inflation, Commerce reported. So the real gain in goods and services was 0.7 per cent, or $6.6 billion.

The biggest portion of total economic activity is consumer spending, which rose $11.6 billion in the first quarter, again at annual rates. This was twice the rate of increase in the last quarter of 1968, Commerce calculated, and also about double the $6.2 billion rise in disposable income, after-tax income in the last 1968 quarter, again at annual rates.

Sounds loverly, wot? But Commerce figures also show that consumers cut personal savings by $5.6 billion at annual rates in the first quarter of this year. Consumers saved 5.8 per cent of their disposable income, compared with 8.8 per cent in the previous quarter.

In short, consumers made a real gain of $6.6 billion in goods and services, but they had to cut savings $5.6 billion to pay for them.

Thus the net gain in goods and services in the first quarter was $1 billion at annual rates, which figures out to almost nothing per person when adjusted for the population increase.

Thus, with continuing inflation, we have to run like the White Queen just to stay in the same place.

Planning Early Makes Vacation More Enjoyable

It's not too early to start thinking seriously about this year's vacation, according to L. B. Kelly, chairman of the Minnesota Petroleum council.

He reminded residents of Minnesota that April 21-26 is being observed throughout the nation as Discover America vacation planning time.

"The average individual or family has a limited vacation period," Kelly emphasized, "so it makes sense to get as much as possible out of it. With advance planning, you can see that everyone in your family gets something out of your vacation—from relaxation for adults to fun for children and a little learning for all at historical sites."

An estimated 140 million Americans spent their vacations last year visiting scenic and historic attractions in the United States, he said, and more than 80 per cent used their own automobiles.

Kelly suggested that vacationers take advantage of all the travel advice available to them. "Many oil companies offer free travel advice," he noted, "and the American Petroleum Institute has mapped out some 340 suggested short tours for all states, each of which can be covered by car in a day or two." Other sources of advice, he said, include state travel bureaus and chambers of commerce in vacation areas.

An important part of getting ready for a weekend jaunt or a longer trip is making sure your automobile is in first-class condition, Kelly pointed out.

"Thoughtful planning, a dependable car and safe driving can make it a pleasure for travelers to discover the wonders of our own state and others across the nation," he advised.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Can Former Patients Hold Jobs?

The answer to this question should be a resounding, "Yes!"

Strong evidence shows that former mental patients not only are employable, but also make better than average workers.

Employers and communities that take in an individual who has suffered from mental illness aren't "taking a big chance." Far and away the odds are that the person will do well.

This has long been proved. But now and then incidents occur which indicate that the 20th Century hasn't yet arrived everywhere. They point up the fact that everyone, and certainly every employer, should learn the real facts about mental illness.

Just outside our Nation's Capital two employees resigned from their jobs. They had suffered attacks of mental illness previously in their lives.

Witch hunts were carried on in the Dark Ages. Then, mentally ill were systematically hunted down and persecuted.

These practices are thought to have ended long ago. The two employees who lost their jobs would have difficulty in believing this.

The witch hunt in their case was the physical examination required of employees.

The two people had been interviewed and employed and, from reports, were doing good work. Since physical exams often cannot be given immediately, it was six weeks after they were on the job before they were called for the examinations.

Their past history of having had a mental illness was disclosed in response to part of the exam. It was reported that they then resigned after being told that they failed to meet medical standards.

When newspapers broke the story, moves came to help.

"It is incredible that our county should act like that," a county council member said. "If past mental illness forecloses future employment, we will never solve any mental health problems."

The incident shows that the struggle against prejudice and misinformation must be constantly carried on. The National Institute of Mental Health will gladly provide information for anyone concerning jobs and mental illness.

1040 U.S.I. Taxpayers Ask IRS

These questions most frequently asked by taxpayers on federal income tax matters with authoritative answers are provided by the office of the district director of Internal revenue, St. Paul.

Q—I received a package of estimated tax forms in the mail. Does that mean I have to fill one out and send it in?

A—You do not have to file an estimated return for 1969 unless you meet the requirements as explained in the instructions that came with the estimated forms. Estimated tax forms have been sent to every taxpayer who filed an estimated return for 1968 as well as to those taxpayers who had a balance due of $40 or more when they filed their 1967 return. The forms are identified with the taxpayer's name, address and social security number just as they appear in IRS files.

If you are required to file an estimated return, be sure to use the forms sent you. It will assure that your estimated tax payments are properly credited to your account.

Q—Can I deduct my medicare premiums?

A—Yes, premiums for medicare and other medical insurance are deductible if you itemize expenses on your return.

Don't forget that medical insurance premiums are handled differently than other medical expenses. One-half of these premiums up to a maximum of $150 may be deducted without regard for the 3 per cent limitation generally imposed on medical expenses.

Details on deducting medical insurance premiums and other medical expenses can be found in the 1040 instructions.

Q—I cashed in some U.S. savings bonds last year. What do I report as interest on them?

A—Report as interest the difference between what you paid for the bonds, the issue price, and what you received when you turned them in. Some cash basis taxpayers elect to report the interest earned each year on their bonds rather than all at once when they redeem the bonds. Either way of reporting this interest income is acceptable. However, once the election to report the increment each year is made, you must continue to do so for all discount bonds you own or acquire later.

Q—I've got a refund coming. Where should I send my return?

A—Send it to your regional service center. An envelope addressed to the center was provided in all 1040 tax packages. If you don't have an envelope, mail it to IRS Service Center, Kansas City, Missouri 64170.

Q—Taxes were taken out of my pay on the summer job I had last year. How do I get this money back?

A—You must file a tax return to obtain any refund that may be due. Tax forms and instructions are available at our local IRS offices as well as many banks and post offices.

Q—I can't find my W-2. Is there any way I can get another one?

A—Let your employer know what has happened and ask for another copy of your withholding statement.

Veal Dinner A Delight

Change familiar veal cutlets to some fancy veal rolls. Topped with a sumptuous mushroom gravy, these rolls will delight your family and guests alike.

Veal With Mushrooms

- 8 slices Italian-style veal cutlet
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup finely chopped onion
- ½ cup chopped parsley
- 2 tablespoons margarine
- ½ pound fresh mushrooms, sliced
- ¼ teaspoon dried basil, crushed
- 3 sprigs parsley
- 1 small stalk celery
- 1 small bay leaf
- Dash pepper
- ¼ cup white wine
- 1 cup light cream
- 1 tablespoon corn starch

Sprinkle each slice of veal lightly with salt and 1 tablespoon each of chopped onion and parsley. Roll from smaller end and secure with a wooden pick. Meanwhile, melt margarine in skillet over medium heat or in electric frypan according to manufacturer's directions. Add veal rolls and cook about 10 minutes, turning as needed, or until pale brown on all sides. Add the mushrooms, cover and cook 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Stir in the remaining ½ cup chopped onion, basil, pepper, parsley, celery, bay leaf and wine. Reduce heat; cover and simmer about 15 minutes or until veal is tender. Remove picks from rolls, discard parsley sprigs, celery and bay leaf. Place veal rolls on a serving dish; keep warm. Stirring constantly, gradually add cream to corn starch. Stir into mixture in skillet. Simmer over low heat, stirring constantly, until smooth and thickened. Spoon a little sauce over veal. Serve remaining sauce with the veal.

"Dear George:

Sometimes I'm afraid we take things for granted. We've had quite a number of questions regarding just how we plan to operate at the Joppru Market in Winger.

We have leased the market on Tuesday of each week. We have leased the market on Tuesday of each week. We will have our buyer at this market between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and noon on Tuesday of each week. Feeder pig producers can bring their pigs to the market at this time. Producers are given a check immediately for their pigs and there are no deductions or commissions of any kind. Neither are there any contracts.

Pigs must be of good quality, castrated and healed. All pigs are weighed and the producer is paid on this weight. For example, this last week our price was $17.00 on the top quality pigs plus 15 cents a pound for pounds above 40. This would mean that we paid $18.50 for 50 pound pigs ($17.00 plus 10 lbs. at 15 cents).

Bring your pigs to the Joppru Livestock Market between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and noon on Tuesday. If you have further questions call me collect at 218-382-3777, Motley, Minn.

John Elake
General Manager

P.S. We're looking for someone in the Winger area to manage this market for us. If interested plan to see us next Tuesday or give us a call."

HOW TO SOLVE

GOLF PROBLEMS

HITTING DOWN THE LINE OF FLIGHT

The old concept of swinging a golf club from inside to outside the target line (dotted arrow) is changing. Instead, many new-generation players hit the ball with the clubhead moving down the intended line of flight (solid arrow).

The inside-out technique involves returning the club into the ball with the clubhead moving out to the right of the target. The hands must be turned counterclockwise in the hitting area, to avoid pushing the ball to the right.

Some professionals now prefer a big turn of the shoulders on the backswing and then a reverse shoulder turn that directs the club straight through the ball instead of inside-out. There is no need to turn the hands over to straighten the clubface at impact.

Life Expectancy Gains Record Level: 70.5

For Immediate Release

A child born in the United States in 1967 can look forward to an average lifespan of about six months past his 70th birthday—a record level.

The Institute of Life Insurance said the latest government estimates indicate that average life expectancy at birth for U.S. citizens climbed from 70.1 to 70.5 years between 1966 and 1967.

Since the turn of the century, longevity has increased by about 23 years. Much of this gain occurred during the second quarter of the century, when women's mortality due to childbirth had been largely overcome and antibiotics and other new miracle drugs had been found for infectious diseases.

Arctic Plant at Karlstad Begins Fiberglas Work

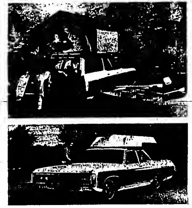
Fiberglas work was started at the Karlstad plant of Arctic Enterprises on April 28 and as actual manufacturing got under way, plans were already in the hopper to construct another building alongside of the present structure.

Jerry Speckeen, plant manager, said that the company plans to construct a 100 x 150 foot cement block building just south of the present factory. He said the new building would be used for Fiberglas operations and that all of the Fiberglas work for the company may eventually take place in the Karlstad plants.

The present building has 52,800 square feet in the rear of the structure and 11,800 square feet in the front for a total of 64,600 square feet. The new construction would add another 15,000 square feet of space.

The new building would be constructed about 100 feet from the present building and plans are to lay a cement slab between the two buildings for dry storage. At some later date, if the need arises, Speckeen said that two end walls and a roof could provide inside storage.

Meanwhile the hardware and materials for the construction of boats has begun to arrive and it is expected that the manufacturing of boats may be the next item to get underway in the Karlstad plant. Minnibikes are still in the plans for the Karlstad plant and motors for this item have begun to arrive.



AQUA CAMPER unit being manufactured by Arctic Enterprises, Inc., at the Karlstad plant is pictured above. Made under contract with General Motors, the unit is designed for use with several station wagons made by the corporation. The first order is for 500.

Manpower Survey Being Conducted In West Marshall

A Manpower survey of western Marshall county is currently underway, conducted by the Minnesota State Employment service in cooperation with Chambers of Commerce, job development and other civic organizations of western Marshall county.

Purpose of the survey, according to J. K. Stadum, manager of the Thief River Falls office of the state employment service, is to determine the number of individuals who may be interested in work in the county. The survey will also secure information as to age, sex, educational or training background, present employment status, willingness to commute distances to work, etc., of respondents.

Stadum stated that firms who are viewing an area for possible plant expansion need information of this type as part of their review in order to make decisions on plant location based on manpower requirements.

Results of the survey will be published and made available to the cooperating groups for distribution to individuals and firms who might be interested in establishing industry in the area.

Individuals in the survey area are urged to respond promptly to the mail survey. Completed survey forms should be returned by May 20, 1969. Additional survey forms are available by writing to the Minnesota State Employment Service, 316 LaBree Avenue North, Thief River Falls, Minnesota 56701.

Schumacher and Pittman Vows Spoken at Plummer

Daisies, pink carnations and yellow tulips graced the altar at St. Vincent dePaul Catholic church at Plummer on Saturday, April 19, for the wedding of Miss Carolyn Margaret Schumacher of Plummer and George Charles Pittman of Goodridge.

The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Anna Schumacher of Plummer and the groom is the son of William Pittman of Goodridge.

Rev. Henry Carrier officiated at the double ring ceremony. Miss Carole Kiedeheim, a friend of the bride, presided at the organ. She also accompanied St. Joseph's choir of Brooks, as they sang "Ave Maria," "Our Father," and "On This Day O Beautiful Mother."

The bride was escorted to the altar by her cousin, Alfred Walter. She was attired in an empire fashioned, floor-length gown styled with a lace bodice featuring long sleeves and a rounded neckline. Jeweled appliques enhanced the satin skirt and chapel length train. At the empire waistline was a jeweled band. Her tiered, bouffant, floor-length veil was held by an over-the-forehead floral spray, featuring three subtly jeweled petals. She carried a white orchid accented with cascading daisies and stephanotis.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was her sister, Miss Susan Schumacher of Plummer. Another sister, Miss Madonna Schumacher, also of Plummer, was bridesmaid. Sisters of the groom, Mrs. Marland (Sharon) Johnson of Thief River Falls, and Mrs. Dwyane (Ila) Englund of Grygla, served as matrons of honor. All were attired in identical floor-length, lime-green gowns styled with empire bodices featuring an overlay of moss green lace in daisy pattern. Their lime green veils were held by matching fabric bows and to complement their attire, they wore white elbow-length gloves and each carried a large yellow mum arranged with cascading daisies.

Attired like the bridal attendants was Miss Mary Jaeger of Plummer, a cousin of the bride, who served as flower girl. Ring bearer was Kevin Gerardy, also of Plummer and a cousin of the bride. Miss Peggy Shauls of Bemidji served the bride as her personal attendant.

Serving the groom as best man was his brother, Gordon Pittman of Goodridge. Groomsmen were Victor Pittman of Iowa, a brother of the groom, Larry Pittman of Thief River Falls, a nephew of the groom, and Douglas Cullen of Goodridge, a cousin. Seating the guests were Teddy Jaeger of Plummer, a cousin of the bride, and Roger Pittman of Goodridge, a nephew of the groom. All wore black tuxedos with white carnation boutonnieres.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Schumacher was attired in a pink two-piece ensemble with a matching hat and a corsage of yellow roses and white carnations.

A dinner at St. Bernard's church parlors in Thief River Falls, followed the 11 a.m. ceremony. Approximately 300 relatives and friends were in attendance. They were from Iowa, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Grygla, Goodridge, Red Lake Falls, Dorothy, Windom and the area around Plummer and Thief River Falls. Miss Carlotta Waale presided at the guest book. Serving the punch were Mrs. Peter Gerardy, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Herbert Walter, a cousin.

The large, round, four-tiered wedding cake was iced in yellow with white decorations. The upper tier, placed on filigreed pillars, was topped with a wedding bell ornament complemented by two miniature doves. Mrs. Harvey Gogner and Mrs. Teddy Jaeger, cousin of the bride, cut and served the cake while Mrs. Gordon Pittman, sister-in-law of the groom, poured. Miss Cindy Jaeger, a cousin of the bride, distributed the groom's cake.

Waitresses were Misses Landa and Cathy Jaeger, Barbara and Marilyn Walter, Sally Bruggeman, Sonya Erickson and Carla Pittman. Arranging the gifts for display were Mrs. Donald Vatthauer, Mrs. Donald Fulton and Mrs. Elaine Iverson. All are friends of the bride.

For traveling on the wedding trip along the North Shore Drive and into Canada, the bride wore a green street-length dress styled similar to the gowns worn by the bridesmaids.

The bride is a graduate of the Plummer high school and the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical school. Prior to her marriage, she was employed by Northern State Bank, Thief River Falls. The groom is a graduate of the Goodridge high school and is engaged in farming in that community.

The newly-weds are at home at Goodridge.

Enrollment at MSC 562 More Than Last Year

Total on-campus enrollment of full and part-time students this spring quarter at Moorhead state college is 4,726 or 562 more than spring quarter of 1968, according to registrar Dorian Olson.

The total, which includes 23 new entering freshmen and 43 new transfer students, is only two off a predicted spring quarter enrollment Olson's office estimated at the beginning of this current school year last fall.

Not included in the total are 319 graduate and undergraduate students enrolled in part-time evening courses at five area high schools arranged for and taught by MSC faculty members. Communities this spring where such courses are being held are Detroit Lakes, Fergus Falls, New York Mills, Breckenridge and Crookston. There were 326 students enrolled spring quarter a year ago in these off-campus courses.

The on-campus total of 4,726 students includes 1,341 freshmen, 80 more than a year ago; 1,061 sophomores, up 85 from a year ago; 1,019 juniors, or 146 more than a year ago, and 964 seniors, an increase of 183 over a year ago.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the Kitchen of

MRS. ARCHIE PTACEK
of rural Goodridge

Sunday was Mothers day. Glowing tributes were paid to mothers throughout the nation and large sums of money were spent for beautiful cards and fabulous gifts. With pride little children presented gifts wrapped by their own inexperienced hands. Mothers thrilled with all the special attention; some wept as they opened gifts and cards from children who had been too busy to write or call since sending that "hurried" Christmas note. Others cried in private. They had been forgotten.

Women, who were mothers in name only, were humbly grateful for the honors bestowed by "their" children, gained through adoption or marriage.

Sunday was mother's day. Today mothers have settled back into the old routine of getting Johnnie up in time for school, starting the week's washing, catching Susie and reminding her to brush her teeth before leaving for school, and at the same time trying to decide what to do with the left-over mashed potatoes.

Kitchen Karnival is grateful to Mrs. Archie Ptacek of rural Goodridge for sending us her recipe using left-over vegetables.

MEAT BALL PIE
1 lb. lean ground beef
1 cup soft bread crumbs
¼ cup chopped onions
2 teaspoons salt
One-eighth teaspoon pepper
2½ cups milk
¼ cup butter
2 tablespoons flour
1½ cup cooked sliced carrots
1½ cups cooked peas
2 cups mashed potatoes

Method: To make the meat balls, combine meat, bread crumbs, onions, 1 teaspoon salt, pepper and ½ cup milk. Mix thoroughly and form into balls, using about a tablespoonful for each. Brown in butter, turning as needed. Remove from drippings. Blend flour and salt into drippings, add remaining milk and cook slowly until thick. Add meat balls, carrots and peas, stirring gently. Pour into two-quart casserole and spoon mashed potatoes around edge. Bake in a 400 degree oven for about 15 to 20 minutes or until potatoes are lightly browned.

Commencement exercises head the list of activities in many homes in this community. This is especially true in the Archie Ptacek home where three of their four children are candidates for graduation. They are Wayne, at Bemidji State college, Renae, at Northland Junior college, and Wanda, at Lincoln high school. Dennis, a graduate of Lincoln high school, is a freshman at Northland Junior college.

The Ptaceks live on a farm 10 miles northeast of Thief River Falls. In addition to grain farming, Mr. Ptacek is employed by the Soo Line Railroad as clerk. Mrs. Ptacek, who lived in this city until her marriage, enjoys living on the farm. Her hobbies are knitting, embroidering and crocheting.

CHILDREN CAN REJECT VIOLENCE
Are children today really victims of society? Do many of them simply reflect the violence, anger, and frustration they see on television or witness in the home?
Not necessarily. Thousands of families are finding that children can just as easily reflect the love, peace, and satisfaction of their creator, God . . . if given the chance.
How? Listen this Sunday to a program entitled "Helping Children to Reject Violence."
It is part of the Christian Science Radio Series heard on many radio stations.

Marshall Board Rejects Request For Watershed

Marshall county's board of commissioners declined from submitting a petition for establishment of a Watershed District in the Snake and Middle River drainage areas at its regular meeting in Warren recently.

Commissioners heard a lengthy discussion on the proposed watershed, whose sponsors are of the opinion that it would alleviate the almost perennial flooding of municipalities, farmsteads and lands in western Marshall county, reports the Warren Sheaf.

Lyman A. Brink, Hallock attorney, served as the principal spokesman for the group appearing before the commissioners and stated that a properly functioning watershed district would do a better job in providing drainage in the Snake and Middle River drainage area than anything else ever proposed. Through its establishment, federal funds would be available for the project for engineering, land acquisition and other expenses and also provide more power to act on ditching. He cited the value of the two watershed districts in Kittson county and the vast amount of good it is doing for the entire area.

He requested the board to join Argyle, Alvarado and Warren to petition for its establishment and the appointment of a district watershed board to manage the operation.

In other action taken by the commissioners, they voted to advertise for bids for county highway graveling requirements on June 3 at 10 a.m. and for bids for construction of CSAH 28 from T. H. 59 at Newfolden east to T. H. 32, a distance of 6 miles also on June 3 at 10 a.m.

Commissioners will also call for bids for one or more highway maintenance trucks and a survey crew panel car on June 3 at 2 p.m.

Oliver Thompson was appointed to act as agent for the county in assimilating from townships and the county damages to public property from the recent floods to the state and federal agencies. The townships and county are anticipating state and federal aids for restoration of the damages done and being done because of the 1969 floods.

A delegation from Agder Township appeared before the board requesting aid for constructing a bridge over county ditch 20 and to clean out one mile of ditch.

Bud Jacobi spoke to the board about damages done to fields by washouts on his land located in the Veum township strip.

Vern Tollefson, Bemidji, met with the board to discuss establishment of a home health nursing program which would be operated jointly with Kittson and Roseau county. The purpose of the program would be to aid people to leave hospitals quicker as trained assistance would be available to assist them in their own homes. The program is approved by numerous insurance carriers as well as medicare, it was reported.

Veteran's Widow Entitled to Home Loan Benefits

A veteran's widow entitled to GI home loan benefits is automatically eligible for the newly-created widow's educational assistance from the Veterans administration, but the reverse is not necessarily true.

John R. Murphy, manager of the VA center, St. Paul, said that only unremarried widows of World War II, Korean conflict and post-Korean veterans who died as the result of military service are entitled to VA home loan guaranties.

However, unremarried widows of veterans who served at any time since the Spanish-American war and who died as the result of military service are eligible for VA educational assistance up to a maximum of 36 months, he said.

In addition, the wives of veterans who are permanently and totally disabled because of service are also eligible for the educational benefits, which amount to as much as $130 a month for full-time training.

Murphy said that eligible widows of World War II veterans have only until July 25, 1970, to use their GI home loan entitlement. The entitlement of eligible Korean conflict widows expires Jan. 31, 1975, with eligible post-Korean widows having 20 years from their husband's death in service, 20 years from the veteran's discharge, or until March 3, 1976, whichever is later, to use their entitlement.

Widows and wives, eligible for educational assistance, have until Nov. 30, 1976, or eight years after their husbands' deaths or VA finding of permanent and total disability, whichever is later, to complete their education or training.

Are people your problem?
Is the world becoming too crowded for you? Almost wherever you go today, you find people. This sometimes results in problems — for you as well as for others. What's the solution?
It's certainly not avoiding people — even if you could. But you can avoid having problems with them! The key to solving people-to-people problems is understanding what people really are. The Bible reveals man as having a spiritual nature. How this can help you in your relations with others will be discussed by Thomas O. Poyser, C.S., a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship. His lecture is entitled "Are People Your Problem?"

Code of Ethics

Members of the Thief River Falls Future Farmers of America chapter, under the coaching and direction of Lawrence Helt and Edward Duke, recently gained a number of honors at the state FFA convnetion. Not the least of these was having one of the chapter members—Rich Habedank—elected state president of the organization.

News of student activity in the daily press and on television centers on college campus unrest, rioting, disruption, disorder, demands, sit-ins and take-overs. It is indeed pleasant to contrast this barbaric behavior with the organized, well-disciplined, courteous and orderly manner in which the FFA convention was held.

The state gathering of young farmers did not make a big impact on the daily press or Twin Cities television. Young men acting like young men do not excite the press. But the young men conducting themselves properly at the FFA convention will become the kind of citizens this nation so badly needs in the next few years.

The "Code of Ethics" for the members attending the convention was listed as follows, and it shows good citizenship from start to finish:

We will conduct ourselves at all times in order to be a credit to our organization, chapter, school, and community by:

1. Dressing neatly and appropriately for occasions.
2. Showing respect for rights of others and being courteous at all times.
3. Being honest and not taking unfair advantages of others.
4. Respecting property of others.
5. Refraining from loud, boisterous talk, swearing and horseplay.
6. Demonstrating sportsmanship in the show ring, judging contests and meetings; modest in winning and generous in defeat.
7. Attending meetings promptly and respecting the opinion of others in discussion.
8. Taking pride in our organization, in our activities, in our farming programs, in our exhibits and the occupation of farming and ranching.
9. Sharing with others experiences and knowledge gained by attending national and state meetings.
10. No member shall indulge in smoking or drinking of intoxicating beverages while representing the FFA.
11. Always respect a speaker; if you must leave, leave between special numbers.

Isn't That Interesting?

Trouble with rural schools in that they are too small to offer a good educational program. Trouble with urban schools is that they are too big to recognize the individual students. The solution is consolidation of rural schools and institution of a small-unit plan for the urban schools. At least, such is the apparent recommendation in studies and reports by Dr. Otto E. Domian of the University of Minnesota.

Margery Burns, who writes in several newspapers, has championed the smaller rural schools for their contributions to the individual and to their communities. One would almost believe she has tongue in cheek when writing part of the following:

". . .speaking of schools, have you read about the interesting recommendation for the Minneapolis schools made by Dr. Domian and Dr. Cyril Sargent of City College, New York? This is an exciting report, and everyone ought to find out more about it.

"The one item in this report which stands out for all of us in the rural communities is the small-unit plan for the large Minneapolis high schools which would organize students into units of 400 with each unit having separate counseling facilities and separate faculties. According to the report, this small-unit plan will give a more personal and closer relationship between the students and teachers, and it will keep a student from becoming lost in the crowd.

"As you know, that idea of closeness and more personal relationship is exactly what our small schools have right now. Our small schools have always given every student a real chance to become an individual and to take part in every activity he wants to. And now, the large schools are trying to do what the small schools have always done.

"Another exciting idea in this report is to have the students use part of the community as learning laboratories, such as City Hall, the Guthrie Theater, the Walker Art Center, and industrial and commercial concerns. It recommends getting businessmen and government people more involved in education to show students how things really work.

"Another idea in the report is keeping the pre-kindergarten and kindergarten classes near the childrens' homes. Educators are finding that the parents must be more involved with their childrens' education if it is to be successful, and the closer the schools, the more interest the parents have in the schools.

"From this new report, it looks as though Dr. Domian changed his mind about the size of the schools. If that is true, then we should give him a vote of thanks. As you know, changing your mind and opinion is about the hardest thing you can do. And when someone like Dr. Domian will change, (he is a very fine and smart man) it really gives us a lift and boost in our belief in people.

"It is necessary for all of us to change our thinking as new evidence and information comes in. But too many people get set in concrete for the rest of their lives. I think we are lucky that flexible people like Dr. Domian are in the education field, and that they come up with exciting, new ideas. And best of all, that they will discard the ideas that aren't so good and keep on working to come up with better and better plans for education.

"So . . . speaking of schools, we are very fotunate here in Minnesota."

Helping People

"Don't let critics get you down," Robert Bergland told a DFL legislative "talk-in" at Wadena recently. "We know that we are on the right path because we are for helping people." Bergland was a candidate for Seventh district congressman against Odin Langen in the last national election.

Helping people seems to be a very laudable path to follow, and we suppose that most people would accept that thought at its face value. But good intentions do not always coincide with good results, and help is sometimes given to the detriment of the recipient.

Consider the mother who has just used a powder cleanser to scour the bathroom fixtures to a sparkling cleanliness, preparatory to receiving weekend guests. She then finds that her toddler wanted to help, and used the remainder of the cleanser on the living room furniture and carpet. Was that youngster on the right path because he or she was "for helping people?"

What about the stranger who happened by the fenced in yard where a young child cried against the gate? The child was unhappy and didn't want to stay inside the fence. So the stranger opened the gate and let the child have its way—and left it to wander amid the dangers of the street. Did he really help that child?

Then there was Billy, who was having trouble hitting the ball in a sandlot baseball game. An adult spectator entered the game to hit for Billy, who merely ran the bases. This was fine for Billy's team, but the other team didn't think it was quite fair.

So another adult joined the other team to pitch to Billy's benefactor. That required another adult for a catcher. Two adults on one side weren't considered fair, so Billy's team drafted another adult. Soon the adults were playing and the youngsters were watching. Did this help them to play better baseball or to learn the game?

This also brings to mind the story of the rookie Boy Scout who said he was exhausted from helping little old ladies across the street. "Most of them didn't want to go," he explained.

What does all of this have to do with Bergland's comment? Simply this. Government—especially big government—too often offers, extends or forces "help" on people of a country. It is often misdirected, poorly planned, eventually harmful or potentially dangerous. It is necessary to look well beyond the present act to determine whether or not "help" is really a form of proper assistance which has long-term and effective value.

"The mind of the bigot is like the pupil of the eye; the more light you pour upon it, the more it will contract." —Oliver Wendell Holmes Jr.

Legislative Letter

from ANDREW SKAAR

STATE REPRESENTATIVE

Tax levies are increasing at rates far in excess of the growth in property valuations. This is causing great concern among taxpayers all over Minnesota. Only local subdivisions of government such as counties, municipalities and school districts levy property taxes.

The whole area of taxation is extremely complicated and probably will never be fully understood. The taxpayer is totally unorganized and there are vast numbers of them who do not understand the property tax structure, how property tax revenues are spent, and who causes the tax increase.

According to the Minnesota Taxpayers association, two-thirds of the increase in the total property taxes payable this year is chargeable to school district tax levies. State-wide, the tax levies by all units of local government have increased 20.6 per cent over a year ago. This is a greater increase for one year than the combined total of increases for 1965, 1966, 1967 and 1968.

A bill of considerable importance to owners of resorts and other tourist-oriented businesses in northern Minnesota is now being considered in the House highway committee.

The bill would put a three-year extension on the deadline for removal of outdoor advertising signs under Minnesota's billboard control law. The present deadline for removal of signs not conforming to the laws spacing requirements is July 1, 1969; the proposed bill would put the deadline back to mid-1972.

I am in favor of this extension primarily because it will protect the legitimate interests of the resort owners who contribute so much to the economy of our area. Their resorts depend heavily on directional signs to guide customers, particularly since many of the county and township roads on which they are located are inadequately marked. Because there is some question whether the highway department's program of marking these roads will be completed by the middle of this year, these signs are all the more important in guiding the motoring and touring public.

Until such time as all of these problems are worked out, I feel that we should make every attempt to protect resorts and tourist related activities from unnecessary removal of the advertising signs which are so important to their welfare.

A bill that recently passed both houses and has been signed into law by the governor has received nationwide acclaim. I am referring to the bill pertaining to the regulation of economic poisons and pesticides that was presented by Governor LeVander at a recent governors' conference as a model pesticide regulatory law. With the increased use of pesticides and increasing population, definite control by rule and regulation must be enacted. The department of agriculture under this new law may restrict or even prohibit the use of pesticides keeping in mind, however, the necessity and danger of such chemicals. Under control in this law are many chemicals including DDT.

CAPITOL COMMENT

BY MARTY MCGOWAN

Only 2½ weeks remain in the current legislative session. Final day for passing bills is Saturday, May 24, with formal adjournment slated for Monday, May 26.

This means the legislators will have to hurry if they are going to pass any significant legislation at this session. When this was written the governor had signed into law about 200 measures. Only one of them—the bill granting additional tax relief to senior citizens—was on the governor's list of 11 major requests he made for this session.

Of course, it is traditional that all the major legislation is brought forth and considered in the final two weeks. It is quite likely that the first of the major appropriation bills, those dealing with highways and semi-state activities, will be brought out for floor discussion and passage soon.

The big one, the aid to education bill, is just beginning to take shape. Committees in the house and senate have been holding hearings and formulating policies on this matter and bills incorporating their ideas have just been introduced. House and senate versions are somewhat different, indicating the inevitability of a conference to resolve differences.

Both bills are "hold-the-line" measures designed not to increase taxes. The house bill totals $493.7 million for aids to elementary and secondary education, compared to $490.7 million in the senate proposal. While the dollar amounts are greater than were distributed two years ago, the formula for distribution remains about the same. This has the effect of taking care of the greater enrollments that are expected in the next couple years.

Still there are some small, but significant changes proposed in the house version. Where in the past aid was computed on valuation, less what 19 mills of that valuation would raise, it is proposed that the subtraction by 20 mills of local effort. In addition, in computing pupil units in a school system, the long established formula was ½ unit for a kindergarten student, 1 unit for an elementary student and 1½ units for a secondary pupil, it is now suggested that the high school pupil be counted as 1.4 units. This would also have the net effect of reducing aid slightly.

Both bills go slightly forward in trying to reach the figure of support which has long been sought, that is, 50 per cent of maintenance. The senate bill would provide about 49 per cent of local costs—averaged statewide—while the house version would provide 50 per cent. For the previous biennium the support averaged out to about 47½ per cent.

Pressure has been building up from session to session for large city schools to acquire a greater share of the distribution. That pressure may become quite intense at this session. In the past these schools received about one-fourth of their costs of operation and they are currently pushing for a one-third share.

These large cities provide the bulk of the money for the equalization aid and they feel they should have a greater share in the distribution. In theory the equalization aid was designed to have the wealthier districts share their largesse with the poorer districts so all students in the state would receive the same caliber of education. However, with all the problems of the core city schools in recent years, those cities are pushing hard at this session for more money to upgrade their schools quite soon.

Each of the different kinds of schools can make quite a case for its own distinctive problems. The rural schools will cite declining populations and fewer people to bear the educational load as their problem requiring additional funds. The suburban schools will cite the zooming populations and the need for rapid expansion as their justification for additional aid. The core city schools will use the arguments already cited in defense of their position.

It is on these three positions that the issue will be battled. With a half billion dollars at stake the outcome could have considerable significance statewide and on the quality of education available in various parts of the state.

Otterson Gives Explanation of OEO Action Plan

"As vast changes in technology have occurred throughout the United States, farm employment has declined and many difficulties have been created for the smaller farmer," states Duane Otterson, executive director of Northwest Community Action, Inc., Badger. "Also, because the economic livelihood of our area and the average income level of our residents continue to lag national averages, rural towns are finding it harder to compete with larger cities in offering public services.

"The three and one-half counties NWCA serves—Kittson, Roseau, Lake of the Woods and East Marshall—have long been distressed counties with average incomes substantially below national guidelines, inadequate health services and lack of available adequate housing. The community action agency concept was designed to provide that federal government efforts to alleviate problems of disadvantaged areas be directed at the local area level by the community residents.

"NW Community Action is a non-profit corporation which has a 12-member board of directors. Each county served by NWCA has three board members—one member representing public officials and who is elected by the county commissioners, one member representing the general public and one member representing the low income. The board of directors must approve all major policy of NWCA and appoints the executive director who is responsible for administering all community action programs.

"The conduct and administration program is funded for the purpose of handling the over-all administrative functions of any programs it has or may implement in the future. The present programs administered by NWCA are head start, senior citizen centers, rural resource aides and operation mainstream. NWCA also serves as a referral agency for many schools, vocational training programs and other public agencies offering various services. NWCA also acts to collect information on various programs available to residents and inform the people of opportunities available to them," Otterson said.

"All of the above operations are handled through the NWCA office, which is centrally located for the three and one-half counties, in Badger. For all community action programs it is national policy that at least 15 per cent of the cost of each program be a local contribution. The office space, utilities and janitorial services provided by the Badger Civic and Commerce constitute the 15 per cent local share of the cost of the conduct and administration program. The federal share of the program provides for the personnel costs (executive director, office manager and percentage of bookkeeper salaries and fringe benefits), auditing and legal services, staff and board, travel, office supplies, equipment and telephone."

Postmaster Asks Improvement In Rural Mailboxes

Postmaster General Winton M. Blount has designated the week of May 19-24 as "Mailbox Improvement Week."

Noting that more than 15 million American families are served on rural delivery and city motorized routes, Blount pointed out that the annual observance of mailbox improvement week helps to improve the beauty of the nation's countryside and suburban areas as well as contributes to the security of the mails.

The observance has been marked over the years by cooperation of box holders in sprucing up boxes and providing needed repairs for correction of damage and protection of the mail.

In recent years, modifications in regulations have permitted box holders wide latitude in use of colors and decorations so long as simple rules providing accessibility and security for the boxes are observed.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

These questions most frequently asked by taxpayers on federal income tax matters with authoritative answers are provided by the office of the district director of Internal revenue, St. Paul.

Q—Under what conditions can a person 65 or over sell a house and not have to pay any tax on the profits?

A—There will be no tax to pay if you were 65 or older before the date of the sale; the adjusted sales price was $20,000 or less; you owned and occupied the house as your principal residence for at least five of the eight years preceding the sale.

If the adjusted sales price was over $20,000 and the other conditions are met, then only a portion of the profit will be taxable. Details on this and other benefits are contained in the booklet, "Tax Benefits for Older Americans", Publication 554. For a free copy, drop a post card to our office.

Q—Do you need to keep tax records after your refund comes?

A—Yes. Records should be kept as long as they are needed to substantiate information shown on federal tax returns. Generally, this is a minimum of three years from the date the return was due to be filed.

Some records, like those on the purchase of a home or stock, may have to be kept indefinitely.

Q—Is money from social security ever taxable?

A—No. All social security benefits are tax exempt.

Q—My wife's missing signature is holding up our refund. Why is this so important?

A—Tax returns are legal documents and have to be signed to be complete.

On joint returns, the signatures of both taxpayers are required and both are legally responsible for the accuracy of the return and the tax that may be due.

Q—My tax came to more than I thought it would. Why can't I pay half now and the rest in a couple of months?

A—The tax must be paid in full by the due date of the return.

To avoid a similar situation next year, arrange with your employer to increase withholding tax or file an estimated tax declaration and make installment payments of the tax due. Estimated tax declaration forms and instructions may be obtained from any local IRS office.

Q—Is there any way I can have more tax taken out of my paycheck? I was under-withheld last year even though I didn't claim any exemptions.

A—Yes, you may file a new withholding certificate with your employer. On this certificate, Form W-4, indicate the additional amount you want taken out of each paycheck. Your employer will tell you when the change will be effective.

Q—I'm considering a job overseas. If I take it will I have to pay U.S. income tax?

A—Income earned overseas by civilian or military employees of the U.S. government is fully taxable. Those who work for a private concern overseas may be able to exclude all or part of their income from U.S. tax.

For details, send a post card to your district director for a free copy of Publication 54, "Tax Guide for U.S. Citizens Abroad."

Q—My father has been living with us since he retired. Will his social security pension have to be taken into account in determining whether we can claim him as a dependent?

A—Social security benefits are counted in determining whether you provided more than half your father's support. These benefits are not counted, however, towards the $600 gross income test.

Q—I paid off my home mortgage early and was charged a pre-payment penalty. Is that deductible?

A—Yes, it is deductible as interest if you itemize.

Q—I'm moving next month. What can I do to avoid any delay in my refund because of a change of address?

A—If you move before the refund arrives be certain you leave a forwarding address with the post office. Then the refund can be delivered to your new address.

Q—From the tax standpoint, what's the difference between alimony and child support payments?

A—Alimony payments are deductible for the payer and taxable income to the recipient. Child support payments are not deductible for the payer and are not taxable to the recipient.

Q—I mailed my return just before the deadline. When should my refund come?

A—The increased volume of returns received during April should extend slightly the 5-6 week processing cycle for refund returns that are accurately and completely prepared.

You should have your refund within 10 weeks from the date you filed, or a letter from IRS explaining why it is delayed.

Q—I made a mistake on my return and failed to claim a deduction to which I am entitled. Can I file for a refund on this even though I have not received the refund I requested on my original return?

A—Yes, you can correct this filing error now even though the refund on your original return has not arrived. Obtain a copy of Form 1040X from your local IRS office and follow the instructions on this form for correcting the mistake. You will receive a separate refund for the additional amount claimed.

Polaris Builds Midget Car for Summer Sport

There will be "Star Cars" in many eyes in the near future if Polaris Industries' newest product proves as popular as company officials hope it might. Scheduled for public showing to the annual Polaris distributors meeting in Minneapolis May 26 and 27 is a nifty new racing car into which snowmobile enthusiasts may install their snowmobile engines for summer fun.

"We've designed it so that the man who races his snowmobile in the winter can have a new sport with part of his same investment," Polaris public relations director Ted Otto said.

While the new car, called the "Polaris Star Car," is not in any present racing car class, it is felt that it will be an ideal new medium for county fair circuits, dirt tracks, for stock-car tracks or go-kart tracks. "We see a market wherever a few race enthusiasts buy a couple and interest others ... or where they will approach a track with requests for development of a new racing class," Otto said.

The new race car has been tested at speeds to 85 miles per hour and has proved "amazingly stable" Otto says. Designed to sell for "in the neighborhood of $1,000" it is 110" long, 25" wide and 26" high with a ground clearance of 3½" and a wheel base of 71½". It has been under test for some three months and "we've not yet been able to roll it." Otto emphasized. He revealed that it has been whipped around in a 360-degree circle, cornered at high speeds, "and the wheels never even left the ground."

It is designed complete with drive clutch and chain drive. The snowmobile enthusiast can convert to the car by loosening the four engine bolts on his snowmobile motor, sliding the engine into the car and attaching the belt.

The car features a variable speed drive and has double torsion bar suspension. It also has kingpin pivots in the center of the wheel for center-point steering "which eliminates outside pull and gives greater maneuverability and the effect of power steering," Otto enthused.

Production is expected to be geared to demand with the coming season and acceptance a guide.

Production is set to go at that factory now and is expected to begin in the Roseau plant within two weeks. There are about six in the field for testing at this time in the United States and Canada.

53 Arrests for Liquor Violations

At least 53 arrests of minors drinking and of adults furnishing intoxicants to minors were made by Roseau county sheriff Paul Knochenmus and his force during April. Over half of these arrests were in the Greenbush area.

Not included in this figure were seven juveniles apprehended by port of entry personnel and a part of sheriff Knochenmus's force as they brought intoxicants from Canada at only one port.

Crackdown of Sheriff Knochenmus and his deputies has been aimed especially at juveniles and those furnishing intoxicants for them.

STATE FARMER degrees were awarded to Curtis Swanson (left) and Richard Habedank of the Thief River Falls FFA chapter at the state convention last week. State farmer is one of the highest degrees which a member can receive in the FFA program.

SPECIAL ANNIVERSARY SPEAKER at the Faith Lutheran church in Thief River Falls on Wednesday through May 18 will be Rev. Barland Helland, Lynnwood, Wash. He is the synodical home mission director of the Lutheran Brethren of America. He will speak at 11 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Sunday. Prowler Tennis Squad Ups Record To 5-2 With Win

Thief River Falls tennis team traveled to Crookston on Wednesday and came back with its fifth win of the season against two defeats in dual matches. The outcome of Wednesday's match was 7-2 in favor of the Prowlers.

Coach Whitey Olson revamped his usual starting positions as the team of Dan Jorgenson and Kip Pappenhagen played singles, while singles players Mark Thyren and Steve Edlund became the doubles team. The only player that remained the same was Stuart Wallonen who played the number three singles position.

Jorgenson moved into the number one singles position and fell to the Pirates Bruce Reichart by set scores of 2-6; and 1-6. In the number two singles position Pappenhagen won over Scott Johnson by set scores of 10-8 and 6-2. Pappenhagen had lost to Johnson in the Northwest conference meet the day before at Thief River Falls. Wallonen, in the number three singles spot, topped Bob Menzhuber by scores of 6-1 and 6-4.

Thyren and Edlund had little trouble in stopping Dennis Martin and Dave Ross in the doubles play as they scored set victories of 6-2 and 6-2.

State HS League Extends Hockey Season 2 Weeks

At a recent meeting of the Minnesota state high school league, approval was given to the extension of the state high school hockey program. The season was extended by two weeks with the 1970 state tournament to be held the weekend of March 5-7 instead of the third weekend in February.

B. H. Hill, executive secretary of the league, feels the extension will work out very well, although noting that it will not mean more games, since the high schools are limited to 20 games per season, plus tournaments at the close of the year.

It is expected, according to reports, that the state hockey coaches will ask for additional games starting with the 1970-71 season.

Other hockey proposals to be voted on by the MSHSL board of control on May 18 will include the following: (1) Straddling the blueline allowable without being offside. (2) Permission to use a new rubberized tip on stick blades to help prevent injuries. (3) A request to make outer mouthguards mandatory as well as inner mouthguards. (4) Increase of playing squad number to 17, rather than 15 (teams now can use 17 during the season, but only 15 in tournament play).

New styles in men's cotton shirts show the wide-reaching effect of the Thirties on the fashion world. Shirts have bigger collars and are worn with wider ties. Moreover, the outlook calls for lots of color. In both cotton dress shirts and sports styles, designers are featuring blue, pink, yellow, spruce green, and reds from melon to mulberry.

John Adolphson of Northland was second with an 80, as he had an opening round of 38 and then had to settle for a 42 on the back nine. Dennis Bowman, Itasca, was third with an 80; Dan Doshan, Brainerd, was fourth with an 82; and Emery Wicklander, Northland, finished fifth.

In the tennis meet Van Kulk, Mesabi, was first in the singles while MacDonald and Hagen, Mesabi, were the doubles winners.

Taking part in the doubles meet for Northland were Barry Frolland and Rocky Wilson. Mike Thompson and Nick Neibauer were entered in the singles by Northland.

Bemidji Top Pick to Capture Loop Track Title

by Bob Wielinski
Times Sports Writer

Three 1968 individual champions will be back this year to defend their Northwest conference track titles on Tuesday as the annual league meet is held in Crookston. Thief River Falls, who won the championship last year by tipping Bemidji by a 68½ to 60 score, will find their title hard to defend this year.

Back to defend their 1968 crowns are Richard Habedank, Thief River Falls, in the 100 yard dash; Craig Peterson, Crookston, in the low hurdles, and Don Jamieson, East Grand Forks, in the mile run. The meet is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. with the finals in the shot put and pole vault and preliminaries in the 100 yard dash at that time. The finals will be held in all running events starting in the afternoon at 1 p.m.

Bemidji, based on its showing at the Prowler-Jaycee Invitational and other meets against conference teams, will be rated the top favorite to gain the crown this year. The Lumberjacks took seven firsts in the invitational held here as the five Northwest conference teams finished as the top five teams in the meet.

The Prowlers, since the beginning of track practice in March, have lost seven lettermen, all of whom were expected to give the Prowlers a good shot of retaining the title this year. Lost to the team were Sheldon Joppru, who had a good chance of winning the high jump this year, Bill Norman, dash man and anchor man on the relay teams; Lynn Stromberg, miler and two miler; Jim Gibson, half miler and relay runner; Russ Delorme miler and two miler; Dennis Johnson, Gary Jordet and Bruce Broughton, all of whom were out for the sport last spring but gave it up this year.

Head coach Jim Sims indicated last week that the following boys will be entered in conference events: 100 yard dash and 220 yard dash—Rex Rugland and Habedank; 440 yard run—Don Schindler and Randy Wentzel; 880 yard run—John Harris, Gary Kayser and Kim Engelstad; mile run—Kim Murphy, Neil Rondorf and Dave Holm; high and low hurdles—Tim Olson, Darrold Rodahl, Rondorf and Merv Erickson; high jump—Rodahl, Ralph Swick and Ken Thompson; long jump—Rugland, Habedank and Wentzel; pole vault—Swick, Jerry Breiland and Thompson; Shot put and discus—Mark Kays, Scott Veitleson and Wayne Olson; 880 relay team—Rugland, Jim Dee, Brian Boman and Habedank; mile relay—Dee, Wentzel, Boman and Schindler.

Top favorites in the different events will be Scott Habstritt, Roseau, high jump; Tony Burke, Bemidji, and Dan Baken, East Grand Forks, shot put; Dan Hanson, Bemidji, long jump; Wayne Wagner and Craig Peterson, Crookston, high and low hurdles; Dave Decker, Bemidji, 100 yard dash and 220 yard dash; Tom or Dave Anderson, Bemidji, and Jamieson, East Grand Forks, mile; Bemidji relay team, 880 and mile relays; Bob Aalberts and George Columbe, Bemidji, 440; Orv Lundstrom, Bemidji, 880; Larry Bewely, Bemidji, discus; and John Brunell, Roseau, and Allan Duckworth, Crookston, pole vault.

According to Sims the Prowlers aren't out of the running for the title and with some good conditions these younger boys could come through this year like they did a year ago and surprise a lot of people at the meet.

Decker of Bemidji has the best chance to break two conference records which are currently held by Paul Klungness, Thief River Falls. Those are in the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Klungness holds both records with times of 10.2 and 22.2 seconds. In the invitational Decker ran the 100 in 10.1, setting a new Bemidji high school record, but ran the 220 in 23.1.

The high and low hurdles record could also be in danger by either Wagner or Peterson of Crookston as they have been running right around the record time in previous meets. In addition, the Bemidji relay team has been clocked one second faster than the current record held by the 1964 Bemidji team. The present team has run the event in 1:35.

The Prowlers will warm up for the meet today (Monday) as they host Fosston in a dual meet at the Prowler track beginning at 4 p.m.

Prowler Rally Halts Pirates; Bemidji Wins

by Bob Wielinski
Times Sports Writer

Thief River Falls Prowler baseball team, riding on a three-game winning string, found their winning ways coming to an end on Friday as they hosted the Bemidji Lumberjacks, with the visitors winning a 4-0 contest. On Thursday the Prowlers rallied for four runs in the top of the seventh inning at Crookston to beat the Pirates by a 7-5 margin. Both games were Northwest conference games with the Prowlers' record now at 2-2, while Bemidji is 5-0 and Crookston 0-2.

In Fridays' game, Bemidji scored four quick runs in the first inning and that was three more than they needed in the contest as Larry Shadlow and Jim Holem hurled a three-hitter at the Prowlers and shut them out for the second time this season. Dana Stromberg was the tough luck loser once again, as his record fell to 1-3. He gave up four runs on six base hits, but six walks aided the Bemidji cause.

On Thursday, Tim Duke started on the mound for the Prowlers, and was in trouble in just about every inning of the four and two-thirds that he pitched. He gave up four runs in the bottom of the fifth inning before Mike Hamerlinck came on to pick up his first victory of the season as he put the fire out in the fifth. Crookston scored a run in the sixth, but Hamerlinck, with the aid of a double play, retired the side in the seventh as he picked up the win.

Bemidji Contest

Bemidji upped its record to 5-0 in Northwest conference play on Friday by defeating the Thief River Falls' Prowlers 4-0. The loss for the Prowlers was their second against two wins and left Bemidji with a commanding lead in the loop.

The Lumberjacks scored their four runs in the first inning as Dana Stromberg, Prowler pitcher, aided the 'Jacks' cause with two lead-off walks. A single and two doubles provided the Lumberjacks with all the runs they needed.

Tom Reise and Jim Yost both drew opening walks. A single by Gary Sargent drove Reise home, and Ernie Blackburn laced a double to left field for two more runs with the 'Jacks' taking the lead at 3-0. Tom Ifill grounded out to first baseman Tim Duke, with Blackburn moving to third. He came home on Mike Thompson's double to center as the Lumberjacks took a 4-0 lead. The next two batters filed to left and third for the final outs of the inning.

Larry Shadlow and Jim Holem kept the bats of the Prowlers in check with three base hits during the contest but five walks kept the 'Jacks' starting hurler, Shadlow, in trouble. Shadlow retired the first three men to face him, but in the second inning, after two were out, he gave up consecutive walks to Tom Wurst and Don Balmer, but got Brian Peterson to fly to right for the final out of the inning.

After the first inning the Lumberjacks managed three hits off Stromberg the rest of the contest. He found himself in trouble only in the third and sixth innings when two men reached base.

The Prowlers threatened in the third inning as Dan Sullivan walked, causing Bemidji coach Chuck Thompson to bring in Jim Holem in relief of Shadlow. Holem's first pitch to lead-off batter Tony Johnson was a wild pitch, with Sullivan going to second. Johnson then drew a walk to put runners on first and second with nobody out. Dana Stromberg then hit a long fly which drove the leftfielder to the fence before he reached up and caught the ball; a few feet higher and Stromberg would have had a three-run homer. Both runners moved up as Tim Duke hit a hard grounder to the second baseman who had trouble in picking up what appeared to be a double play ball, but his only play was at first where he beat Duke by a hair.

The Prowlers loaded the bases in the sixth with two outs but were unable to bring the runs in. Steve Daley started things out with an opposite field double and stole third. Wurst drew his second walk of the game and Balmer reached base as he was hit by a pitch. Brian Peterson then reached for an outside pitch which he hit to the third baseman who threw to first to end the rally.

Crookston Contest

Five Crookston errors in the top of the seventh inning enabled the Thief River Falls Prowlers to come from behind, score four runs and win their second Northwest conference game of the season Thursday by stopping the Pirates 7-5 at Crookston.

The win for the Prowlers was their second against one loss in conference play while the defeat was the second in loop action for the Pirates. The Pirates left a total of 11 men stranded on base, seven during the first three innings, while the Prowlers left 10 on base, eight in the last four innings including three in the sixth inning.

Tim Duke started on the mound for the Prowlers but found himself in trouble in the first two innings as he loaded the bases, but the junior left hander was able to pitch out of the two innings unharmed. Crookston finally caught up with Duke in the fifth inning as they scored four runs on three base hits. Coach Ralph Skay went to his bullpen for the first time in the last four games and brought in Mike Hamerlinck, a sophomore righthander, who picked up his first win of the season in relief.

The Prowlers took the early lead as they scored one run in the second inning. Gordy Peterson led off the frame with a single to left, and came home on Tom Wurst's third double of the season, once again to left field, giving the Prowlers the 1-0 lead.

They added another run in the top of the fifth inning as Dennis Johnson singled and rode home on Tony Johnson's triple to deep center, thus giving the Prowlers a 2-0 lead.

Crookston came back in their half of the fifth as they scored four times to take a 4-2 lead. Chuck Reynold gained life on an error, moved to second on a wild pitch by Duke and rode home on a double by Ron Brown. Brown moved to third on a fielder's choice as Ran Muir hit a grounder back to the mound. Duke looked to third and thought he could get Brown, but his throw was low and Brown was safe. This gave the Pirates men on first and third.

Jim Clausen struck out, but Muir stole second, giving the Pirates men on second and third. A single by Morrie Pearson drove in Brown and Muir with the second and third runs of the inning. Kyle Pearson drove in the fourth run with a double to left. Hamerlinck came in to pitch for the Prowlers and retired lead-off batter Ryan Brantl on a fly to left fielder Tom Wurst.

The Prowlers added one run in the sixth inning as leadoff batter Gordy Peterson walked, moved to second on a passed ball and rode home on Dan Sullivan's single, cutting the lead of the Pirates to 4-3.

The Pirates added a lone tally in the sixth as Ken Porter walked, stole second and scored on Reynolds' triple to deep center field, making it 5-3 in favor of the Pirates.

The Prowlers scored their four runs in the seventh inning off relief pitcher Ryan Brantl. Tony Johnson reached first on an error and moved around to third on an error by Brantl, as he tried to pick Johnson off first and the ball went all the way to the fence. Duke walked and stole second, giving the Prowlers men on second and third. Brantl then struck out Gordy Peterson and Tom Wurst.

Brian Peterson, the Prowlers' next batter, lofted a short fly to center field. The Pirates' center fielder, shortstop and second baseman all called for the ball, with the second baseman dropping the ball. Peterson was safe and the Prowlers had tied the score at 5-5 as Johnson and Duke were running on the hit with two outs. Dan Balmer, hitting for catcher Jerry Morben, advanced Peterson to second on another error as the second sacker couldn't come up with the ground ball and all hands were safe once again. Sullivan laced his second hit of the game, a double, to center field, driving home the winning two runs for the Prowlers as they led 7-5 going into the bottom of the seventh inning.

A double play in the last inning prevented a Pirate come-back. Morrie Pearson drew a lead off walk, but Hamerlinck struck out the next batter. Brantl lined third baseman Gordy Peterson who caught Pearson off the bag with a throw to first for the game ending out.

Next Action

The Prowlers are back in action on Monday as they host Roseau in a 4:30 p.m. contest and then are idle until Thursday when they face Climax at home. Crookston is at the fairground field on Friday while Warroad will come in for a game on Saturday. All games start at 7:30 p.m., with the exception of the Warroad contest which will begin at 5 p.m.

If America hired people for the job, it would take the largest sort of army to keep our country free of litter.

But there's no need to hire anyone. It's a job we can do for ourselves. All of us. Every family that spreads a picnic lunch. Every boatman who cruises the lakes and waterways. Every motorist who uses our roads and highways.

Families Find New Outdoors Pleasure in River Cruises

"Cruising down the river, on a Sunday afternoon . . ."

It's a great old song — and a great new way to enjoy family boating. More and more families across the nation are discovering pleasure boat cruising as a fun-filled, informative open door to the great outdoors.

A small-boat cruise is limited only by time and navigable waters. It's a good idea to plan ahead, though Whether it's a day-long run around the lake, or a year-long nautical odyssey, a little advance planning will go a long way toward insuring a relaxing, trouble-free trip.

First, of course, make sure your equipment—boat, engine and accessories — are shipshape, recommends Johnson Motors, the outboard motor company. There's nothing as frustrating as having a longed-for vacation ruined by a balky spark plug or a nicked propeller.

Plan Itinerary

Plan a realistic, leisurely itinerary, too. Remember, the object of a cruise is to have fun, not set a speed record. Allow plenty of "slack" time to enjoy the sights that are sure to lie alongside any cruise route.

Keep plenty of fuel aboard. A full reserve tank is excellent insurance against running out of gas far from a pump.

If on-shore overnights are planned, it's a good idea to make advance motel reservations along the way, just like an automobile trip. Particularly during the popular vacation seasons, motel-marinas with vacancies are often hard to find around stopping time.

Beat Motel Rush

Many boaters beat the motel rush, however, by camping alongside the water. Today's camping equipment manufacturers have made boat camping simpler than ever. "Pop" tents, safe and lightweight cooking equipment, air-tight plastic containers, all enable the pleasure boatman to set up a safe, secure camp in a matter of minutes. And the compact equipment takes up little storage room in the boat.

Don't overload the boat with cartons of food and non-essential items. It's much easier to replenish supplies at preselected stops along the way.

If kids are along, stow a few games aboard. Children sometimes get restless on prolonged cruises, and a few simple games permit them to while away the miles between stops.

For safety's sake, the Johnson Motors experts suggest, let someone know your itinerary before you weigh anchor. Cruising down an out-of-the-way stream, it's a good feeling to know someone knows where you are.

Chart Your Cruise

Finally, chart your cruise. Automobile road maps usually won't do the trick; they're great for highways, but they just don't show everything the cruising boater needs to know for safety's sake.

Marine-oriented maps — available from a variety of sources — relate water depths, marinas, obstructions, points of interest, necessary facts not contained on the usual road-maps.

Boat cruising is fun. All it takes is boating sense and a little advance planning.

They're Really Ready

Some seasoned weekend campers have their packing so organized they've set aside a special closet to hold their gear so they're always ready to go camping. You might like to do the same thing. As a starter include such essentials as tents, an ice chest, picnic jugs, camp stove and lantern, cooking equipment. Thermos vacuum bottles, first aid kit, sleeping bags, and bathing suits and caps.

Campers aren't immune to rips, tears and loose buttons, unfortunately, so pack a small sewing kit and a supply of safety pins.

ADVANTAGES — The low profile of canopy trailers enables you to see safely over the trailer when towing. For many models, it is not necessary to install over-size side mirrors. It tows easily and comfortably behind your car. It can be unhooked at your campsite, allowing you to use your car for personal matters Prices range from $400 to $2000.

Pretty girls, a swift boat, sun and wind, add up to the fun of boating on myriad lakes in most every state and province.

Weather Holds Key To Fishing Opener

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

With a little break in the weather, the 1969 fishing season opener on Saturday could be absolutely fabulous. That's the word from several resorters and others "in the know" who we contacted late last week. And you can almost pick your spot and expect to catch some fish.

Upper Red Lake will likely draw its usual rush of anglers to churn the waters of the lake and line the banks of the Tamarac river near Waskish. Lake of the Woods has its share of angling zealots who will be out in force, and some of the smaller lakes in the Bemidji and Detroit Lakes area will draw their share of area anglers.

Folks who can't make an out-of-town trip should not overlook the possibilities of the Red Lake river. Word is out that youngsters fishing for suckers around the dam have been catching (and releasing, of course) quite a number of walleyes. The river has its local devotees, too, and could yield quite a few fish on the opening.

Waskish Walleyes

For years Waskish has been known for its fast action on opening day and the generally small fish taken. But the average run of Waskish walleyes has been getting larger, and some good-size fish were netted and released at the conservation department's hatchery on the Tamarac river this spring.

Harry Davidson, owner of Davidson's Sunset Lodge on the Tamarac river, told the Times Friday that everything looks good so far for the opening weekend. He said the hatchery was taking in its nets for the season on Thursday, but that quite a few female walleyes were still spawning. People living along the river could see the fish heading upstream in the sunlight.

Red Lake itself is about 18 inches higher than normal, and this should tend to keep the walleyes in the river, Davidson said. Water has been held back at the Lower Red Lake outlet to prevent flooding downstream, he said, but is being released now. Ice completely disappeared in the lake about 10 days ago and warming water should make the fish more active.

Davidson noted that campers are already moving in to be assured of a place to park and that the lodge has had more calls for reservations than ever before. All lodging was reserved long ago, he said, and all that remains now is to get ready for the rush of people who will arrive for one-day or overnight expeditions.

Lake of the Woods Lore

While there is never any shortage of company wherever you go, Lake of the Woods offers a number of favorite fishing spots to anglers from this area. From Springsteel Island and Warroad along the south shore to Rocky Point, Long Point, Zippel Bay, Morris Point, Pine Island and Wheelers Point—into Manitoba waters at Buffalo Point and Birch Point and Ontario waters of Sabaskong Bay and other hot spots—the purr of outboards and the smell of freshly-cleaned fish will usher in the 1969 summer fishing season.

Chuck Lyons, who operates a launch as a guide for Gearhart's resort on the Rainy river near Wheelers Point, expects a "really great opening". He said that walleyes and northerns both finished spawning early and have been seen jumping in the river—indicating that they are hungry and on a feeding spree.

He said that water levels are about average, but current in the Rainy river is running heavy at this time. Ice went out of the river several weeks ago and has been out in the Four Mile Bay area for about two weeks. The last traces of ice on the Big Traverse reportedly disappeared on Tuesday.

Early break-up, early spawning and warming water temperature should combine to provide fast action on Lake of the Woods if—and let's spell that with capital letters—IF the weather turns warm this week and the winds leave the water calm enough to allow boats to venture out. The big water of Lake of the Woods and Upper Red Lake is a real hazard if the wind decides to blow.

The Springsteel Island and Warroad area of Lake of the Woods is also expected to provide a lot of action for opening weekend. The south shore, shallow water between Warroad and Springsteel, and Buffalo Point territory on the American side are among the usual hot spots.

Bud Swanson of Springsteel Island said the fishing is expected to be good for opening weekend, with the weather again a question mark. Wind is a major problem in this end of the lake. Swanson said the conditions are about two weeks ahead of normal. With the earliest ice break-up since 1958, many of the fish should be through spawning on the rocks and sand beaches in the lake.

For people who have boats of suitable size and speed, Swanson suggests the American side of Buffalo point and waters between Elm and Buffalo as likely spots to

CHECK — Inside the Complete Tackle Box

Rods and reels, of course, are the principal items of equipment for any family fishing trip. It's more fun for the whole family if everyone has his own rod and reel and it's a good idea to make sure they are in good condition long before heading for the fishing country.

Most manufacturers offer repair service on reels, either in local repair shops around the country or right at the factory. One of the most common problems encountered by repair shops is the lack of sufficient monofilament line on reels to permit good casting. Monofilament line does deteriorate with age, too, and it is a good rule to equip every reel with fresh line at least once a year.

Keeping reels clean and well lubricated will also prevent disappointment when the family is actually out fishing — many miles from a tackle repair shop.

Inspect Your Rods

Rods should be inspected regularly for possible weak spots that could break when a big fish is hooked, for loose windings around the guides and for signs of rust or wear on handles, guides or tips. Cleaning with a damp cloth and a dab or two of petroleum jelly on critical metal surfaces can keep rods in good condition for many years.

Fishing is a sport that people of every age can enjoy. Youngsters who develop interest and skill in fishing at an early age can carry the fun and relaxation of fishing with them to old age.

Today's tackle manufacturers provide reasonably priced equipment to fit every conceivable fishing need. Small, backlash-proof spin cast reels that even a toddler can manipulate with skill are readily available in kits that include strong lightweight matching rods. Big, rugged reels that Dad might favor are also available with matching, factory-balanced rods.

Sporting goods, hardware, variety stores and bait-and-tackle shops everywhere can not only furnish the right equipment for the family's preferred kind of fishing but can usually give expert advice on how to use and maintain the equipment, when and where to fish and even advice on how to enter your fish in the many prize contests that are held each year.

Fun for Family

With adequate equipment, proper preparation and planning and a mutual appreciation for the richness of life in the great outdoors, many families find that fishing together is the most enjoyable of all family activities.

Match Vehicle To Camper for Best Results

To get the maximum enjoyment from a camper, special care must be taken in matching the two major elements: the camper coach that houses the eating, sleeping and bathroom facilities — and the vehicle that carries the coach itself. In most cases each must be purchased from separate dealers.

Perhaps the best way to handle the situation is to decide on the type of camper coach you want, and then look for the proper vehicle to carry it.

International Trucks, for example, offers ten camper-carrying models with units available in both rear and all-wheel drive.

Each carries a decal that states its limitations in terms of the combined weight of camper coach, gear and passengers.

In addition to this, the International dealer can provide the facts on specifying the proper special equipment and necessary heavy-duty components in order to assure that the vehicle will operate properly.

Additional information on recreational vehicles for camping is available to those who write International Harvester Company, 401 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

The original force of Indian fighters numbered 106,000. Today there are only two surviving veterans of those wars.

Nearly 600,000 sailboats set sail last year . . . and nearly that many were becalmed at one time or another. Many sailers are turning to outboard motors for that extra push when the wind dies down, and today's auxiliary kickers offer lightweight, dependable power when ever needed.

What to Do When Your Transistor Set Gets Dunked

If you drop your transistor radio in the lake, or leave it out in the rain overnight, what do you do?

DO NOT turn the set on, advises Brian Marohnic, Zenith's national service manager, because water will act as a conductor and may possibly short out several circuits.

Remove the batteries and quickly sponge out as much of the water as possible. If the radio is dropped in salt water, first rinse or sponge it out immediately with fresh water. This must be done quickly or some of the parts may oxidize.

It is then preferable to fan the radio to dry it, but if this is not possible, put the receiver in a warm place. If you do place the radio near a fire or heater, be sure it is not so close that intense heat will damage the set. Intense heat can damage the speaker by warping it.

If the batteries have not been removed, the heat may cause them to leak or burst, damaging the set.

Today's Camping Equipment So Handy Even a Woman Can Set Up the Tents

Today's camping equipment is so streamlined and lightweight even a woman can set up and strike camp. And who says tents have to look as if they were surplus from World War II?

Nowadays tents come in almost every shade of the rainbow. Want a red or orange tent? No problem at all. Or maybe a fancy blue one to match your eyes. That's possible, too. Those campers who were behind the door when mechanical skills were handed out will celebrate the fact that there are tents around that don't require a degree in engineering to get them up or down.

Some tents are so light Junior can tote them around. In fact, Junior can easily put up his own tent if you get a Pop-Tent, an igloo-shaped tent that pops into position in less than two minutes without poles, ropes or stakes. Completely portable, it can be moved from shade to sun even when it's up. (Husbands of women who like to rearrange furniture take note. Don't stray too far from the campsite. When you return you may find your wife has picked up the tent and moved it to a better location.)

Available in two sizes, the Pop-Tent is ideal for weekend campers because it's so compact it fits into a 30" carrying case. The smaller model sleeps two, while four persons can bed down in the larger size.

Another happy tent choice for weekend wanderers is the Prairie Schooner which brings campers tent living at its best. It, too, takes a minimum of effort to erect, yet it provides all sorts of creature comforts such as full flooring, a screened door and window.

Don't forget to bring a Thermos vacuum bottle for between-meal coffee breaks.

Other valuable time- and space-savers are the camp lanterns and stoves that burn any gasoline. They eliminate the need to bother lugging expensive special fuel. Extra fuel will always be at hand in your car's gas tank.

Many Prizes in Pioneer Press Fishing Contest

Nine outboard motors lead the list of prizes any size fish can win in the St. Paul Dispatch and Pioneer Press fishing contest.

Of the $17,000 in prizes, the largest (worth over $1,000) is the complete fisherman's package including a 20 hp outboard, a year's supply of motor oil, a 14-foot boat and trailer.

The 17th annual contest begins May 17 and continues for 17 weeks.

Like the super sweepstakes prize above, which can be won by even the smallest fish, there are two other complete fishermen's packages in the sweepstakes division: the new 7½ hp outboard, a year's supply of motor oil, a 12-foot boat and trailer.

Every week a sweepstakes winner is drawn from all entries received to that date. These prizes include Wisconsin "Indian Head Country" vacations, additional motors, boats and canoes, trailers and September weekend fishing trips for two aboard cabin boats on Basswood lake near Ely.

In addition, over 300 prizes will be awarded to the largest fish each week in these divisions: Muskie, northern, walleye, crappie, sunfish and bass. These prizes include (for the largest muskie of the week and first, second and third prizes in the other divisions) famous brand name rods and reels, Wildlife of America prints, landing nets, lures, automatic fly reels, tackle boxes, line, and anchor lifts.

Four hundred and seventy-five fishermen will receive personalized, hand-lettered champion's award certificates, bordered in gold, suitable for framing.

Similar big fish headquarters certificates will be awarded to the resort or sport shop supplying the winner his entry blank.

To be eligible, fish must be legally caught in Minnesota, its boundary waters or any of the 23 western Wisconsin counties listed on the back of every official entry blank. Blanks are available at most fishermen's headquarters. The official blank must be used to enter and must be filled out completely. Any omission will disqualify the entry.

Entrants, and the two witnesses required for the weighing and measuring of the the fish, are urgently requested to read all instructions and rules on the entry blanks in order to prevent their entry being disqualified.

Individuals may send in as many entries as they wish but only one entry per fish; no more than one member of an immediate family will be eligible for a weekly merchandise prize.

Judges recommend that fishermen get their entry blanks before they go fishing.

Tailored to Needs

Today's 42-million boaters can put together a power-and-hull combination tailored to his particular needs, enjoy it on an ever-increasing system of recreational waters and have it kept in shape by factory-trained professional servicemen.

That's a long way from the bulky hard-to-start "knuckle-buster" outboards of the 20's and 30's. And it's probably just as long a way from what the estimated 75-million pleasure boaters of 1980 will find awaiting them at their marine dealers.

Tips to Help Anglers With Outboards

If you're a fisherman, you'll particularly want a smooth idling outboard for trolling. If your engine is not as smooth as it should be, here are some conditions that may cause the roughness:

- Improperly mixed, or stale fuel
- Carburetor setting too rich or too lean
- Pinched or kinked fuel line
- Fouled or improperly gapped spark plugs
- Defective fuel pump
- Carburetor or magneto out of sync

These are some of the more common causes of rough idling. If after you've checked these items and the engine continues to act rough, look deeper into the causes, checking the following items:

- Bent gear or exhaust housing
- Points and tuning
- Reeds and reed plate—contact should be flat
- Oil drain screen in reed plate base
- Carb needle and seat, and float valve
- Coil — check for dirt

Good maintenance always pays off in trouble-free operation of your outboard. Look after it properly and you'll have years of service from it.

TIMING VITAL

Have you ever wondered why proper timing is so important to good performance? According to Champion Spark Plug Company, being only five degrees overadvanced in timing can cut 35 horses off a 200 horsepower engine.

Also, for every three degrees of overadvance, engine octane requirements can rise four units.

A widow whose veteran-husband died of a service-connected condition may receive dependency and indemnity compensation regardless of her income.

REGINNER'S LUCK was credited with providing this 74-pound sturgeon recently in the Little Fork river near International Falls. Roy Lewis, right, uncle of Daryl Lewis of rural Thief River Falls, was fishing with Roland Anderson who hooked the big fish. Anderson was using night crawlers for bait and the two men battled the sturgeon "up stream and down stream" for two hours before they could boat it. Lewis caught an 18-pounder earlier this spring. He told the International Falls Journal photographer he was in a hurry to have the picture taken so he could "milk" it for caviar to share with a local gourmet. Then he planned to smoke the fish.

Snapshots Add New Dimension To Boating Fun

Snapshots add a new dimension to boating fun, but there are a few photographic bugs that should be guarded against overexposure — water reflects far more light than ground surfaces.

Use fast shutter speeds — 1/100th or 1/200th of a second — and don't brace against the boat because it's moving all the time. Watch out for water on the lens, too; even one drop can spoil the picture.

Finally, warns the Johnson Motors News Bureau, protect that camera from the jarring it'll probably get in the boat. Be sure to secure the camera, and not to leave it loose and unprotected on the boat seat.

IN A HURRY

Like to do things in a hurry? There's a forced draft charcoal stove available which is so efficient that a quart of water boils in seven minutes.

Campers towing a trailer for the first time should remember that legal maximum speeds are lower in most states with a trailer than without. The trailer must be wired, complete to directional signals.

Bucktails and Spoons—Bingo!

By Tom Andrews

Though there's no way of proving it, I expect my great-grandfather used something like a bucktail back in the Scottish Highlands. And maybe he had learned the trick from his grandfather! This particular artificial has a lot of solid history going for it. And even if you are inclined to buck tradition every now and again, you will miss out on a lot of good fishing if you ignore lures that utilize the bucktail.

For example, I've said more than a few times that the happiest marriage that ever took place was the one between Johnson's Silver Minnow spoon and a hunk of deer hair. They just naturally called it the Bucktail Spoon, and it just naturally became a very productive lure.

The heavy forged-copper blade casts like a bullet, and its particular shape gives it a very exciting swimming action. And to top it off, the bucktail is available in four colors — red, yellow, black, and a red-and-white combination — and is held by a special clip that permits changing colors fast.

Maybe you feel that switching bucktails isn't necessary or important. Well, believe me, you're not alone: a lot of anglers have never given it a second thought.

But I can remember many days when, for instance, a silver Bucktail Spoon with a yellow bucktail did little more than stir up a lot of water until I switched to a red 'tail or some other color.

Why, it was only two years ago that I was able to show some fishing buddies at an Ontario camp that patience and a bucktail verily could combine to bring lake trout that "weren't biting" swarming around my lure.

Admittedly, I went through several spoon finishes and all four 'tail colors before I got the winning combination. (And I also did something you may want to try. Johnson's bucktail is a wispy one that has very little "floating" effect on the spoon, but I still like to trim it slightly with knife or scissors just forward of the wrapping.)

It was a gold Bucktail Spoon with a yellow 'tail that finally provided the right visual appeal for those big lakers.

Riding along just a foot or so beneath the choppy, rain-swept surface of the lake, this lure took lake trout like the lake hadn't been fished before!

fill a limit. A bay at Elm Point seems to warm up a little faster than other area of the lake and spawning could be more advanced there.

Water may be slightly low at this point, he said, but no one will have any trouble getting in or out of any resorts with their boats. There is ample water in the Springsteel Island channel and Swanson looks for water levels to be average by June 1.

Many resorts have added cabins, built additions to their lodges and made extensive remodeling during the winter in anticipation of a busy summer season. It would be almost as easy to get an audience with the Pope as it would be to get a reservation at a Lake of the Woods resort for the opening weekend. Everything has been booked solid for some time, and only an occasional cancellation provides hope for the late-comer.

Vic Duick of Cyrus Camp, on Bostic Bay near the Morris Point gap, looks for a big fishing year with a break in the weather. He rented out a few darkhouses at the mouth of Bostic Bay last winter and was surprised by the number and size of northerns taken by spearers. Angling for walleyes was not good during the winter, however, but should be coming into its own early in the summer season.

Smaller Lakes

Fishermen who own cabins (or have relatives who do) on the smaller lakes in northern Minnesota will be trying their luck on those lakes. Many of these lakes offer excellent panfishing, most provide good fishing for northerns at certain times and some consistently turn out large walleyes and bass in good numbers.

Reports from the Detroit Lakes area indicate that the walleye spawning run was one of the heaviest in years with a number of large fish noted at the hatchery there. Several of the lakes in that area could be "sleepers" for opening weekend.

Fishermen's Friends

To be of assistance in getting fishermen ready for the opening weekend and later in the season, a number of fishermen's friends are advertising their wares in this special fishing section. Shop their ads and you will probably find exactly what you need. And when you make your selection, tell them you saw it advertised in the Times fishing section.

Take care....and Good Fishing!

Lighten Traffic With Picnic Jug

Tired of having the youngsters trooping in and out of the kitchen to the refrigerator for cold drinks? Cut down on the traffic and slake their thirst at the same time with a picnic jug filled with chilled fruit juice, lemonade or chocolate milk.

Place the picnic jug in the backyard so the youngsters may help themselves. Even young children can pour their own refresher if your picnic jug has a faucet.

WHO

Fishing favor is a malady known to infect all sizes, ages and sexes of the human species. Fishing is not an avocation reserved just for fathers.

It is estimated that about 65 million people went fishing at least once last year—ranging from little ones just barely bigger than the fish they caught to senior types whose retirement has permitted fishing to become a full-time occupation.

More boys and girls each year are learning to fish in summer camp programs and in instructional programs operated by tackle manufacturers, schools, churches and civic organizations.

Fishing has become a featured attraction on family camping expeditions, involving mother and dad and all the youngsters.

WHAT

Almost anything that swims is fair game for the sport fisherman.

Favorite species vary widely from region to region but panfish such as bream, crappie, bluegills abound to almost every state.

Largemouth bass can be taken in most states and the many varieties of trout can be caught in fresh waters everywhere.

Some northern species such as muskie, walleye, pickerel and lake trout can usually be found only to the northern tier of states and to Canada, although the world record walleye (25 lbs.) was taken from Old Hickory Lake in Tennessee.

Implantation of Coho and Chinook salmon from western U.S. coastal waters into the Great Lakes has provided a whole new sportfishing challenge to fishermen in the upper midwest.

Increasing development of farm ponds and dam-impounded waters has brought many of the traditional "good-catching-and-good-eating" fish into almost every section of the continent.

WHEN

An old rule of thumb for fresh water fishermen says "the time to fish is early and late." This means, of course, that fish are more likely to be surface feeding during the tranquil hours before sunrise and just after sunset.

An even better rule says "go fishing whenever the fish are biting."

The early and late rule applies, also, to the time of year — spring and fall to most parts of the country are regarded as being more productive for fishermen than the hottest days of midsummer.

WHERE

Rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, canals, oceans are available to almost everyone to the country.

Some people journey far from their homes to enjoy fishing for exotic species while others get as much fun casting for bluegills down behind the old barn or jigging for catfish on the banks of the river that cuts through the middle of town.

Pollution of our water resources has become one of the scandals of our civilization but important progress is being made in assuring the continuing availability of clean waters where fish can thrive in every part of the conintent.

WHY

George Purvis, writing on the "Fascination of Fishing" in the Arkansas Baptist, said: "Non-anglers have long wondered about the fascination of fishing. There seems to be no explanation since fishing casts a spell on most of those who take up an expensive rod and reel or simple cane pole.

"Undoubtedly fishing is a wholesome form of recreation that can cement family ties or friend-with-friend better than most other activities. It can revitalize and rejuvenate all who 'cast themselves upon the water.'

"Until the riddles of fishing are fully solved (and every angler learns to outwit every fish) angling will probably continue to have a hypnotic effect, causing the fisherman to lose track of time and in the process forget cares and problems that may plague him in the normal pursuits of life.

"To find out why fishing is fascinating all a non-angler has to do is try it."

HOW

Getting the best equipment you can afford, planning ahead to make your fishing trip as comfortable, enjoyable and productive as possible is the best way to enjoy fishing. The stores that sell fishing tackle, the many state and local tourist agencies, the many books, magazines and newspapers that cover fishing all provide help in knowing how to get the most out of fishing.

Cooperation is Called Key To a Successful Cookout

Cooperation is the key to a successful and enjoyable cookout, according to Mrs. Ellen Bridges, home service director of the American Gas Association. A cookout, says Mrs Bridges, is fun for everyone but it's even more enjoyable when the entire family helps to plan and stage it.

Parents should keep in mind that children enjoy group activities almost as much as they enjoy eating hot dogs and hamburgers grilled out of doors.

A young lady of five or six can feel very grown up if mom teaches her how to wrap ears of corn in foil, for outdoor grilling, tear lettuce, and remove the tops of celery stalks for the salad. She will feel important and be a big help in the process.

Setting the table is another area where a little girl can be a big asset. For the smaller girls the job is easy when paper plates are used. More grown-up young ladies can learn the basic elements of properly setting a table with breakable dishes.

The young men of the family will try to emulate dad so why not let them lend a hand. Most boys will prove very quick to recognize meats that have been cooked just right.

Modern grills, such as easy to operate gas grills, will allow cooking temperatures to be maintained so that flare-ups can be kept to a minimum, and the fledgling chef won't have to contend with high flames and smoke in his eyes.

Allowing a youngster to turn his own hot dogs and hamburgers is another way to begin training a new generation of outdoor chefs.

Families who use outdoor gas grills can teach young people to appreciate meals that are cooked to-a-turn out of doors and also show them that some foods are best cooked quickly at high temperatures, while others require a longer time at medium or low heat.

Another natural job for the young men of the family is keeping the thermos chest filled with ice and soft drinks. Once the task is assigned to a junior chef you will most likely find that running out of soft drinks is a thing of the past.

For the family who wants to make cooking out of doors a year 'round activity, there are infra-red gas heaters and gas lights that can make outdoor cookouts and patio parties a reality throughout the year.

For the youngsters, according to Mrs. Bridges, there is a sense of participation during the cookout and later when clean-up time arrives. And, she continues, by allowing them to participate, parents can begin to give the boys and girls an early start in learning to appreciate the great outdoors without ever leaving their own backyards.

FINNING LAZILY in the current of the Tamarac river near Waskish, these male walleyes were awaiting use at the state conservation department's hatchery. Trapped in a pound net, the walleyes were sorted and held in another net in the river until needed. Waskish has been a popular spot for area fishermen in previous years and the opening Saturday is expected to be bigger than ever. As illustrated above, the fish will be there!

What You Should Know

About Towing Trailers

After a little practice, there's nothing especially difficult about towing or parking a camping trailer. Get the feel of your trailer behind your car a little bit before you start and these helpful pointers in mind:

STARTING FROM A DEAD STOP with a trailer calls for slower and more even acceleration than ever. Also give yourself more clearance in the traffic flow to provide for your increased length and decreased initial speed.

STOPPING SAFELY will depend on your tire condition, brakes, the weather, your speed and the condition of the road. Make a practice "quick stop" early in your trip to learn the effects of the trailer on your stopping ability.

WHEN MAKING TURNS, remember that the rear wheels will not quite exactly follow the path of the front wheels of your car. Make allowance for this. Leave additional room and clearance by driving a little beyond the turning point before making your turn.

WHEN PASSING, keep in mind that the trailer will slightly decrease your passing acceleration and you'll need more "clear" highway ahead than usual to pass another vehicle. With your increased length you'll need more room in front of the vehicle you're passing and you'll have to wait a little longer before you can pull back into your normal lane.

BACKING UP can really be pretty simple. When backing up, the back of your trailer always goes in the opposite direction of the back of your car. One simple method often used is to place your right hand on the bottom of your steering wheel. To move the back of your trailer left, move your hand left. To move it right, move your hand right.

Most camper trailers do not have their own brake system, unless their gross weight is more than 1500 pounds. Frame hitches are better than bumper hitches, and safety chains are a must. Dealers usually can install trailer hitches.

Ice Out on Lake Of The Woods; Bert Steele Runs

The ice is gone from Lake of the Woods and navigation of the lake began Tuesday morning when the Bert Steele left the port of Warroad for the island section.

Don Hanson reported Monday that the ice had disappeared during the night. Strong winds all day and rain with wind during the night seemed to do the job.

With the opening of the lake came the confirmation of what many had heard for months — that the Resolute was not going to run this season. Dave Kleven, who has run the boat since the retirement of Captain Fay Young, has other employment and apparently told Young he was no longer interested in trying to keep the boat in operation. The boat was tied up at Flag Island, according to Young.

Hanson, who flies mail to the island section and Angle Inlet during the winter months, said Monday that arrangements had been made with Lawrence Saurdiff to carry the mail beginning June 1.

Operation of only one commercial boat on the lake will mean an overload of work for Saurdiff and the Bert Steele, but Mrs. Saurdiff said Tuesday they would do the best they could. Present plans call for a schedule similar to that of years past with the boat leaving Warroad on the mornings of Tuesday, Thursday, and Sunday, with a round trip on Saturday. In past years the round trip has been on Friday. Changes in the schedule will probably have to be made when the boat begins to carry the mail, she said.

The mid-day sun has been known to do more damage to sports-minded people than actual mishaps

Give a Dinner Party without Dinner; Let Guests Assemble Their Own!

Give a dinner party without any dinner, for a change — have an hors d'oeuvres menu and let everyone assemble their own kabobs and grill their own snacks, right outside on the patio.

An hors d'oeuvres patio party fits right into the new informal mode. Prepare the "fixings" ahead of time, then count on the gas grill to provide steady cooking heat until even the heartiest eater says "enough."

A menu can be simple or as fancy as one's taste. Some tips:

Put large, whole, fresh mushroom caps on skewers and grill about 12 minutes, turning once or twice. They can be dipped in a creamy onion dressing or eaten plain.

Brush giant shrimp with melted garlic butter and grill, turning occasionally.

A rotisserie attachment will do a superb job of grilling skewers of cocktail sausages, chicken livers wrapped in bacon, or chunks of cooked ham and pineapple.

Cook cocktail-size meatballs with condensed cream of mushroom soup in a skillet right on the grill and let everyone help themselves.

Red Lake River Trails Project Receives Funds

Gov. Harold LeVander Wednesday announced funding agreements have been reached on five outdoor recreation projects in northern Minnesota. Included are funds for Red Lake river trails in Pennington county and Hayes Lake state park in Roseau county.

Each of the projects will be supported by funds from the Upper Great Lakes regional commission of which LeVander is state co-chairman.

The commission, which consists of the governors of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan plus a federal co-chairman, was created two years ago to assist in the development of the northern parts of the three states.

The five projects announced by LeVander and the funding breakdown are as follows:

Development of the Red Lake river trails in Pennington county with $3,000 from upper Great Lakes (UGLRC); $5,221 from Bureau of Outdoor Recreation (BOR); $1,786 from the state; and $435 from local government.

Land acquisition for the new Hayes Lake state park in Roseau county with $14,040 from UGLRC; $23,868 from BOR; and $9,828 from the state for a total of $47,736.

Expansion of the Lake Bronson state park in Kittson county with $3,978 in UGLRC funds; $6,630 from BOR; and $2,652 from the state for a total of $13,260.

Development of Gooseberry park in Moorhead by $26,132 in UGLRC funds; $51,013 in Federal Bureau of Outdoor Recreation (BOR) funds; and $24,881 in local funds, for a total project expenditure of $102,026.

Site acquisition and construction of access roads for the Split Rock Lighthouse state park project in Lake county. It will be funded by $19,890 from UGLRC; $33,150 from BOR; and $13,260 from the State, for a total of $66,300.

Unable to reach agreement following the formal fact-finding hearing held May 1, members of the adjustment panel studying school faculty salaries in Thief River Falls will submit separate findings late this week. The panel came to this general decision May 6 and met briefly yesterday, setting Friday as the day to submit findings to the school board, faculty negotiating team and Minnesota commissioner of education.

Submitting individual reports will be Joe Forberg, representing the teachers' council; C. L. Charlson, representing the board of education; and Kenneth S. Nelson, Warren, appointed by the district court.

School Board Hears Reports, Asks Bids

Report on negotiations being conducted on salaries for custodians and bus drivers occupied a major portion of the meeting of the Thief River Falls board of education Tuesday evening. Because of the large number of people attending, the meeting was moved from the superintendent's office to the school library.

Special mention was given to the annual school election to be held Tuesday, May 20, from 4 to 9 p.m. in the Lincoln senior high school cafeteria. The board will meet following the election for a special session to canvass the ballots.

Action was also taken in regard to several communications received by the board and superintendent. Resignation of Julie Nelson was accepted; approval was given to a request by Richard Fugere for cancellation of his previous resignation and subsequent request for contract; termination date was set at May 29 for contracts to Frank Hay and Gordon Templeton who had resigned; and acknowledgement given to a letter from Mrs. Lillian Ranum, assistant school nurse, requesting salary consideration for next year.

Resolutions were adopted to continue the Title I federal assistance program, high school league athletic accident benefit plan and student teaching agreement with Bemidji state college. Request by Neary Louze, custodian, for extension of employment beyond retirement age, was approved for the coming year.

Bids were called for on blacktop surfacing of the parking lot at the area vocational-technical school with bids on folding doors, carpeting, fuel oil, gasoline and related items deferred to the June meeting. Equivalency certificates were approved for Beverly Ranum and Mark F. Belland.

C. L. Charlson, attorney for the school district, presented appraisals he had obtained for a possible land exchange between the school district and Kenneth Berg. The latter has proposed exchange of about four acres of land near Franklin junior high school. The board requested administrative study and recommendation as well as a formal plat before taking action, probably at the special meeting next Tuesday.

Supt. Johnson reported on his attendance at the national school boards association convention. He also gave the swimming pool

Hospital Additions Make Progress

While many hospitals throughout the nation are observing American Hospital week this week, Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls is merely acknowledging its passing. Primary reason, according to Norman P. Peterson, administrator, is the state of turmoil in which the hospital finds itself due to the extensive additions now under construction.

"Your Hospital—Pathway to Progress in Community Health" is the theme for the week. With completion of the additions now under construction, the local hospital will have facilities for acute illness or injury, rehabilitation, physical medicine, long-term care, day-night psychiatric care and counseling, ambulance service, educational programs and additional training.

Education is being conducted for x-ray technicians, laboratory assistants, practical nursing students and medical secretaries. In the day-night psychiatric unit there will be the possibility of resident programs in psychiatry and associated fields.

Peterson said that a public showing of the day-night unit—being constructed as an additional floor to the rehabilitation unit—is being planned for mid summer. The showing will likely be in connection with a two-day seminar on comprehensive community mental health programs, he said.

Open house at the 90-bed long-term care unit being added to the south end of the hospital will likely take place in September or October. Efforts are now being made to arrange a combined program on services for the elderly in the community, Peterson said, including the expansion of Valley home and opening of the local housing authority's senior citizen housing project.

A photo accompanying this article shows several people on the roof area of the day-night psychiatric unit. This area is being planned as a recreation center for all patients receiving any services at the hospital. It would include both in-patients and out-patients in planned programs of shuffleboard, table tennis and volleyball as well as outdoor barbecue use, sunbathing and other uses.

Peterson added that the opening of the new facilities in approximately June and October will result in addition of approximately 100 professional, semi-professional and unskilled staff members. The day-night psychiatric unit will employ 22 full-time staff members with the first 15 positions to carry a total annual salary of approximately $185,000.

INSPECTING PROGRESS on the day-night psychiatric unit being added to the north end of Northwestern hospital are, left to right, Norman P. Peterson, hospital administrator; Mrs. Juanita Vigness, counselor aid with the Northwestern Mental Health center at Crookston, and Dr. Ronald C. Young, psychiatrist and medical director of the day-night unit. Local hospital officials are planning a public showing of the unit when it is completed this summer. The showing will be combined with a two-day seminar on comprehensive community mental health programs.

Action Deferred on Council Questions

With two members absent at the regular meeting of the Thief River Falls city council Tuesday evening, action on the city sewage disposal system and a building permit for an apartment building was deferred to an adjourned meeting at noon Friday.

At the Friday meeting the council is expected to make a decision on the type of sewage treatment system to be constructed and the procedure to be followed after reaching that decision. Deadline for application for federal funds for the project is reported to be May 19.

A decision is also expected on acceptance or rejection of a building permit for an apartment building at the corner of First street and Maple avenue. Nearby property owners approved of construction of the 12-unit building a short time ago, but a petition later asked that the building permit be denied. Many of the signers of the original petition also signed the second.

At a special meeting Tuesday noon, the local planning commission gave unanimous approval to a recommendation that the council approve the permit.

In action Tuesday evening, the council adopted a resolution ratifying Chapter 194 of the Minnesota laws of 1969. The special legislation permits the city to surface the three public parking lots in the city and make improvements at the city tourist park without direct assessment.

Second reading of the dance ordinance was held and the resignation of Harvey Droppo as assistant manager of the municipal liquor store was accepted effective June 1.

A work permit was granted to Northwestern Bell Telephone company to bury telephone cable in Sixth street. A strip of property 10 feet wide and located north of the substation near the municipal power plant was deeded to Northwestern hospital for use as part of the ambulance entrance.

Soo Line railroad offered an agreement for use of railroad right-of-way under the tracks for an emergency fire route near the fire department. The council authorized acceptance of the agreement contingent upon concurrence by the city's liability insurance carrier.

Marlene Ione Iverson And James Taggart Speak Vows

Marlene Ione Iverson and James Lee Taggart, both of this city, exchanged marriage vows on Saturday, April 12, at 3 p.m., at the First Baptist church in this city.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Norman Ueland of Newfolden and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Taggart of Thief River Falls.

Rev. Val Hauck officiated at the double ring ceremony. Only members of the immediate families were in attendance. Baskets of white gladioli, yellow mums and greens formed the chancel setting.

Lois Nelson presided at the organ. She played the traditional nuptial selections and also accompanied James Erickson, brother-in-law of the groom, as he sang, "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer".

For her wedding, the bride chose a floor-length gown of a pale blue brocaded taffeta. The empire bodice, styled with long sleeves and a rounded neckline, was marked at the waistline by a band of matching fabric. A double bow held her bouffant veil of blue silk illusion and she carried a cascading bouquet of blue and white carnations centered with a nosegay of yellow roses surrounded by carnations.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was a close friend, Patricia Lambert of Thief River Falls. She was attired in an A-line, empire fashioned, floor-length gown of yellow crepe, designed with bell sleeves. To complete her attire she wore a matching bow in her hair and carried a bouquet of cascading yellow roses, accented with blue and white carnations.

Candyce Johnson of Minneapolis, a niece of the groom, was flower girl. She was attired in a floor-length gown of blue brocade with a matching headpiece. Serving as ring bearer was Christopher Ueland of Morris, a nephew of the bride.

Best man was Michael Thrane of Thief River Falls, a friend of the groom. Bruce Ueland of Newfolden, a brother of the bride, served as usher. For their attire, the men of the wedding party wore dark business suits with white carnation boutonnieres. The groom was attired in the dress uniform of the U.S. Army.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Ueland wore an aqua dress complemented by white accessories. The mother of the groom was attired in a blue dress accented with black accessories. Both wore identical corsages of yellow roses and white carnations.

Attending as special guest was Ben Bengtson of Newfolden, grandfather of the bride.

Approximately 125 relatives and friends attended the reception hosted in the church parlors by the parents of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Larson, brother-in-law and sister of the groom, served as reception host and hostess. Mrs. Eugene Becklund, sister of the groom, presided at the guest book while Mrs. Peter Teigen, sister of the groom, and Ronald Ueland, brother of the bride, ladled the punch.

The wedding cake was cut and served by Mrs. Newell Ueland, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Don Johnson, sister of the groom. Mrs Russell Gustafson, a cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Jim Erickson, a sister of the groom, poured.

Mrs. Michael Thrane, Ione Schultz and Leola Chapman served as waitresses. Assisting in the kitchen were Mrs. Albert Hodik, Mrs. Walter Becklund, Mrs. Thorvald Myhrer, Mrs. Victor Ranstrom and Mrs. Oscar Omundson. LeAnna Sather and Mrs. Loren McCullough opened and arranged the gifts.

"Dear George:
They say that it's an ill wind that does no good. Feeder pig producers have benefitted from the rainy weather which has delayed the planting of corn and other crops in large areas of the midwest. This has undoubtedly been responsible for the price of feeder pigs, especially the lighter weight pigs, holding up as well as they have. Another factor which will have some effect upon prices paid for feeder pigs is the rise in the price of corn. Corn prices in many areas have reached $1.20 and in some areas higher.
As the result of the delayed spring work and the rise in corn prices we expect to see the buyers become more selective both on weight of pigs and on quality. It's for this reason that we have not lowered our standards during the past months when anything with 4 legs that looked like a pig would sell.
We're in the market every week for pigs weighing 40 pounds and more of top quality. You can deliver your pigs to our market at the Joppru Livestock Sales Co.; Winger, Minn. between the hours of 8:00 A.M. and Noon on Tuesday.
See you next week.

Murder-Suicide Reported Monday At Crookston

A Crookston woman was found dead in her bed on Monday and her husband later was found dead in his automobile at the outskirts of Crookston.

Dr. H. E. Nelson, Polk county coroner, ruled the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Selseth as a murder-suicide. Law enforcement officials said that they had no motive for the deaths.

Mrs. Selseth, middle-aged, has been beaten on the head with a baseball bat, the coroner stated. The four Selseth sons still living at home discovered the body of their mother in her bed after they awakened about 8 a.m.

Dr. Nelson added that a note addressed to Larry, 14, eldest of the four boys at home, told him to call his married sister Rosemary, 23, Mrs. Jim Finck, Grand Forks, N.D., and his older brother, Arthur Jr., a student at Mayville state college of North Dakota.

Selseth's body was discovered in his car just outside the Crookston city limits. The coroner said Selseth shot himself in the forehead with a .22 rifle. There were indications, Dr. Nelson added, that the man had slashed his wrists before driving away from his home.

Selseth had been employed by a Crookston area farmer and Mrs. Selseth was a restaurant cook in Crookston. Sunday, Mother's Day, guests at the home had been the daughter Rosemary and her husband and they departed to Grand Forks about 12:45 a.m.

St. John Church Members Provide Special Offering

Members of St. John Lutheran church believe that letting servicemen know the folks at home care should be more than just a matter of words, reports Rev. Paul Biegner, Pastor of the congregation.

That's why the congregation participates in a nationwide offering on May 11 and May 18, designed to raise $400,000 for the work of the Armed Forces commission of the Lutheran church-Missouri synod.

According to Rev. Biegner, the synod's program for servicemen is one of the most extensive among American church bodies.

Besides supplying chaplains to the military services, the commission sends out tons of material each year to about 36,000 members of the synod in mailings at least once a month. Included are devotional materials, worship orders with hymns and meditations (in case the serviceman can't make it to a service), information on chaplains, times of services and "chit-chat" from home.

The Missouri synod also has more than 120 active-duty chaplains and over 400 civilian contact pastors who serve parishes near military installations. Nationally, Lutherans provide one of every 10 chaplains, even though only one of every 20 Americans is Lutheran.

Special attention will be focused on work of the commission through the offering and object lesson talk using a Lutheran dog tag, bulletin insert, plasticized worship cards and prayers for servicemen.

As they bring their special offering, members of St. John congregation will be reminded of the words of a fellow Lutheran from overseas who wrote, "I would like to thank you for the materials you send each month. Without God's love and guidance I don't think I could have made it through the months in Vietnam."

Crossing between intersections was responsible for 40 per cent of the pedestrian deaths in 1968, according to annual figures. More than 9,600 pedestrians were blamed for their own deaths last year.

Increased Crop Diversion Asked In Flood Areas

Congressman Odin Langen has asked the secretary of agriculture to approve the request by the Minnesota Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation service for liberalized farm crop diversion in the flooded area of northwestern Minnesota.

"The state committee of ASCS has recommended that farmers in the flood areas be permitted to increase their diversion intentions in the 1969 feed grains and wheat programs up to the maximum if desired," Langen explained. "I heartily concur and have communicated my endorsement to the department."

Langen noted that the sign-up period had ended before northwestern Minnesota farmers were able to assess the effects of the flooding. "The should now be given the opportunity to increase their diversion to the maximum," he said. Under the proposal, the increased diversion privilege would be extended only to those producers who signed up for the program during the regular sign-up period.

"I have urged the department of agriculture to grant swift approval to the Minnesota committee's request," Langen said.

In freeway emergencies, take as much time to stop as possible to reduce the danger of a collision from the rear. Do not apply the brakes hard and continuously, but use a snubbing action. At freeway speeds hard and continuous braking will cause the brakes to fade, and might cause the wheels to lock.

CLOTHING—MEN & BOYS

by Flora Allison

Seasonal needs and interests influence the choices of books taken from the library as well as purchases of needs like paint, rakes, etc. We find that many of the books on outdoor fireplaces, patios, remodeling, boat construction and maintenance, barbecuing, gardening and landscaping, among others, are now missing from the shelves and undoubtedly solving a number of problems for their borrowers. If your need is for something along these lines, come in and see what you can find. Nor do we expect you to find everything you want, without assistance. We're at the desk to serve you; any time you're stuck or have doubts about where you can find some information you need, ask for help. We'll do our best to steer you in the right direction. Some of the helps asked for during past weeks were for poems for Mother's Day and Memorial Day, suggestions for shower ideas, for table settings, wedding celebrations, gardening tips, golfing and baseball books, and several on cake decorating, to cite just a very few. Which serves to illustrate the need for a well-stocked library, for with each ring of the telephone or searcher at the card catalog, we may be asked to help someone locate something on any subject you can name. If you haven't made use of your library lately, why not today?

For sheer drama and courage, we recommend the story of the siege of Leningrad as told in Harrison Salisbury's book, "The 900 Days." Many of you are too young to remember the dark days of World War II when reverses for the Allies were so commonplace, but to us of the war generation who lived with them, they are vivid still. At that time of which the book was written, Russia was our ally and her reverses were also our suffering, and Leningrad's fate as well as all of Russia's seemed absolutely vital to us; we cannot but speculate as to history's turn had the Russians been defeated by Germany and all of her material gotten into German hands, or as much of it as did not fall to the "scorched earth" policy. "The 900 Days" may be a lesson for us in these times, for it paints up the tenacity and determination of the Communists in keeping what is theirs, no matter at what cost. But it is for sheer interest and excellent reportage that we recommend your reading of this book, more than for its political implications, though these are never far beneath the surface either.

"African Traveler," the story of Mary Kingsley, is by Ronald Syme. Though in the junior section, we can envision the interest that adults will find in it also. A biography set in darkest Africa in the 1890s, it's a thriller. Imagine yourself being poled along in a little dugout canoe with a dusky native guiding the craft downstream and having been warned not to stop at the first village, or the second, or third, for their natives were cannibals! Then imagine the oppressiveness of the tropical heat, the swarms of insects, the wild animals lurking in the tangled undergrowth, the tribes that were at eternal war with one another, and you have an idea of the perilous journey the book deals with. Miss Kingsley was delegated to bring back for the British museum examples of new species of fish from this area, and she carried out her mission with distinction, amassing the then finest collection on earth. Not only this, but she lectured in England, wrote two books, both best-sellers, and went back to the Africa she had learned to love, this time as a nurse in the Boer War. Here she further distinguished herself by her devotion to the suffering soldiers. History reserves a special niche for the slender white woman who dared to walk through the wildest part of Africa, and who walked straight into the hearts of her countrymen, becoming probably the most distinguished Englishwoman of her day.

Young Adult Books

In "Destination Capri," gals will find all the ingredients of a perfect story: mystery, intrigue, romance, and stark, raw terror. Plus a glamorous setting along the lush coastline of Italy, with a dream-island called Capri beckoning the heroine, Meg, and tantalizing her with what she knew just couldn't happen to her, ever! Staying in the villa of a prince? He had to be kidding! For added spice, there's a painting of great value, and very much missing; the danger of tracking it down and getting it back to its rightful owners. One thing after another gets in the way, and the danger grows by the page. It will make you decide that nothing can come out right, and maybe you're correct in that assumption. You've got to read this to satisfy your curiosity, don't you? Remember the title, "Destination Capri." The author is L. C. Rendins.

"Gooney" could be about any little boy or girl, you maybe, thinking out loud about what you'd like to be someday. Like the girl who wanted to be a nurse "with long brown hair in a bun so it wouldn't fall into the bandages." Or about the kid who wanted to be a fireman so he could "climb a thousand steps up a ladder and rescue my little brother with one hand and run down the ladder, and cough from the smoke and have cuts but the baby wouldn't be hurt." Or a mother with three children: "Boy, girl, girl, like that, so the girl could have a brother to get her boyfriends." This was mentioned with the teenage books for a purpose: something for all you babysitters to read to the small fry and perhaps suggest to mothers as something to read aloud when you aren't around! By Barbar Borack, with pictures by somebody else, and everyone of them bound to be a favorite of the kids.

"Snowbound Mystery" is for the junior mystery fans, of whom we have so many you wouldn't believe! Getting snowbound wasn't in the cards for the Aldens, you can bet, when they went for a camping trip with headquarters in an old cabin five miles from the nearest store. The problems they face are some you wouldn't want to come to grips with ever! The mystery is about a treasure hidden in the attic of the cabin, or so the Aldens finally decide. What it's about, and how they survive the ordeal of being trapped so far from supplies, is what you want to find out for yourself, and naturally you want to check out this book. It's by Gertrude Warner.

For small children, along with "Gooney" we are pleased to tell you about a book that will delight every grandparent and every little guy in the world. Especially the one in the book "Follow Me, the Leader," lover of cats and big dogs, squirrels and bluejays, sticks to poke at ice in puddles, hills to climb up and slide down, leaves to fall into. And hater of the big yellow school bus that each morning takes all his friends away. Dorothy Fax writes such an appealing little story, and it's irresistibly illustrated so that even if you aren't a grandparent, but only a little guy you're going to love him.

"Raffie," by Cathrine Barr is about a little giraffe who couldn't see over the zoo walls when he was a baby, and who imagined himself like so many of the other animals there, to make up for what he couldn't do. Then one day the children were all standing around admiring the tall giraffe that he would one day be, and he decided that he was happy after all. For all that he had to do was wait, and one day it would happen to him.

The best for last, and it's just so beautiful we wish you could all see it at once. "A Book About God," it's called, and Mommy can find it in the j200's, with the other books about religion. The pictures are something you will always remember when you think about God and all the wonderful, lovely things that He has made for us to enjoy.

See you at the library for these, and other books you'll want to be reading.

MSBA Secretary Notes Importance Of School Vote

W. A. Wettergren, executive secretary of the Minnesota School Boards association, calls attention to the date of May 20 when election to positions on most of Minnesota's public school boards will take place.

In the school districts of Minnesota, public school boards employ 45,000 teachers, 40,000 non-certificated persons, enroll some 950,000 pupils, build new school facilities at a cost of 80 million dollars annually and spend some 600 million dollars yearly to provide the best in education these boards feel they can provide for the money spent, Wettergren said.

"The state and nation's economy is based on the education of its citizenry," Wettergren said, "and because of this I must remind the people of Minnesota of the importance of electing responsible persons to membership on local school boards."

Wettergren points to the need for people to go to the polls because they own the schools, pay for them, and they must take responsibility for the product of th schools. "Therefore," he states, "The people must take the responsibility for the election of responsible persons to serve in these most important positions."

Wettergren said that the public schools of Minnesota are envied by almost every other state for the success they have had in providing public education for their pupils. He also expressed concern with the development of protest programs in many areas of the state against public schools, and he charged that these are efforts to get at the heart of the democratic process of our society which has taken years to build.

Militancy of teachers and students and charges by various self-appointed citizen groups, make it imperative that each citizen exercise the right to vote to continue the election of responsible persons to the public school boards of Minnesota, he added.

Wettergren urged great citizen interest to "prevent a breakdown of the greatest system of education ever devised by man." The election of that person to the school board who will take responsibility for serving the interest of the public good is most important, he concluded.

Rotary Clubs to Erect Building At Camp Courage

Construction of a Rotary activities building, a gift of Minnesota Rotary clubs, is scheduled to begin soon at Camp Courage at Maple lake. The announcement was made by Ed Meierbachtol, LeSueur, past president of the Minnesota Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc. (MiSCCA), and past district governor of Rotary.

This $85,000 two-story center will be built into a hillside at a focal point on the camp grounds adjacent to the reception center. It will have grade-level entrances on both floors and a circular ramp within the building connecting the two floors. The lower level will house specialized activities for the training and employment of the handicapped and the upper floor will provide residential facilities.

Photography, lapidary and jewelry, ceramics, shortwave radio and woodworking are among the activities to be carried on in the building. Initially, it will also be used to begin a year around program of sheltered work activities for handicapped Minnesota youths in the field of horticulture and other related activities.

Rotary has a goal of $70,000, and to date over $50,000 has been paid or pledged toward the project. Meierbachtol, who has personally visited 49 of the 54 clubs in the district, paid tribute to the many friends of Camp Courage in Rotary who have been active in promoting the project.

Camp Courage is owned and operated by MISCCA and is supported by United Fund contributions and special gifts.

report for April, noting that 3,384 people used the pool after school hours during the month. Average nightly attendance was 134 with an average of 169 on Saturday and 111 on Sunday. Total cost was $1,006 for operation with $356 obtained in fees for a net cost of operation of $709. He also mentioned that Mrs. Howard Nelson had been injured in a fall in the locker room area and that arrangements are being made to place ceramic tile on the floors to make them less slippery.

Louis Langtin, superintendent of buildings and grounds, reported on work to be done on the second and third floor of Old Lincoln. Hallways and offices on the second floor will have flooring removed and be replaced with a sub-floor and carpeting. In discussing negotiations with Local 664 of the Municipal Drivers, Helpers and Public Employees Union, Francis Hamerlinck, administrative assistant, reviewed offers to date.

He said that the union had requested an increase of 40 cents per hour across the board for custodians and 10 cents for bus drivers, with custodians now receiving $2.38 and $2.50 and bus drivers $2.33 and $2.50. Also requested was an increase of $5 per month for the kindergarten route, 15 cents per hour adjustment for the assistant mechanic (now a 31-cent difference from $2.77 to $3.08 between assistant and chief mechanic) and monthly supplement for the lead custodian of $50 in the senior high school, $35 in the junior high school and $20 in the elementary and vocational-technical schools. Current supplement for the added responsibility is $10 per month.

The union also asked that seniority prevail in all cases or a three-man panel be called and the reason explained before a new man is hired.

Hamerlinck suggested that the board approve the additional supplement for lead men in each building and the $5 additional for kindergarten routes. He noted that custodial salaries now total $131,469 and that a 15-cent increase would cost the district $7,900 additional while a 40-cent increase would cost $21,123 additional. A board offer of 12 to 15 cents per hour was suggested, and the board requested the administrative assistant to continue negotiations.

STAR SCOUT rank was obtained by Dennis Nabben, left, and Gordon Prichord, both of whom received advancement at a court of honor Monday evening at Community Methodist church. Both are members of Explorer Post 46.

Roseau Rally Nips Prowlers on Monday

by Bob Wielinski
Times Sports Writer

Defending champions dropped their second game in the Northwest conference Monday as the Thief River Falls Prowlers lost a 7-5 decision to the Roseau Rams. The loss by the Prowlers on Friday to Bemidji, and Monday's loss to Roseau, assured Bemidji outright ownership of the league crown this year. The Prowlers' only league contest remaining is against Crookston on Friday, when they host the Pirates in a 7:30 p.m. contest.

The Prowlers took a 2-1 lead in the bottom of the second inning against Roseau Monday and increased that lead to 5-1 by the end of the fourth inning. Roseau cut the margin to 5-3 in the fifth frame and staged a four-run rally in the seventh to stop the Prowlers 7-5 for their first win in conference play this year.

Danny Sullivan, who last Tuesday blanked the Roms at Roseau, started on the mound for the Prowlers but ran into trouble in the seventh inning and had to get relief help from Tony Johnson.

Sullivan had the game in control until two outs were recorded in the top of the seventh, but then two walks and two hits off the junior lefthander brought in two runs to knot the score. Johnson came in and gave up a run scoring single to the Rams second batter before getting the final out on a fly to center, but the damage was done as the Rams went ahead 7-5.

Mike Kvarnlov retired the Prowlers in order in the seventh inning as he went all the way for the Rams, giving up five runs on seven base hits and striking out six while giving up two walks.

Roseau scored first in the second inning as Dale Smedsmo singled to left field. Left fielder Tom Wurst had trouble coming up with the ball and Smedsmo moved to second. He came home on Roger Markstrom's two-out fly ball to left which Wurst had trouble playing. Markstrom tried to reach second but was cut down on a fine throw by Wurst to second baseman Brian Peterson to end the inning. The Prowler outfield of Wurst, Dana Stromberg and Steve Daley cut down three Roseau runners during the game on fine throws to the infield.

The Prowlers came right back in their half of the second, as Sullivan led off with a single to right and Brian Peterson drew a walk. The bath came home as Steve Daley doubled to right center, giving the Prowlers a 2-1 lead. Kvarnlov then retired the side with Daley dying at second.

The Prowlers added another run in the third inning after two outs were recorded, as Tim Duke singled to right, stole second and rode home on Gordy Peterson's single to left field. This gave the Prowlers a 3-1 lead.

Sullivan, having the Roms eating out of his hand, struck out the side in the fourth inning, before the Prowlers added two more runs in the bottom of the fourth.

Brian Peterson led off the inning with a double to right field and moved to third on Daley's single to right. Peterson scored as Don Balmer singled to left with Daley holding up at third. Balmer stole second and Tony Johnson loaded the bases as he drew a walk. Stromberg then lifted a long fly to left which the leftfielder had measured for a sure out, but dropped the ball, with Daley coming home on the play. Balmer was forced out at third as he didn't have time to get there on the dropped fly ball, with the Prowlers increasing their lead to 5-3.

Sullivan retired the side in order in the sixth. He looked like he was on his way to his second win over the Roms, but the roof caved in after two were out in the seventh. Markstrom and Tim Delmore drew walks, they both scored on Mike Broten's single up the middle to center, as the score was tied at 5-5. The next batter Sheldon Hedlund then laced a double into center field, scoring Broten with the go ahead run. The Rams weren't through yet as LeLand Peterson greeted relief pitcher Tony Johnson with a single up the middle, scoring Hedlund from second and giving the Roms a 7-5 lead.

The Prowlers are back in action on Thursday as they host Climax, then meet Crookston on Friday, with both games set for 7:30 p.m. On Saturday the Prowlers will host Warroad in a 5 p.m. contest. They will close their regular season play on Monday and Tuesday as they host the Warren Ponies and the Red Lake Falls Eagles before moving into District 31 play the week of May 26.

1st Annual North Tri-County Track Meet at Oklee

Four North Tri-County conference teams have indicated that they will take part in the first running of the North Tri-County conference track meet being held at Oklee today (Wednesday).

Indicating that they will be entered in the meet are McIntosh, Erskine, Gonvick and Oklee. Meet manager Roy Hokkanen, Oklee coach, told the Times on Tuesday that he hadn't received word on whether Middle River or Mentor plan to field teams at the meet or not. Two other schools in the conference, Plummer and Goodridge, haven't a track squad this year.

According to Hokkanen, the meet will begin at 10 a.m., with finals to begin at 1 p.m.

Favorites to take the first conference title will be the McIntosh Scots, led by all-around athlete Mark Schimanski, who will be in the weights for the Scots. On Monday he took first and second in an invitational meet held at Fosston. To go along with Schimanski, the Scots are strong in the high and low hurdles and the dashes, with Jim Benson running in these events.

Oklee will be headed by Steve Rodnlecki, Allan Olson and Tony Radnlecki in the weight classes and are expected to be top contenders in the pole vault with Elroy Wistard. The Bobcats also have a real good half miler in Eldon Morinville, while Bob Melby will give Benson a go at it in the sprints.

Larry Bjerkness will lead the Gonvick squad into the meet as he is also a top speedster for the Bulldogs. Daryl Halvorson is Erskine's top performer so far as he will be entered in the weights.

NSJC Golfers Falls to BSC Jrs.

Northland state junior college golf team hosted the Bemidji state college junior varsity team in a dual meet on Tuesday at the local golf course and found the visitors taking home a 318-357 win.

Scoring for the match was based on the four lowest scores of each team with Bemidji coming out the winner. Taking medalist honors for the match was Bob Arthur of Bemidji with an 18-hole total of 78, as he carded a 37 and 41, one stroke less than teammate Paul Oman who finished with a 79. He had a 37 on the opening nine and a 42 on the back nine.

Low for Northland was John Adolphson with an 84 on rounds of 41 and 43. Other scoring for Northland was Emery Wicklander, 90; Scott Brummer, 91; and Jay Guillemette, 92.

Next action for the Northland golf squad will be Thursday in a dual match against Mayville state college at Mayville, N. D. The tennis team will be in action on Wednesday with a meet at U.N.D. and will also be at Mayville on Thursday.

G. Forks Central Tops LHS Netmen

Thief River Falls Prowler tennis team traveled to Grand Forks Central on Tuesday and was shutout by the Redskins for the second time this year by a 9-0 score.

In the first singles match, Jim Gambucci topped Steve Edlund by set scores of 6-1 and 6-4. The second singles found Kip Popenhagen being defeated by Bob Harreman by set scores of 6-2 and 11-9. Mark Thyren was the Prowlers third singles entry and was defeated by Terry Paucket by set scores of 3-6; 7-5 and 6-4.

In the doubles, Dan Jorgenson and Stuart Waltonen were defeated by Steve Wald and Mike Parlseau by scores of 6-1 and 6-1.

The Prowlers are back in action today (Wednesday) as they host Detroit Lakes. On Friday they will travel to East Grand Forks. Both matches are scheduled for 3 p.m.

Sullivan, Daley Swing Hot Bats For Prowlers

by Bob Wielinski
Times Sports Writer

Swinging the hot bats for the Thief River Falls Prowler baseball team during the past week have been juniors, Dan Sullivan and Steve Daley. Between the two, they have collected nine hits in 20 at bats in the last four games.

Sullivan has the hottest bat with six hits in 14 at bats, while he has lifted his average from a .222 last week to .295 this week, second best on the squad. Daley is fourth, bringing his average of .200 a week ago to .290.

Against Bemidji and Roseau, Daley laced the only extra base hits of the two games, both doubles, while driving in two runs against Roseau Monday in a losing cause.

Sullivan, besides doing the hot hitting, has been most effective on the mound, although he has dropped two decisions. One was a shutout to Bemidji and the other a loss to Roseau on Monday, while he shut out the Rams a week earlier at Roseau.

He leads the team in strike outs with 21, while walking eight batters, and has worked in 23 and two-thirds innings, top among the mound staff. He has allowed 16 runs on 26 hits. The junior lefthander has a 1-2 record so far this season and could be rated as the Prowlers' number one stopper.

Leading the team in hitting is senior veteran Tony Johnson, who has 12 hits in 36 at bats for a .333 batting average. Johnson has two triples to lead the team in this department and is tied with Daley for the leadership in stolen bases with four.

Johnson, in addition to his hitting, has a perfect 3-0 record as a pitcher. He has worked 12 and one-third innings on the mound, giving up nine runs on 17 hits while striking out 19 and walking eight.

Behind Johnson and Sullivan in hitting is catcher Don Balmer, who has seven hits in 24 times to the plate for a .291 mark. Balmer, one of the finest defensive catchers in the region, according to coaches, has recorded three or four putouts at home as runners have been trying to score. Balmer leads the club in number of times striking out with 13, but his hits have driven in five runs and at opportune times.

The Prowlers as a team are batting .249 with 79 hits for 317 times at bat. They have score 68 runs while driving in 44. They have committed 35 errors and have struck out 79 times while walking 43 times.

Johnson, Sullivan and Dana Stromberg have been the pitching work horses so far. Stromberg has worked 20 innings while posting a 1-3 record. It is interesting to note that his losses have come to Moorhead twice and Bemidji once, two of the top teams in the state right now.

The Prowlers in 74 innings pitched have given up 58 runs on 87 hits while striking out 71 and giving up 45 walks and posting a 6-5 record.

The Prowlers have five games remaining on their regular season schedule before entering the District 31 tournament in Thief River Falls during the week of May 26.

by Stu and Dee Mann

Information for this column comes from two sources: Minnesota Arrowhead Association of Duluth, Minnesota, and The Crane Lake Commercial Club, Crane Lake, Minnesota, as reported by Dee Mann, who has flown over the proposed National Park areas and having interviewed citizens of these areas; the conclusive report is as follows:

"This column goes on record against the proposed National Park to be under Federal controls and which will be an area of approximately 211,000 acres (139,000 of land and 72,000 of water) along boundry east of International Falls and includes the Crane Lake recreational Area; and Lakes NAMAKAN and SANDPOINT. It also includes additional acreage as access at Rainy Lake and Kabetogama area.

"A minority pressure group decided to add Crane Lake Recreational Area comprised of 31,000 acres of land and 12,000 of water to the land already being taken over by this proposed national park site!

DID YOU KNOW:

That Federal Parks Service are closing five national parks inducing five other parks to an eight hour day?

REASON? LACK OF FUNDS!

Where then, are they getting the sixty million dollars? Where can you find 81,000 acres of prime timber in the state of Minnesota to trade to Boise Cascade for their timber holdings in Kabetogama? (Loss of harvest to them and our tax dollars from them, to our state!)

WE NOW HAVE PARK PRIVILEGES IN THIS AREA!

Under present 'MULTIPLE USE' we now have all the activities the park proponents plan for this park; plus hunting, trapping, fishing, picnicking, canoeing, (Portaging) leasing of cabins ($15.00 per year from the Timber Company! !) Barbecue fireplaces built by the Timber Companies, outdoor facilities; also constructed by the Timber Companies; roads and maintenance of those areas already being managed and fire protected by the Timber Companies! PLUS MANAGED PRODUCTIVE FORESTS HARVESTING, planting and care of same; quality fishing and resorts (which is also a present industry for these tax paying citizens who reside there.) The U.S. Forest Service, the Minnesota Dept. of Conservation and Timber Companies Product industries who maintain present campgrounds, snowmobiling and hiking trails and docks . all free to you NOW. PLUS SUPERVISED FOREST MANAGEMENT AND TECHNIQUES CONTROLS AT NO COST TO THE TAXPAYER. All these agencies have done well in preserving the area. There is also proper management of wildlife control. We see no need to transfer management and ownership to the Department of the Interior!

TOO MUCH FEDERAL CONTROL AND LAND OWNERSHIP REMOVES STATE AND PRIVATE GOVERNING

There is already too much federal control and land ownership by the federal government. It is to our best interest to have continued separate state managements and private enterprises that protects industry, business, and tourism controls self management by the people of the nation, rather than by the nation over the people! The industries presently in ownership of these lands, pay taxes and maintain said properties, permitting the public its total recreational advantages NOW . there is nothing MORE THE TAKING OVER BY THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT COULD GIVE US!

PROPOSED PARK SITE COULD MAKE ANOTHER STATE!

Did you know that the size of this park would equal the size of DELAWARE, RHODE ISLAND . .THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA? ? AND, DO YOU PERSONALLY KNOW OF ANY WEALTHY TOWN (YEAR AROUND) NEAR ANY NATIONAL PARK IN THE UNITED STATES? DID YOU KNOW we are being asked to allow the federal government to take over these lands, which must institute bureaus to maintain and control the activities of the entire park at whose cost of dollars? Surely the tourists that already visit these areas are already paying as they tour through the areas surrounding them. We are about to lose an industry! The Timber companies pay us a sizeable tax while harvesting our resources!

WHAT CAN YOU, THE READER DO ABOUT THIS? ?

'You can write or call . Congressmen, or, Wayne N. Aspinall, Chairman of Committees on Interior and Insular Affairs, House of Representatives, Washington, D.C., also to our own state Governor, Harold LeVander (who is in favor of this park, by the way). BUT HURRY UP. WE DOUBT that much good will come of our attempts and yours to be heard. . .But let's try! !

LAND BOOMS:

It is interesting to note the 'land booms' in property sales on other side of the International border in Canada. . .a mere 50 feet away from the proposed national park! While our property tax paying citizens must release their lands for this park! We have, indeed, become a nation of sheep.

OTHER SITES HAVE BEEN PROPOSED, MORE SUITABLE FOR A NATIONAL PARK

. Also: Call Roy Plankers, Minnesota Arrowhead Association, or Crane Lake Commercial Club; or write this column . .We will forward your letters to Congressmen, etc. and reprint the ones pertinent to this park issue. Itasca Park, .world famous headwaters of the great and mighty Mississippi! WHY NOT THIS AREA? Roy Plankers will soon be a guest author regarding this park issue, among other topics he wishes to inform you about. Watch this column for sparks! ! !

BASS FISHING DATE MOVED UP TO MAY 30th to take advantage of MEMORIAL WEEKEND! !

Comfortable cotton sleeping bags will be enjoyed by the whole family for camping or big houseparties. Styles come with water-repellent cotton covers and warm liners of cotton flannelette. The sleeping bags are treated to resist mildew, and are machine-washable.

Bemidji Captures Loop Track Title; LHS 3rd

by Bob Wielinski
Times Sports Writer

Three records fell in the running of the Northwest conference track meet held at Crookston on Tuesday. As predicted, Bemidji walked away with the conference title, while the defending champion Thief River Falls Prowlers finished a distant third and were nosed out of second place by Crookston.

In winning the conference title this season, Bemidji pulled nine first place wins and set all three new records. The Lumberjacks finished the day with 97 points. Crookston was second with 41 points, Prowlers third with 36 points, Roseau fourth with 28 points and East Grand Forks fifth with 27 points.

Records that fell during the meet were the mile and 880 yard runs and the 880 yard relay marks. Setting the new mile record that has been on the books since 1963 was Darwin Lussier, Bemidji, with a time of 4:36.2. The old record was held by Gary Lockner, Bemidji, with a time of 4:40.7. In the 880 yard run, Orv Lindstrom, Bemidji, bettered the existing mark by three tenths of a second, with a time of 2:04.4, the old record being 2:04.7 held by Jon Lindberg, Roseau, since 1967. The Bemidji 880 relay team knocked two seconds off the previous record held by the Lumberjack team of 1964. The new time is 1:34.0 while the old record was 1:36.0.

There were three double winners in the meet on Tuesday with Bemidji having two of them and Crookston the third. For the Lumberjacks, taking first places were Dave Decker in the 100 and 220 yard dashes and Tony Burke in the shot put and discus throw. Wayne Wagner, Crookston, won the high and low hurdles.

The Prowlers were unable to capture any first places in the meet, but finished second in the two relay events and in the high jump. The 880 relay team comprised of Rex Rugland, Jim Dee, Brian Boman and Richard Habedank, ran the event in a time of 1:35.5, a full second under the Lincoln high school mark which was set in 1964 and half a second under the old conference record. Coach Jim Sims indicated that this was the first time that the four had run the event together this year. Rugland, Dee, Randy Wentzel and Habedank also ran the mile relay which placed second behind Bemidji.

Darrold Rodahl finished second in the high jump behind Scott Habstritt, Roseau, who cleared the bar at five feet, eight inches.

Sims was real pleased with the young boys who have stuck with the track team this season, and noted some good efforts from all the boys. He pointed out three that he was really impressed with and they include Mark Kays, Dave Schindler and Randy Wentzel. Kays picked up a fourth place for the Prowlers in the shot put while Schindler and Wentzel finished third and fourth in the 440 with times of 54.9 and 55.0 seconds respectively.

Rugland was the top point-getter for the Prowlers in the meet as he finished fourth in the 100 yard dash; fourth in the long jump, going over 19 feet; fourth in the 220 yard dash; and running in both relay teams.

Others scoring points for the Prowlers were John Swick, fourth in the pole vault, Kays, fourth in the discus, Wayne Olson, fifth in the discus; Gary Kayser, fifth in the 880 yard run; Habedank, third in the 220 yard dash and Ralph Swick, fifth in the high jump.

Fishing Season Begins Saturday

Saturday is the day, for that's when the 1969 Minnesota fishing season begins.

Starting on Friday, maybe even Thursday for some of the fishing enthusiasts, will begin the yearly trip to their favorite opening weekend fishing hole. It may be Lake of the Woods, the Red Lake river, the Thief river or a pond somewhere, but nevertheless there will be fishermen from all over the state getting their lines wet right after the stroke of midnight on Friday.

Fishermen who don't like to fish in the dark, or in the moon light, will wait until the sun is up on Saturday morning before they try their luck. No matter how you look at it, wives of fishermen will be weekend widows for the rest of the summer and fall.

The summer fishing season will be in high gear on Saturday with the state-wide opening of angling for walleyes, northerns and muskellunge.

Most of the lakes in the state are reported to be ice free, according to the Minnesota state conservation department. Spawning of northerns, walleyes and muskellunge is expected to be completed by the opening date in all portions of the state.

Conservation department fisheries specialists said that in most lakes fish will not be concentrated in shallow waters on the spawning grounds but will be distributed throughout their normal summer habitat.

This could make it a little tougher for the anglers to catch fish, but will benefit the fish population by preventing any wholesale hooking of fish in vulnerable spawning ground areas.

Anglers are limited to taking three northerns and only one musky but may keep six walleyes. The stream and lake trout seasons are also open and there is a continuous season on salmon and panfish, so anglers should be able to find something to put on their stringers.

Bass may also be legally taken in northeastern Minnesota, north and east of highway 53, and in Ash and Pelican lakes in St. Louis counties. The bass season will open in the balance of the state on May 30.

Spawning conditions were generally good this spring for both walleyes and northerns, in contrast to last year when low water condition left many spawning sites dry.

It's all you really need....

AREA LAW ENFORCEMENT officers are attending school this week at the Thief River Falls area vocational technical school to learn new and improved methods of law enforcement. The device in the above picture measures the amount of alcohol in a person's body by simply having the person blow through the tube as demonstrated.

Jogging Gains Favor As Health Exercise

More and more Americans are throwing their hearts into jogging these balmy Spring days. Jog for your life, doctors say, and nearly five million gasping Americans—mostly middle-aged males—are doing just that as they pursue trim waistlines and longer lives in parks, offices, streets and even hotel corridors.

Jogging is running at a slow pace. As a physical fitness exercise, it is the total act of alternating slow running with walking. Medical authorities hold that exercises such as jogging, which help you take in more oxygen and cause your heart to pump more blood, are best for warding off heart attacks.

According to one heart specialist, "lack of exercise is one of the risk factors in heart ailments. Jogging is a mild form of exercise. If the jogger's heart is sound, regular jogging—within sensible limits—is likely to lengthen his life span."

Air Force Dr. Kenneth H. Cooper in his best-selling book "Aerobics", says running is the best exercise for increasing oxygen consumption and improving the cardiovascular and pulmonary systems. Noted heart specialist Dr. Paul Dudley White endorses all running sports because they force exertion and ease tension, and Dr. Warren R. Guild, of Boston, calls jogging "living insurance."

The President's council on physical fitness strongly approves of jogging and the American Heart Association says "we're all for it, so long as the jogger is examined by a physician and follows his advice on frequency and amount of exercise."

Jogging has other advantages as well. It's fun for one thing. Also, it helps you lose weight and contributes to a general feeling of well-being. Another plus is that almost anyone can jog anywhere. No special equipment or facilities are needed and it requires relatively little time. It does have pitfalls, however, especially for the beginner.

As a first step, the American Medical association recommends that you undergo a thorough physical examination. Once your doctor gives you the go-ahead, you should start by developing and practicing the proper technique. A basic rule asks that you stand straight when jogging. Keep your back as straight as naturally comfortable. Keep your head up, neither forward nor back of the body line. Elbows are bent slightly away from the body. Legs should move freely from the hips. The knees lift while the ankles remain relaxed. Land on the heel of the foot, rock forward and take off from the ball of the foot.

Wear comfortable clothing. Almost any casual outfit will do. Avoid rubberized or plastic clothes, however, since they cause sweating and high body heat. Shoes are important. They should be sturdy with rubber, crepe, ripple or neolite soles. Shoes especially made for track and long distance running are fine. Sneakers and tennis shoes should be of the heavy variety.

Start gradually. Jog no more than a quarter of a mile the first time out. Run until you're tired, walk, run a little more, walk, and so forth until you've covered the distance.

After your first run your calf muscles may be stiff for several days—a fairly common symptom even for competitive runners. When that happens a couple of aspirin tablets and a warm bath will soothe those aching muscles until you really hit your stride. Increase your distance gradually until you achieve a sensible regimen. For some, this may mean as much as two or three miles a day, three times a week.

Most of all, keep it up. A physical fitness program isn't much good unless you stay with it. And jogging is no exception. So put your heart into it. You'll live longer.

Is air conditioning a "necessity." More than two out of three people surveyed by pollster Lou Harris for Newsweek magazine said that it is.

Lumber Prices Only Part of Bldg. Cost Rise

Lumber prices, which rose spectacularly in 1968 and during the first three months of 1969, still account for only a small part of increased housing costs, according to Robert Thompson, University of Minnesota forester.

Increases in wood product prices occurred primarily during the past 18 months, while non-wood construction costs have risen over an 18-year period.

Lumber prices in 1968, for example, were up only 33.3 per cent over 1950, with softwood plywood down 17.5 per cent, while steel beams were up 48.4 per cent and carpenter labor up 89.2 per cent from 1950 levels. The price of building lots also has increased.

"Considering all construction factors, it is evident that increases in steel, labor, construction costs and land account for most of the increased housing costs during the past 18 years," Thompson says. "The lumber and plywood cost increases mainly occurred last year.

However, the current supply and demand situation in the wood products industry coupled with production factors is likely to result in continued increasing prices for wood products, Thompson says.

For example, in 1968 the consumption of lumber in the United States was approximately 43 billion board feet and it is projected that this will reach 45.5 billion by 1980. The demand for pulpwood is expected to be 2.8 times as high in 1985 as it was in 1965. And the billions of board feet used for construction account for only about two-thirds of total timber use.

Even if additional land is made available for timber harvesting, increasing demands for wood products will continue to put pressure on both timber resources and prices, Thompson says.

Currently there are five ways for the lumber industry to supply the predicted increased needs for lumber and plywood. These include curtailing exports and increasing imports, making more timber available from national forests (including the use of infected and damaged timber), fuller utilization of the tree and of mill waste, utilizing previously unused or little used species that are practical to use but not as preferred by the industry, and more efficient engineering and building practices with wood products.

For example, Thompson says there is still much mill waste which could be collected and used for fiber and chip products. Tree tops and timber left in the woods could be used also for the same purpose.

Using wood species which are currently under utilized could be of considerable benefit to Minnesota's forest industries. Minnesota, for example, could provide over twice the amount of forest products produced in 1960 and still sustain her forest resources. Some of these under utilized species include aspen, red pine, jack pine, spruce and balsam fir.

With about 6.5 million acres of recreational land, Wisconsin is also one of the wettest states in the nation. Anglers enjoy their sport on more than 5,100 named inland lakes, thousands of smaller waterways and on some 35,000 miles of fishable rivers.

The Badger State also is bordered by Lakes Michigan and Superior, where trout, salmon, perch and smallmouth bass supply brisk angling action.

A recent survey showed that more than a million licensed fishermen last year reeled in more than 80 million fish—from bluegills to northern pike and muskellunge. Many anglers consider the musky the northland's scrappiest gamefish. Last year, some 94,000 muskies were taken from these inland waters and the state expects to retain its title as the nation's top musky producer this season.

Summer Sessions At BSC to Mark 50th Anniversary

Two summer sessions scheduled for Bemidji state college this summer will mark the fiftieth year celebration for BSC and many graduate and undergraduate students will be on the campus participating in its summer program.

According to Dr. Richard E. Beitzel, vice-president for academic affairs, the first session will begin June 16 and will continue through July 18, while the second session is set for July 21 through August 22.

More courses will be offered than ever before in the summer program, Beitzel said. More than 30 workshops, all for academic credit, await the summer student. These are offered in almost every field of study, ranging from archeology to visual graphics instruction.

Why Not Jig to the Limit?

By Tom Andrews

Our rowboat slipped silently among sailboats and cabin cruisers lying peacefully at anchor. A burnt-orange sun made its last appearance as we tied up to a buoy. It dropped from a shred of cumulus to the treetops in only a few minutes, giving my partner and I just enough time to clip on the new "Lucky" Lujons we had been waiting to turn loose on the walleyes that made this bay productive.

Billy Cullerton was with me on this evening several years ago. Bill, a long-time companion on Louis Johnson Co.'s staff of fishing experts, had with him the first models of the Lujon, a jigging-type lure.

It had rained heavily, all day. Now, at sundown we were tossing our Lujons among boats at rest over a weedy anchorage that even some local anglers didn't know was the best spot on the lake.

Billy was first to hang a walleye, just moments before another gobbled my lure at boatside. We strung another nice pair of walleyes and a smallmouth before comparing notes.

The Lujon, a slim forged-brass lure with treble hooks in its heavy end, was just made for jigging. We were casting the nickel silver model into 10 to 20 ft. of water. Our rapid retrieves were accompanied with whipping action of the rod tips.

Both Bill and I were amazed at the speed with which the lure hit bottom. (Needless to say, it cast like a bullet in typical Johnson fashion.) And the fish hit almost immediately (though this isn't always true).

Satisfied that "Lucky" Lujon performed well in a cast-and-retrieve situation, and with dusk deep about us, we dropped our lures over the side. When they hit bottom, we retrieved 6 in. and flicked the rod tips.

For five minutes, it seemed the fish had deserted us. But that's how long it took those walleyes to spot the action!

Until we had each taken our limit, Billy and I did nothing but hook and net walleyes, releasing several that we'd look for the following year.

In the years since, Bill Cullerton and I have found "Lucky" Lujon a lure to trust in all parts of the world. Why not jig to the limit yourself?

Automobile accidents in 1968 injured more than 4,400,000 persons on America's highways. Driver error was responsible for more than 80 per cent of last year's highway casualties.

U of M Offers 2-Year Plan in General College

Vocational school or a general education? Ready earning power or a rich cultural background? The high school graduate who is faced with this dilemma may find a solution in the occupational programs offered through the University of Minnesota's general college, writes Judy Vick of the university's news service.

The occupational programs, offered in cooperation with Twin Cities area vocational schools and business firms, give the student an opportunity for a general education plus training for a specific job within a period of time that can be as brief as two years. In some of the programs, such as landscape horticulture, a student is assured of a part-time job while he is learning.

"In every case the programs are planned so that the student can continue to grow in this field," said Frank Benson, assistant dean in the general college. "They are not dead ends—they have both upward and lateral mobility."

"The student can either stop after two years and get a good, semi-professional job, or he can continue on in another college at the university.

"A man who enters our two-year law enforcement program, for example, if he qualifies, can continue his studies in the department of law enforcement science and criminal justice and earn a bachelor's degree or he can apply for a patrolman's job after two years here."

Administrators in the general college are continually developing new occupational programs to make more job opportunities available to more students with a wide variety of interests. Programs now offered include training in the fields of marketing, landscape horticulture, electronics, recreation and law enforcement. In addition students are prepared to be medical and legal secretaries, dental assistants and medical laboratory assistants.

Landscape horticulture is a two to three-year program offered in cooperation with the college of agriculture, forestry and home economics. The curriculum includes two on-the-job training periods, the first at the university's landscape arboretum and horticultural research center near Excelsior. During the second period students are placed with commercial nurseries, golf courses, parks or landscape maintenance services in the area.

Electronics training is offered in cooperation with the Northwestern institute of electronics in Minneapolis and can result in a student earning a master's certificate in electronics and an associate in arts degree within a two-year period.

Law enforcement combines a police-training academy and general education. The program is open to police officers and those who are eligible for positions in the Minneapolis or suburban police departments.

Marketing includes general education and business internship for students planning careers as sales managers, salesmen, marketing research specialists, traffic managers, banking and finance representatives, accountants, or motel, hotel or resort managers.

Specific information on these programs and inquiries about proposed programs should be directed to the Student Personnel Division, General College, 10 Nicholson hall, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minn. 55455.

WET WEATHER materials used by servicemen for worship in Vietnam are given a test in the above photo. Mrs. Tom Fuller and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Roger Fuller, check the waterproof cards used by Lt. Roger Fuller and other servicemen in Vietnam. The plasticized cards contain hymns, prayers and orders of service and can be wiped dry after being used in the rain. Materials were used at St. John church where a special offering was received Sunday. Rev. Paul Biegner, pastor of the church, holds the Roger Fullers' son.

Wheat and Feed Grain Programs Prove Popular

A substantial signup in the wheat and feed grain programs of the U.S. department of agriculture in Minnesota was reported by Chairman Selvin Erickson of the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee.

Final returns on the 1969 wheat program show that 40,743 farms with an effective allotment of 809,165 acres will participate. Intended diversion amounts to 205,845 acres.

In the feed grain program, covering barley, corn and grain sorghums, 101,370 farms with an effective base of 7,380,225 acres will participate. Total intended diversion will amount to 3,175,025 acres, the chairman reported.

Across the nation, most producers of wheat and feed grain are showing a high level of program participation, the chairman said.

Final signup on wheat, nationally, shows 981,155 farms with 45,722,428 acres of allotments, or 88.7 per cent of the total national allotment. This is a record number of farms—139,019 more than in 1968—and is also a record percentage of national allotment on signed farms—88.7 per cent as compared to 85.4 per cent in 1968.

In the feed grain program, 1,661,770 farms have been enrolled, which is 161,411 more farms than in 1968. Total diversion of 41,342,442 acres is planned on farms with feed grain bases totaling 94,005,566 acres. Base acreage on signed farms totals seven million more acres than the previous record of 87 million in 1965. Total intended diversion is nearly five million acres greater than the 1965 record of 36.7 million and seven million acres greater than the 1968 figure.

The residential central air-conditioning "certification" program of the Air-Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute now covers more than 90 per cent of this kind of air-conditioning equipment. Certified equipment displays the blue-and-white ARI Seal.

Miller Retires As RLF Barber

Wallace (Pete) Miller, barber in Red Lake Falls for most of the past 46 years retired recently.

While still in high school in 1923, he entered the profession with his father, Joe Miller, who had already been operating the Miller Barber shop for many years in the First State bank building.

The Millers are life-long residents of that city and have two children, Marilyn and James. His business was sold to Robert Schafer, son of Frank Schafer of rural Red Lake Falls. Miller will continue to do some barbering.

Senator Mondale Cites Park and Pollution Bills

Two Minnesota dreams—a national park on the Kabetogama peninsula and a start on cleaning up Minnesota's thousands of lakes—moved a step nearer reality recently in Washington, D.C., according to Sen. Walter F. Mondale.

Identical bills to establish a 219,850-acre Voyageurs national park were introduced by Senator McCarthy and Sen. Mondale in the Senate and Representative John Blatnik and the entire Minnesota Congressional delegation in the House. An anti-pollution bill also passed the House, indicating that 1969 is the year in which a start will be made in basic research to discover the causes and cure of fresh-water lake pollution.

"The proposed park, 139,550 acres of land and 80,300 acres of water, is a long-cherished dream of Minnesota conservationists," Sen. Mondale said. "Within easy driving distance of most of the great Midwestern population centers, the new park will be both a valuable addition to the state's economy and a badly-needed source of outdoor recreation for families throughout the area.

"It is a paradox that, while most of the national forests and parks lie in and west of the Rockies, most of the people live east of the Continental divide. Voyageurs will be an exception to this rule and a magnet for millions of recreation-starved families," the Senator added.

The Clean Lakes amendment will provide concerted, basic and applied research into what causes lakes to die. Scientific name for the death of a lake is "eutrophication", a process in which silt makes a lake shallower; runoff of sewage, fertilizer and other chemicals "enriches" the lake; algae is stimulated, grows and drops to the bottom to putrefy. Finally, free oxygen in the lake is depleted, rotting vegetation produces hydrogen sulfide, and the lake becomes toxic and unfit for man's enjoyment or use.

How this process can be revised, exactly what happens at each stage, the intricate interaction of lake ecology are questions without answers now.

Providing these answers is the purpose of the clean lakes amendment to the water pollution control act.

SS Recipients Must Notify If Back to Work

Anyone under 65 who is disabled and getting social security disability benefits must notify his social security office if he returns to work, according to Clifford Kittelson, district manager.

The social security act encourages a person to return to work by giving him a trial work period. He continues to get his social security checks during this trial work period. A beneficiary may have a trial work period of as many as nine months unless he is declared medically recovered. His case is examined at the end of the trial work period to determine if benefits should stop or continue.

Even though a beneficiary may be entitled to a trial work period, he should nevertheless report to his social security office as soon as he tries to do some gainful work.

Whatever happened to those people who used to feel that air-conditioning created an "artificial" climate that was somehow supposed to be unhealthy? Some of them undoubtedly are still around, but their concern should be put to rest. The Journal of the American Medical Association has said that "reasonable artificial air conditioning" is "more nearly normal than those conditions imposed by the extremes of summer."

Trees Arrive for Farm Planting

Trees for 1969 windbreak plantings arrived here last week, according to Bob Kloubec, district conservationist with the Pennington Soil Conservation district. The tree planting crew started planting last week. The first day's plantings included field windbreaks on Harlan Pester and Harry Swenson farms in western Pennington county.

There are 24 farmers who will have their trees planted by the district tree planter. Harold South and Elmer Johnson of Goodridge are running the tree planter this year. Most of the trees are sprayed for weed control the same day they are planted.

CHILDREN CAN REJECT VIOLENCE

Are children today really victims of society? Do many of them simply reflect the violence, anger, and frustration they see on television or witness in the home?

Not necessarily. Thousands of families are finding that children can just as easily reflect the love, peace, and satisfaction of their creator, God . . . if given the chance.

How? Listen this Sunday to a program entitled "Helping Children to Reject Violence."

It is part of the Christian Science Radio Series heard on many radio stations.

Are people your problem?

Is the world becoming too crowded for you? Almost wherever you go today, you find people. This sometimes results in problems — for you as well as for others. What's the solution?

It's certainly not avoiding people — even if you could. But you can avoid having problems with them! The key to solving people-to-people problems is understanding what people really are. The Bible reveals man as having a spiritual nature. How this can help you in your relations with others will be discussed by Thomas O. Poyser, C.S., a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship. His lecture is entitled "Are People Your Problem?"

Come and bring your neighbor. Admission is free.

He marvels at the majesty of the clouds and the vastness of the sky. He thrills at the reflections cast upon the water by the rainbow palette of the setting sun. He is awed, humbled—yet, at the same time, fiercely proud.

His feelings contradict each other. For he knows he is a small creature dwarfed by the overpowering glory of nature, yet, at the same time, a man—a man created in the image of God.

Of course, we all need to be humble, but we also need to be proud. In one sense we are insignificant, and in another we are all-important. The problem lies in finding the proper balance between the two.

To understand the whole man—the all of you, you must turn to His Church where God is forever revealing the mysteries of His universe. Here we are taught truths that have endured throughout the ages. Here we must come if we are to find the proper balance in life.

"The truest kinship with humanity would lie in doing as humanity has always done, accepting with sportsmanlike relish the estate to which we are called, the star of our happiness, and the fortunes of the land of our birth." —G. K. Chesterton

It's Your Choice

In five hours on Tuesday—from 4 to 9 p.m.—election will be held of two school board members to serve three-year terms on the Thief River Falls board of education. They will comprise two-sevenths of a board which will, during their tenure, expend eight to 10 million dollars in attempts to provide the best possible education for this district's children.

Service on this board—and election of people to this service—are tasks not to be taken lightly. The position is important and the residents of the district should give proper consideration to that importance. By all means they should vote in the school election for the people they believe best qualified to conduct the district's affairs.

This year there is competition for the two positions open on the board. Maynard Wedul has filed for reelection to the board. Also seeking election are Mrs. Dennis Rodin and Kenneth Murphy. The mere fact that there seems to be a choice to be made may encourage a better turnout of voters. General public interest in the school situation—an interest which has remained high due to unresolved differences—may also contribute to a more spirited election.

One need look back only to 1968 for an example of voter apathy. There were three posts open last year with the terms of Dr. George Martin, Mervin Prestebak and D. H. Stewart expiring. All filed for reelection. Only 140 voters went to the polls to cast their ballots. Dr. Martin received 138 votes and Prestebak received 131. Stewart became a victim.

An organized write-in campaign capitalized on the poor voter turn-out. Charles R. Samuelson received 79 write-in votes while Stewart received only 49 as an announced candidate. The write-in voters, in voting for three candidates, not only planned their write-in but also planned whose name to delete. Stewart became the fall guy.

The write-in campaign was entirely legal and entirely successful. To his credit, Charlie Samuelson has been a cooperative and apparently sincere board member. He has caused no friction—as some feared would result because of the election tactics—and has stirred no controversy. Nothing was harmed by the write-in vote to any permanent degree.

That is not to say that permanent damage could not happen, however. This is another year and another election. Had the write-in group desired last year, it could have placed three members on the board instead of only one! If the public is apathetic this year, two write-in candidates could well win election. This is especially true with the vote split among three candidates who have filed.

As yet, we are undecided between the two new candidates. We will support Maynard Wedul's candidacy on the basis of our observance at school board meetings the past few months. He is interested, inquiring and reasonable—all desirable traits.

And we support him for another reason, which perhaps can be termed as keeping faith. Rural representation has been observed on the board since early days of district consolidation. There is no provision in the law for area representation on the board of education. All members are elected at large and persons from any area of the district may file for any election.

While there is no geographical requirement, however, there has been an understanding that rural areas be represented. When rural members have resigned, they have been replaced with other rural members by board appointment. We feel that this is proper and that rural representation should be continued. There is no reason to believe the practice should be changed.

Next Tuesday will be an important day in the Thief River Falls school district, and every resident should take a personal interest and fulfill a personal commitment by going to the polls. We would be disappointed if there are not at least 1,000 votes cast—but it's your choice.

Employee to Boss: "I'm not saying that my salary is small, but my neighbor cashes my paycheck for me and he's on welfare."

Healthy Circulation

From the Lake City Graphic comes this editorial comment:

Someone is always searching for new sources of tax dollars, and it is frequently suggested that there should be higher taxes on luxuries. Targets may be boats, modes of travel, cigarettes, liquor, entertainment, jewelry. . .or usually whatever the advocate does not himself wish to purchase.

Just what is a luxury? To one it may be boats, to another guns. One individual loves music and books, another is hooked on athletic events. Nobody wants a tax on these so long as he's interested in them.

There appear to be two schools of thought-one advises a long vacation come what may, the other sternly suggests a fat savings account.

What a depression we might have if people only purchased the absolute necessities of life and saved every extra dollar.

Fortunately there are many who have the means of keeping money in circulation and others who have the goods to satisfy their demands. It's well to remember that when one stops advertising, someone stops buying. When someone stops buying, someone stops selling. When someone stops selling, someone else stops making. When someone stops making, someone stops earning. When someone stops earning, someone stops buying.

If the blood in our veins stood still, we wouldn't last very long. It's a good deal the same with money—you have to keep it circulating to keep the economy healthy.

Fortunately the craving for luxuries results in jobs for many people. And when many people have work, the whole economy gets a shot in the arm because they develop tastes for luxuries, too.

All this may sound like a vicious circle, but actually it's just good healthy circulation.

No Farmers Wanted?

The following editorial appeared in the Murray County Herald at Slayton:

The omnipotent Minneapolis Star, continuing its editorial policy of being frequently in error but never in doubt, Saturday termed "ridiculous" a proposal before the state legislature which would require that one of the seven members of the state Pollution Control Agency be experienced in agriculture.

Going even further, the Star says: "Whatever the reason, it's a preposterous approach. It would make just as much sense to require the appointment to the agency of the president of a meat-packing company of power firm or the manager of a municipal sewage treatment plant."

If anything is "preposterous" it is the approach of the Star. What's wrong with requiring the services of a farmer on the PCA board? About a third of the population of Minnesota is rurally oriented. All of these people of rural Minnesota—whether they are farmers, lawyers, publishers, doctors or druggists—are "experienced in agriculture." What's wrong with the idea that a third of the state's population be on the PCA?

Perhaps there is a valid objection to prescribing the occupations of any individual that will serve on the PCA or on any other state agency. But the Star completely misses the point in objecting to the possibility that a farmer be assured at least one seat on the seven-man board.

The Star editorial leads us to believe that they feel there are very few capable and qualified people living down on the farm. We would like to assure their editorial staff that a large number of Minnesota's farmers today hold college degrees and are extremely capable and qualified people. Many of them could do much better financially than they do on the farm or in business in rural Minnesota, but they choose to make the sacrifice and stay where they are for love of the land, the independance it brings and the healthy atmosphere it provides in which to bring up a family.

So what's wrong with a farmer—on the PCA or anyplace else?

School Board Elections Being Held on Tuesday

Kenneth Murphy

Maynard Wedul

Mrs. Dennis Rodin

Voters in all area school districts will go to the polls tomorrow (Tuesday) to elect school board members. In some area districts, spirited elections are expected to take place, however, in most area districts, the voting likely will be quite light.

Thief River Falls school district 564 will open its polls at 4 p.m. and close at 9 p.m. Votes will be cast in the Lincoln high school cafeteria.

Election of two members of the school board for three-year terms to succeed Dr. H. R. Achenbach and Maynard T. Wedul will take place. Filing for election to the board are Mrs. Margaret Rodin, Kenneth D. Murphy and incumbent Maynard T. Wedul.

Following is a summary of other area school board elections:

Marshall County Central school district 441: Votes may be cast from 2 to 9:30 p.m. at the school cafeterias at Newfolden, Holt and Viking, for five school board members. Filings have been made for three-year terms by Halward Anderson, Lester Elseth, Roy Holmstrom and Lowell Lindemoen. Duane Kronn and Walter Steinhauer have filed for one-year unexpired terms. Two members will be elected for one-year terms.

Middle River school district 440: School district 440 will hold its election at the Middle River school library with polls open from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. The terms of Milton Lundquist and Arne Tuura expire.

Gatzke school district 438: Gatzke will hold its annual school board election in the Gatzke school gym between 7 and 9 p.m. Terms of Leo Orpen and Arthur Peterson expire.

St. Hilaire school district 562: Annual election at St. Hilaire will be held at the school building from 7 to 9 p.m. Harry Sjulson and Kenneth Schroeder have filed to succeed themselves on the board.

Goodridge school district 561: Polls will be open from 8 to 10 p.m. for district 561 voters in the agricultural classroom in the Goodridge high school. Two members of the school board will be elected for three years and one member will be elected for a term of two years. Olin Hanson and Truman Hemmestvedt have filed for the three-year terms and Chester Solberg has filed for the two-year term.

Oklee school district: Dr. H. T. Lindquist is a candidate to succeed himself and Robert Bluemke is a candidate to succeed Larry O'Neill, who did not file for re-election. Voting will be

TRF Adjustment Panel Files Separate Findings

Separate findings from each of the three members of the Thief River Falls adjustment panel were filed Friday with the negotiating council for local teachers, the board of education of School District 564 and the Minnesota commissioner of education. Findings in the three reports indicate a wide difference of opinion regarding the panelists' views toward a proper settlement of the Thief River Falls teacher salary situation.

Kenneth S. Nelson of Warren, appointed third member of the adjustment panel by the district court, cited five points regarding the panel meetings and made a recommendation to the commissioner of education. That suggestion was that the commissioner's office set up a committee to study salary negotiations at the state level since prolonged salary negotiating periods "...disrupt the whole educational process for two to four months each year."

Nelson expressed the opinion that there had not been enough communication between the administration and the teachers to prepare them properly for the proposed 12-month system, and that the teachers were confused about the program and unsure and fearful about their future as a result. "Had the proper employee-employer relationship existed," he said, "this confused condition would not exist and the climate for negotiations would have been a healthy one."

He said he though the 12-month system was too drastic in one giant step and suggested phasing out the nine-month system over a three-year period—going to 10 months in 1969-70, 11 months in 1970-71 and the full year in 1971-72.

He said he felt the pay schedule for a 12-month system must certainly be based on an existing nine-month school, and presented a suggested formula for the additional months under his proposed four-year transitional period.

To determine a base, he suggested selecting the salary schedule from 10 schools in similar geographic location and economic background and using the average as a base.

Joe Forberg, representing the teachers' council on the panel, set forth the teachers' position in his report. He summarized five points which made negotiations difficult and which resulted from setting of the 1969-1970 school calendar.

He said the calendar: (1) placed the entire faculty on a 12-month schedule; (2) granted beginning teachers a two-weeks annual vacation and experienced teachers a three-weeks annual vacation; (3) required each teacher to be in school eight working hours per day; (4) abolished pay for extra-curricular supervision and substituted compensatory time off during summer months; and (5) required pupil attendance for a 38-week period.

He recommended that the school board solicit the assistance of the faculty in planning and implementing a longer school year; that the board move more gradually toward a 12-month schedule; that the faculty be presented with contract options for the length of the school year; that the nine-month term for 1969-1970 have annual salaries of $8,600 minimum and $9,800 maximum for BA degree and $7,100 to

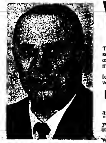
SPORTSMEN TO MEET

Pennington county sportsmen club will hold its regular monthly meeting in the basement of the Thief River Falls city auditorium on Wednesday beginning at 7:30 p.m. Movies will be shown and lunch will be served.



Charles Elected Head of Junior College Ass'n.

Other officers elected for the 1969-70 term were: Vern Opsal, president of Golden Valley junior college, vice president; and W. Donald Olsen, president of Worthington state junior college, secretary-treasurer.

The association meets one day previous to the biennial meeting of the association of Minnesota colleges, which was held on the Southwestern state college campus in Marshall.

TOTALLY RAZED by fire Wednesday afternoon was this 32x60 barn on the Richard vanderHagen farm located six miles east and one mile north of Thief River Falls. Fanned by an extremely strong south wind, the flames leveled the structure in a matter of minutes after being discovered. The farm is located outside the fire protection area afforded from Thief River Falls, but the barn burned so fast that it could not have been saved. Pump house and pump (block building at upper left of bottom photo) were destroyed, hay and straw bales burned and six ewes lost in the fire which also damaged the smaller wood building north of the barn. Cause of the fire was not known. Loss of more than $1,000 in personal equipment and expenditure of $350 to restore the water supply were mentioned by vanderHagen in addition to loss of the barn itself. The building was of the high, hip-roof type, and had been used for lambing of vanderHagen's flock of 200 ewes.

Candidates Reveal Views, Backgrounds

Three candidates are seeking election to the Thief River Falls board of education in the annual school election Tuesday. Two have no prior service on the board and the third has been an appointive member for less than a year.

Interest in school affairs has been high in the last few months, and it is expected that the number of votes cast in Tuesday's balloting will be large.

Before marking their ballots at the polls, voters should be familiar with the candidates.

To assist the voters in obtaining this information, the Times has requested each of the candidates who has filed to prepare an informational summary for publication. Their personal statements to the voters, in their own words, are as follows:

Kenneth Murphy

The most common questions asked of me as a candidate are, "Who are you?, and "What are your reasons for running for the school board?"

I am 37 years old. My wife, Wanda, and I have two boys, Kim, 10 years, a sophomore at Lincoln, and Kevin, eight years, in the second grade at Washington.

I have been employed by Northwestern Bell Telephone company for 15 years. Prior to this, I served four years in the Air Force.

I am an American Legion member. My main outside activity is Boy Scouts. In the past [illegible] years, I have been both Cub and Scout Master. Kevin is a Cub Scout. Kim, an Explorer Scout, recently achieved his God and Country award. Our family is active in church work.

Our hobbies include gardening, woodworking, hunting, fishing and camping trips. I have attended Northland state junior college night courses in art for three quarters.

It takes more than living in Thief River Falls, paying taxes and sending your children to church and school to be a part of this town. When I filed for the school board, it wasn't because I had an axe to grind or a banner to wave. I simply desire the opportunity to serve our community to the best of my ability as a member of the school board.

If elected, I will assume this position with an open mind. My main concern is the education of our children. They deserve the best possible education that this community can afford.

I didn't arrive at this decision lightly. The position of a board member carries with it a great deal of responsibility, both to the school district and members of the teaching staff.

I realize, if elected, there will be a lot to learn, and it will take some time before I have a full knowledge of my position and responsibilities. I have always made it a point to get as much information and keep as well informed as possible.

Perhaps this in a small way has answered some of your questions on who I am and why I have filed.

Maynard Wedul

In selecting a member to represent them on the board of education, school district 564 voters should be familiar with the candidates. I offer the following qualifications for the public to consider before going to the polls Tuesday to cast their vote.

First of all, I have two children of my own in school and am very interested in seeing that they get a quality education. Because we live in the rural area, I am also interested in seeing that they have good dependable transportation to get there.

My college education is also in the field of education. Although many of the methods and concepts of education have changed since I was in school, I feel this background can still help me make decisions when confronted with some of the changes taking place.

For the past 10 years I have been in business for myself. This, I feel, gives me a good basic understanding of economics. I am very much aware of the problems confronting the taxpayer. I do believe, however, that we can still have a quality educational system in our district at a price our taxpayers can tolerate and also one that should be acceptable to the educational staff.

Although I am the most junior member of our board of education, these past nine months have been most informative. What experience I do have on the board can be very beneficial in helping to solve the problems confronting us at the present time.

Mrs. Rodin

Children are a very precious group of people. If you are a parent, you feel that your child (or your children) are surely the most precious people ever. For these most precious people, you certainly want only the best. This community has much of "the best" to offer, not only to its children but to all of us.

One of the attributes of Thief River Falls is its schools and their high standards of education. Events involving our schools these past months have caused real concern among many people here. Being a citizen and a parent, I, too, have been concerned. I've listened, I've read, I've listened and talked, I've listened and read some more, and I finally decided that it was my obligation as an interested citizen and as a parent to place my name in consideration for a seat on the local school board.

Frankly, I'm not sure that I'm qualified to be a part of a group of such important decision-makers. First of all, because I'm a woman. But then, why not a woman on a school board? Many communities have placed a woman in this position. Perhaps we need some feminine reasoning on our board. Then, too, I know that it's a tremendous responsibility, an obvious challenge, and would require a person to be able to do a great amount of objective, practical and rational thinking.

It's a bit embarrassing to write about oneself—but in this instance a bit of "me-talk" seems necessary. It might help to know that I have been an elementary teacher, so I feel I can and do understand the problems from the teachers' point of view. Currently, not being actively involved in the teaching profession, but being a taxpaying citizen (yes, taxpaying! the only tax we as a clergy family don't get to pay is the real estate tax!) I can look at the situation and feel the frustrations from this "side of the fence," too.

I am especially concerned that the good quality of education, which Thief River Falls children have received, be continued. It seems to me that keeping an eye to the future (combining progress with common sense and practicality) but still maintaining at least a slight hold on the tried and proven traditions of the "past", would give us a good balance in our educational structure.

I realize that the issues we now face locally are many and complex, and I do feel that neither one point of view nor the other is totally free of error, but it seems to me that a sober, reasonable, level-headed, give and take exchange is needed from all involved.

Jaycees Sponsor Safety Check Thursday, Friday

Thief River Falls Jaycees will conduct their annual 10-point motor vehicle safety check on Thursday and Friday, according to Larry McDowell, project chairman. The check is held by the local Jaycees each year prior to the Memorial day holiday.

This year the check will be held from 6 to 9 p.m. both days on First street between Main and Knight avenues. Checked will be brakes, front and rear lights, turn signals, steering, tires, exhaust system, glass, windshield wipers and washers, rearview mirrors and horn.

The safety check is voluntary, McDowell said, and is designed to make driver aware of any safety flaws in their automobiles so that corrections may be made. "Driving is hazardous enough," the chairman said, "without adding to the problems by having an unsafe vehicle."

Doc Evans and Fred Waring on Concert Series

Four concerts for the 1969-70 series of the Thief River Falls Concert association have been contracted with Allied Concert services.

Presenting concerts will be Fred Waring and the Pennsylvanians, Doc Evans and his Dixieland band, pianist Margaret Barthel and a men's octet known as the Cormen.

Debra Jean Anderson and Dennis Klopp Speak Vows

Baskets of white gladioli, yellow mums and lighted candelabra provided the setting at the Karlstad Baptist church on Saturday, April 19, at 7 p.m., for the candlelight wedding of Debra Jean Anderson and Dennis Ernest Klopp.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis R. Anderson of rural Karlstad. She is a 1968 graduate of Karlstad high school and was attending Northland Junior college in this city. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Klopp of rural Argyle. He also attended Northland Junior college and Moorhead State college. He is now employed by Arctic Enterprises, Inc.

Rev. Milton Olsen officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Avis Netterlund presided at the organ, playing the traditional processional and recessional. She also accompanied Dennis Fish who sang, "The Wedding Prayer", preceding the ceremony, and "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt at the altar. Following the benediction, Rev. and Mrs. Milton Olsen sang, "Savior-Like a Shepherd Lead Them."

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents. She was attired in a silk organza over-taffeta floor-length gown featuring a hooped skirt and a long flowing train. The fitted bodice was styled with a rounded neckline and long sleeves that tapered to a point over the wrists. Seed pearls enhanced the bodice and a large bow graced the back. A pearl tipped petal headpiece held her veil of silk illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of white baby mums centered by a large mum tipped with green. The traditional "old, new, borrowed and blue theme" was carried out in her attire.

Miss Carol Netterlund, a close friend of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Marjorie Anderson and Karen Klopp, sisters of the bride and groom, respectively. They were attired in spring green empire fashioned gowns designed with bell sleeves trimmed with daisies. Their green nylon tulle headpieces were held by a looped bow and each carried a long stemmed yellow chrysanthemum with green foliage and tied with white and green satin ribbons.

Attired in a white gown, fashioned like the attendants' gowns, was Rochelle Roseland, a niece of the groom, who served as flower girl. She carried a basket of white and yellow flowers. She and the attendants wore gold and pearl pendants, gifts from the bride.

Attending the groom as best man was Ronald Anderson, a brother of the bride. Groomsmen were Gale Anderson and Norman Baagas, cousins of the groom. Darin Renz, a nephew of the groom, was the ringbearer. Serving as ushers were Dawayne Nelson, cousin of the bride and Dwight Johnson. Daniel Anderson, brother of the bride, and David Anderson, a cousin, served as gift bearers. The men of the wedding party wore dark business suits with a white boutonniere. Their silver tie clasps were gifts from the groom.

Following the ceremony, a reception was given in the church parlors by the parents of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Reynold Olson, aunt and uncle of the bride, served as host and hostess.

The church parlors were decorated in green and white, the bride's chosen colors. White wedding bells accented the green and white streamers.

Centering the serving table was a four-tiered wedding cake, trimmed with white and yellow roses and topped with a basket filled with carnations. Mrs. Sanford Baagas, an aunt of the groom, baked and decorated the cake. Cutting and serving it were Mrs. Gilbert Sampel, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. John Roseland, sister of the groom. Miss Myrtle Baagas and Mrs. Raymond Gartie, aunts of the bride and groom, respectively, poured.

Miss LaVonne Anderson, cousin of the groom, and Priscilla Erickson, friend of the bride, ladled the lime green punch as LaDonna Anderson, a classmate of the bride, registered the guests. The groom's cake was distributed by Rebecca Anderson, a sister of the bride, from a basket trimmed with green net and white satin ribbons.

Waitresses were Shirley Johnson, friend of the bride, Yvonne Gerrard, cousin of the bride, and Patricia Klopp, sister of the groom. They wore white and green net aprons, gifts from the bride. Opening and displaying the gifts were Nancy Netterlund and Teri Fish, friends of the bride. All wore yellow or green corsages.

Mrs. Leslie Andersen was in charge of serving the reception. She was assisted by Mrs. Paul Fish, Mrs. Leonard Verr, Mrs. Leslie Wikstrom, Mrs. Mendell Erickson and Mrs. Sheldon Frel. They wore green and white net aprons, gifts from the bride.

For her going away attire, the bride wore a green shift dress with white accessories and the larger mum corsage from her bridal bouquet.

Following the wedding rehearsal, the evening preceding the wedding, the parents of the groom hosted a luncheon in the church dining room.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the Kitchen of

Mrs. Clyde Christensen
rural Thief River Falls

Mothers who have youngsters in the family who enjoy cooking have one common complaint—most recipes are too complicated for the inexperienced cooks. Another complaint is that if the method is simplified, it seems that the recipe is suited for a small family.

Today's recipe for a rhubarb dessert, is not only simple enough for children to make, but also makes a large quantity. We are thankful to Mrs. Clyde Christensen for sharing her recipe with the readers of Kitchen Karnival.

Rhubarb Crumble

6 cups rhubarb, cut fine
2 eggs
6 tablespoons flour
2 cups sugar

Method: Combine sugar and flour. Add eggs and mix well with the rhubarb. Pour into a 9 x 13 x 2 inch pan. Cover with topping.

Topping

Two-third cup brown sugar
½ cup butter
1½ cups flour

Method: Combine sugar and flour, add butter, and mix until crumbly. Sprinkle over rhubarb and bake in a 350 degree oven until brown and rhubarb bubbles, about 25 to 30 minutes.

Serve either warm or cold, topped with whipped cream or ice cream.

Mrs. Christensen's interests are sewing, baking and cooking for her family. She is a member of the Silverton homemakers club and program chairman of the Women's Missionary Federation of the Evangelical Free church, where the family attends services.

The family lives on a farm five miles east of Thief River Falls. In addition to grain farming and keeping bees, Mr. Christensen is a member of the board of directors at Northern State bank, is on the board of trustees at Northwestern hospital and serves as Sunday school superintendent at the Evangelical Free church.

The Christensens have four children. The boys are all in school. Curtis and Kenton attend school at Franklin junior high school and Keith at Washington. Their daughter, two-year-old Valerie, is at home.

Panel Members File Separate Finding Reports

$11,000 for MA degree; that salaries of individuals in excess of nine months be paid in accordance with existing practices of the district (annual salary divided by nine equals one-month salary); that extra-curricular salaries be increased in proportion to the increase in salary schedule; that a single coverage hospitalization plan be provided for all faculty members; and that the practice of awarding faculty members for securing additional education be continued while the practice of penalizing faculty members for not returning to school be discontinued.

C. L. Charlson, chief negotiator for the board of education and its representative on the panel, set forth his findings with the economic condition of the district as a main point. He said that two substantial barriers to settlement during negotiations have been compensation for the 12-month schedule and the maximum salary payable to a teacher in the BA lane with less than 30 hours of credit.

He noted that Crookston has set a salary ranging from $6,400 to $10,100 in the BA lane and $7,100 to $11,200 in the MA lane for a nine-month schedule. Crookston has an assessed valuation of $8,274,096 or $55,530 per teacher while Thief River Falls has an assessed valuation of $4,551,000 or $28,500 per teacher.

"The effort made by the Thief River Falls district in education has been substantial in the past," he said. "They have raised $330 per pupil as compared with an average of only $236 per pupil" for schools of our wealth in Minnesota and six neighboring states. Levy for school purposes in Thief River Falls is the highest in the entire area with the exception of Red Lake Falls, he said.

Charlson suggested that the board consider a nine-month term for the coming year, since "the teachers council is asking for a large increase in salary on a nine month basis, and to add the increase for the additional time in a 12-month schedule makes the cost overwhelming."

He added that while the district should properly compensate its teachers, it cannot forget its responsibilities to persons on fixed incomes and farms whose income has been depressed for a number of years. He noted that teachers' salaries increased $1,250 last year in the maximum step of the BA lane, and to increase the levy to the same extent would inflict another heavy burden on an already overburdened district.

In reviewing contract offerings, he again noted that salaries for a nine-month contract "... have never been considered or computed on a nine month basis, but have been equalized toward a 12 month or annual basis."

11 from TRF Attend Development Meeting

More than 150 community leaders from northern and northwestern Minnesota heard and discussed problems of community and regional development at a workshop Friday at Bemidji state college. Among them were 11 from Thief River Falls.

The workshop was sponsored jointly by BSC and the University of Minnesota cooperative extension service with leaders attending from Beltrami, Cass, Clearwater, Hubbard, Itasca, Kittson, Koochiching, Lake of the Woods, Mahnomen, Marshall, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau counties.

Attending from Thief River Falls were Mayor A. E. Jacobson, Victor Charles, Arnt Aune, Lloyd M. Johnson, Dr. George Martin, J. J. Womack, Justus Larson, Terry Courneya and Merle Smith. Charles, Courneya and Smith served as recorders for the group discussions and reported to the general session later in the day.

Principal speakers were John S. Hoyt Jr., associate professor and extension economist of the U. of M.; John S. Glas, vice president for administrative affairs, BSC; Lt. Gov. James B. Goetz; David M. Nelson, research associate, U. of M.; Gene Ramsey, professor of sociology, U. of M. and Stanley Wagner, vice chancellor for curriculum development of the Minnesota State College Board. Presiding at the morning session was R. C. Nelson, president of the Northwestern state bank, Hallock and presiding at the afternoon session was Marvin Cambell, president of the First national bank of Crookston.

Nelson pointed out that communities are going to have to work together on a regional basis in order to provide adequate services and resources and to attract industry.

He pointed out that regional planning could halt the declining population and economic trends of northern Minnesota and he said that many of the communities on the fringe areas of the regional centers would benefit by being residential and service centers to the regional center.

"It is only by working together that communities will be able to provide the resources that industry seeks in an area," Nelson said. "There is tremendous need in these communities for research and development into the types of capital investment that will be most productive in employing the available natural and human resources of an area."

Hoyt described the "rationale of regionalism" and said that in order to provide a directed and concerted effort toward solving problems on a regional basis the state planning commission has set up 11 economic regions in the state.

These regions include counties that have similar characteristics and problems with some counties being called core counties and others being called transitional counties. The transitional counties, under Executive Order No. 37 of Minnesota, will have one year to decide which economic region they best fit.

Ramsey discussed the social structure of communities, saying that before anyone wishes to start a new program in a community he and his group must understand the power structure of that community.

Lt. Gov. Goetz congratulated the group for the interest taken in their communities by attending this workshop and told them that only through the concentrated effort of people like them could the economy of the region survive.

During the afternoon the participants divided into groups and discussed the morning's program. Each group reported back to the main session and the workshop was summarized by LaVern A. Freeh, assistant director of the agricultural extension service, head office of special programs.

MiSCCA Thanks FFA for Help In Camp Program

State FFA convention held on the St. Paul campus, University of Minnesota, was the setting for 13 FFA chapters to receive recognition for outstanding service to the physically handicapped of Minnesota. Awards were presented to each chapter by W. B. Schoenbohm, executive director of the Minnesota Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc. (MiSCCA).

Traditionally Minnesota Future Farmers have been conducting corn drives for Camp Courage as part of their "Living to Serve" project since 1953. Camp Courage, located at Maple Lake, is owned and operated by MiSCCA, and is Minnesota's only residential camp for the physically handicapped, blind and children with severe speech and hearing difficulties. During these years the Future Farmers have built the $75,000 speech and hearing therapy building at Camp Courage and have also provided $134,000 in camperships for the handicapped to benefit from camping experiences.

Veterans administration statistics reveal that there are 30,000 veterans under 20 years of age.

Warroad Youth Badly Burned From Gas Fire

Jerry Unruh, son of Mr and Mrs Jacob Unruh of Warroad, suffered 30 per cent third and second degree burns on the upper portion of his body and first degree burns over another 30 to 35 per cent of the body as a result of a fire ignited from gasoline late Friday night, May 9. He was given blood transfusions and other emergency medical aid at the Warroad hospital and then transferred to a Winnipeg hospital where he was reported to be recovering.

Jerry was apparently with two other boys, Danny Hackett and Don Jaros at the time of the accident and the cool head and strong arms of Danny were probably an important factor in saving Unruh's life, reports the Warroad Pioneer.

The three young men were in Danny's car in the area north of the creamery, near Western Oil and Fuel bulk tanks, when gasoline fumes were somehow ignited.

Jerry took the full force of the exploding gasoline which set his clothes completely aflame and he told his aunt all he could think of was "to run away from it." Danny reportedly pulled the burning boy down and rolled him into the ditch and water in an attempt to put out the fire, but it took a second time to the ground before the flames were finally put out.

The cause of the fire is under investigation by the Minnesota state fire marshall and the Roseau county law enforcement center.

Warroad Men in Fatal Crash on R.L. Reservation

Two young men from Warroad died early Friday morning, May 9, as a result of a single car accident 1.8 miles north of the Beltrami-Clearwater county line on Highway 89 in the Red Lake Indian reservation.

Dead are 21-year-old Gary Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Thompson, and 18-year-old Ted Schnurr, son of Mr. and Mrs Fred Schnurr.

Thompson had recently returned to Warroad with a discharge from the army after spending a tour of duty in Korea and Schnurr was a senior at the Warroad high school.

Cause of the accident is not known, however, officials reported it happened on a straight stretch of road with the car hitting the only abutment meeting the road for several miles. Bemidji officials said it appeared the car had been moving at a high rate of speed at the time of impact. The car apparently went airborne after hitting the abutment and then rolled or flipped several times before coming to a stop. The bodies of both boys were thrown from the car.

Propose Change In Dep't Name On State Level

Bills proposing that the name of the Minnesota department of employment security be changed to "Department of Manpower Services" have been introduced in the state legislature, the department's commissioner George J. Vavoulis said today.

Authors are Senators Stanley Holmquist and E. J. Anderson in the senate and Representatives Bill Frenzel, Robert G. Renner, C. M. Johnson, Joseph Prifrel and Roger Hanson in the House.

"Objective of the change is to make the name of the department more descriptive of the services its offers," Commissioner Vavoulis said, pointing out that several other states are also considering a change from "Employment Security."

"Employment and security were descriptive of our department's activities 15 or 20 years ago," Vavoulis said. "However, our activities have expanded so much, particularly in the past decade, that those two words now are inadequate."

Vavoulis pointed out that the department still handles unemployment insurance claims and still operates 36 employment offices throughout the state, so "employment" and "security" still are descriptive.

"However, our functions have expanded to include participation in federal training programs, model cities, concentrated employment programs, job corps, neighborhood youth corps, a work incentive program for people on welfare, special work-related assistance program for the aged, handicapped and other special groups, labor market surveys and other related research," Vavoulis explained. In fact, we are involved in more than 50 different manpower programs, all of which have different objectives."

"The department's advisory council—comprising representatives of employers, labor and the public—unanimously approved the name change," Vavoulis said.

As part of the name change, the designation for the 36 Minnesota state employment service offices throughout the state would be changed to "Manpower Service Centers," with the unemployment compensation components being called "Unemployment Insurance Claim Centers."

Vavoulis also noted that a change of name is appropriate at this time because of changes in the federal structure. Under a reorganization plan now being put into effect, the bureau of employment security of the department of labor has been absorbed into a new manpower administration.

"Instead of the bureau, we now have the 'U.S. Training and Employment Service' and the 'Unemployment Insurance Service'," Vavoulis said. "These represent our original functions—employment and security. They were combined in the new manpower administration with other manpower agencies whose activities are carried on, wholly or in part, by our state agency.

"A new name for our department would recognize the increased range and scope of its activities and responsibilities," Vavoulis said.

Jim Brown and Diahann Carroll share romance and excitement in MGM's drama, "The Split", also starring Julie Harris and Ernest Borgnine. Filmed in Panavision and Metrocolor, the story revolves around a plot to rob half a million dollars in football receipts from the Los Angeles coliseum. "The Split" will be shown Tuesday and Wednesday at the Satellite drive-in theatre.

Phone Facilities Part of Building Or Remodeling

If you're building a new home or remodeling an old one, don't forget to update your communications facilities, states D. L. Lindquist, Northwestern Bell Telephone company manager. There are many new phones and services designed to meet the needs of today's home owner, he said.

These include instuments which are capable of dialing prerecorded numbers automatically, panel phone, compact instruments with light-up dials, the melodic bell chime, home interphone, concealed wiring and others.

"Northwestern Bell has two phones capable of dialing numbers automatically," he said. "One uses pre-punched cards, the other a pre-set rotary dialer. Both are designed for those who make many calls or call the same numbers frequently, such as women with club or church activities."

The panel phone, mounted flush with the wall, has a retractable cord, an adjustable bell tone and a chrome handset holder. It is designed for home locations where space is at a premium, such as the kitchen.

Other space-saving phones are the Princess and Trimline instruments with light-up dials. With the Trimline, the dial is built into the handset and a recall button restores dial tone, making it unnecessary to hang up after each call. Both compact phones are ideal for bedside or end table locations where smallness and style are important, Lindquist said.

"If you would rather have the telephone chime instead of ring, you can order bell chime, a centralized ringer adjustable to either a chime, soft tone or loud bell," he said.

One of the most comprehensive offerings in home interphone service which makes it possible to place and receive outside calls from any phone, call every other phone in the home and answer the doorbell from any phone by use of a loudspeaker at the front door.

The telephone company advises those who are planning to build new homes to look into the advantages of concealed wiring and extra outlets for future phone needs. Concealed phone wiring should be considered in the early planning stages of the new home. The result is a neater, more finished final appearance.

He sold phone company research has revealed a changing location for telephones in recent years. The trend is to the kitchen, bedroom, family room and lower level and away from the traditional living room or dining room locations.

Today's telephones, whether they be wall or desk type, come in a host of colors to blend with or complement any decorating scheme.

"Many families with teenagers are also finding a second line is a must," he said. "With youngsters utilizing the phone for social activities as much as their parents nowadays, more families are finding the second phone line as handy as the second car or television set."

Additional information about new services can be obtained by calling Northwestern Bell's business office.

Army Recruiter Cites Training In Construction

Construction engineering in the U.S. army prepares a man for a career in the construction field—erecting buildings; operating heavy construction equipment such as earth-movers and cranes; or building bridges, roadways and airstrips.

Training in the army's construction field includes both classroom training and on-the-job instruction (similar to an apprenticeship).

The army now has training vacancies available for men interested in the construction field—whether this interest is in the field of plumbing or heavy equipment operation. And this training is guaranteed to a man prior to his enlistment.

Area men interested in the construction field are urged to investigate the army's training programs today. For a complete list of vacancies, area residents are asked to contact Sergeant Clinton D. Quam at the Federal building in Grand Forks, N. D., or call him at 772-2171 collect. He can give additional information and tell if applicants qualify for guaranteed training in the construction field.

A Suit That Saves Lives

A new life-saving device which has proved promising in emergency situations in hospitals across the nation is now being tested by Army and Navy doctors in Viet Nam.

Developed by Cleveland's famed neurosurgeon, Dr. W. James Gardner, and scientists of the Kendall Company, manufacturers of hospital supplies, the device is known as the "Curity G Suit." It is a modern version of the antigravity pressure suit created in World War II to prevent "blackouts" that were occurring in fighter pilots because of severe centrifugal forces.

Mother's Life Saved

The life-saving potential of the Curity G-Suit was first demonstrated in a dramatic case reported in medical journals by Dr Gardner and his associates.

Here is what happened. A young mother was near death from intra-abdominal hemorrhage. Two prolonged surgical operations had failed to control the bleeding. Within a period of 18½ hours she had required 55 pints of blood, more than 5 times the amount normally present in the body, and, in addition, 10 liters of other fluids.

After her abdomen was closed, she was placed in the suit in the hope that its pressure would keep her alive until her husband might have a last word with her. With inflation of the suit the blood pressure rose and, to everyone's amazement, the bleeding ceased. The suit was removed after 24 hours with no recurrence of bleeding. She eventually left the hospital and has remained in good health.

Although in this case the use of the G Suit proved curative, its chief function is to "buy time" in an emergency until bleeding can be brought under control by the surgeon.

Pressure Closes Wounds

"The pressure which the suit brings to bear on bleeding arteries and veins in the abdomen works to close these wounds even as it raises blood pressure," said William O. Elson, director of research of the Kendall laboratories. "Even more important, by diverting blood to the heart and brain it acts to preserve the function of these vitally important organs."

The same pneumatic principle was applied by Dr. Gardner and Kendall researchers in developing a plastic inflatable splint. It also serves as a compression dressing to reduce edema and to control bleeding in an arm or leg. Known as the Curity G-Splint, it is now widely used in emergency first aid and on the battle field.

Don't Forget to Vote

Residents of School District 564 are reminded of the annual school election Tuesday from 4 to 9 p.m. in the school cafeteria. Three candidates have filed for the two positions open on the board—only one of them being an incumbent seeking reelection.

Filing for election are Maynard Wedul, incumbent, Kenneth Murphy and Mrs. Dennis Rodin. Wedul lives on a farm and manages a local trucking firm. Murphy is employed as a technician for Northwestern Bell Telephone company. Mrs. Rodin is the wife of Rev. Dennis Rodin, pastor of Redeemer Lutheran church, and is a housewife.

A position on the board of education has not been a place of comfort, particularly in the past two years. Prior to that time there were occasional differences of opinion within the district, primarily in regard to school building programs. Recently, it seems that controversy has been almost constant and board members have been spending more and more of their time and effort on school matters.

It is good that concerned citizens will take an active interest in their schools, and the fact that there is competition for board positions is a tribute to this interest. District voters should now show their concern and interest by turning out in large numbers to vote on Tuesday.

The Poor Poor

How poor are "the poor"....at least the organized "poor"? That is certainly open to question. W. L. Thornton, president of the Southern States Industrial council, gives his views on the problem as follows:

A recent UPI dispatch out of Washington makes us wonder to what absurdities our less fortunate citizens can aspire that will top those of the NWRO. In case those initials are meaningless to you, they stand for the "National Welfare Rights Organization". This, we gather, is sort of a union made up of relief recipients.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., the dispatch said, will be boycotted by the NWRO because it allegedly discriminates against the poor by not extending them credit.

Well, if the poor refuse to spend their welfare checks at Sears that, of course, is their privilege. We do, however, take strong exception to the demands made by one Dr. George A. Wiley, executive director of the NWRO. He insists that Sears extend at least $150 in revolving credit to any family belonging to the NWRO. The good doctor (we don't know what doctorate) also demands that the only certification a welfare recipient need possess to receive credit from Sears would be a letter of reference from NWRO ... or one of its affiliates.

Threatened reprisals against Sears for failure to surrender to the doctor's dictates would go beyond mere boycotts, according to the news story. "Disruptive tactics," are threatened at a number of Sears stores. The doctor also announced a schedule of personal appearances in several major cities where he and other NWRO officers plan to demonstrate at Sears outlets.

We don't quite know why Sears was chosen as a major target. What does infuriate us is the arrogance of these so-called spokesmen for the impoverished who issue their ultimatums like conquering barbarians.

Even more jolting is the fact that those on relief can actually organize a "professional" society while those who pick up the tab—generous, even indulgent, taxpayers, have no spokesmen and no relief. Ah, well, with a third generation of welfare recipients enjoying ever-greater largess, there is an air of professionalism about them, so maybe they should have their own professional society.

For the truly needy, we have the deepest sympathy, but when some outfit like the NWRO can come into being and attack a highly respected segment of our free enterprise system with bombastic and vicious nonsense—we've had it! We fail to understand how the "poor people" can sojourn in tent cities in Washinton, show up in various parts of the country for demonstrations and ship their mules and wagons like so many stage props from place to place for sordid processions. Seemingly they can afford to participate in every form of travel and in every activity except honest toil. We know a good many fine, hard-working, decent taxpaying citizens who can't afford either the leisure time or the expenses of travel that are now so commonplace among our "poor people."

Our natural tendency to be charitable is somewhat warped in this NWRO matter and by another UPI story of about the same date. This one described the plight of a San Francisco welfare recipient who told a judge that she couldn't afford to pay $118 worth of accumulated parking tickets for her Cadillac. When the judge asked the defendant how she could afford to drive a car, a miniskirted social worker explained to the judge that a recipient of welfare payments can spend the payments as she sees fit.

Perhaps we shouldn't complain. This may be our best answer to Communism. When welfare beneficiaries can form their own unions and drive luxury cars—maybe we're better off then we think. Or are we?

Holding Companies

Concern over the chain reaction which can be created by a bank holding company has resulted in legislation being proposed in the U.S. Congress. The Elmira Star-Gazette in New York explains the concern, commenting (in part) as follows:

There is a venerable joke about a cowhand who was cleaned out in a faro game. "You know it's crooked—why do you keep playing there," a friend asked him.

"It's the only game in town," the westerner explained sadly.

Rep. Wright Patmon, D-Tex., thinks that if some banks don't have their wings clipped they will get to be the only game in their towns, and that, even if they're not crooked, the results will be the same.

A holding company is usually formed for legal and tax advantages. All it does, in its basic form, is own the stock of another company, or enough of it to keep control.

A bank holding company act passed in 1956 forbids companies that own two or more banks, from engaging in any non-banking business.

But companies that hold only one bank are not covered by the law. They can own or start insurance companies, department stores, toy factories, supermarket chains, real estate development and sales firms, or what they wish.

Through this loophole, Patman believes, banks are staging a parade. If it is not stopped, he is afraid they will build up "giant conglomerate cartels" and in a few years "change the very nature of the whole economy."

A report by his committee's staff says that there were 117 one-bank holding companies in 1955. Now there are 783 and they include 34 of the 100 largest banks in the country.

Here is a simple sample showing why the treand has developed.

Suppose the only bank in a small city is owned by a holding company, which also owns a department store, a lumberyard, an insurance agency and a real estate development office.

The real estate developer will probably find it easy to get a loan to buy and prepare land for a new subdivision, even if its project is a little riskier than the bank might normally venture its depositors' money on.

The contractor who builds the houses needs credit, and he will probably find it smart to buy his materials from the banks' lumberyard.

The people who buy the houses will get mortgage loans from the banks, and the bank may strongly suggest that they need life insurance covering the mortgage, which they will buy from the bank-related agency.

Meanwhile the competitor of the bank-related department store needs a major loan to buy the building next door and tear it down for parking, in order to meet competition and stay in business. If the bank finds itself unable to make the loan, the retailer will either try to find credit out of town, or give up and eventually leave the bank's department store the only one in the city.

The same kind of wheeling and dealing is even more profitable in larger cities, and on a national scale. Patman says it could lead to domination of our economy by a few large companies in a relatively short time.

Where the money is, there will the political eagles be gathered together. The eventual danger of the concentration of economic power is that political democracy will be corroded and destroyed.

Legislative Letter

from ANDREW SKAAR

STATE REPRESENTATIVE

Two major appropriations bills, covering expenditures of money for educational costs in Minnesota and the construction of buildings at various state schools and institutions, have been reported to the floor of the House by the appropriations committee.

The omnibus education bill calls for the expenditure of $855.2 million during the next biennium for education at all levels, and the building bill proposes an expenditure of $138.8 million during the next two years.

It is interesting to note that the proposed educational appropriation is more than the entire state budget of just a very few years ago. This fact underlines the emphasis that has been placed on support of all levels of education in Minnesota by the present and past legislatures.

About $575 million of the education appropriation recommendation would be spent on state aids to public elementary and secondary schools, with the balance designated for the University of Minnesota, state and junior colleges and other institutions of higher learning.

More than 1,000 new teaching positions in higher education facilities are funded, and about $17.5 million designated for salary increases for present university and other college faculties. The state scholarship fund has been increased by about 1,000 per cent to an appropriation of $2,750,000.

The largest single item in the building bill is the proposal to spend $18 million for the first phase of the health sciences complex at the University of Minnesota. This is a contingency appropriation, and calls for matching of $22 million in federal funds for the project.

I was particularly pleased that the appropriations committee has recommended the allocation of $682,275 for additional construction and site development at Northland state junior college.

The building bill calls for the construction of several new buildings at our various institutions of higher learning and other state facilities. About $52.3 million would be spent for buildings on the various University of Minnesota campuses, $28.3 million on state college sites and $21.3 million for junior colleges.

About $12 million has been allocated for construction projects in the so-called "State Capitol complex". Perhaps the most significant recommendation is that the state purchase the Capital Square building for needed office space.

It is expected that the Senate version of these measures will be given final approval before the end of the week. As in past sessions, the final bill will be a compromise between the House and Senate positions as determined by a conference committee.

CAPITOL COMMENT

—BY— MARTY McGOWAN

When the sales tax was enacted by the Minnesota legislature two years ago as a major part of the creation of the property tax relief fund, there were some predictions that the relief granted was illusory and would be very brief. There were additional contentions that in from two to four years the relief would have vanished and the state would end up with the sales tax as an additional tax. Those predictions seem to be coming true at the current legislative session.

The way the property tax relief fund operates is that the state collects the three per cent sales tax and then remits to local units of government—the counties, school districts and townships or municipalities—for the 35 per cent reductions they made in their assessments on property. There was indeed considerable relief granted in the first year of operation. I was personally very pleased to see a reduction of $127 in real estate taxation on my home in St. Paul. I don't know how much I paid in the way of sales tax during the same year to obtain that reduction. I didn't have any major purchases that year so I probably came out ahead.

This year I bought a small compact second car on which the sales tax was $57. Coupling that with the other sales taxes and the fact that the tax on my home is starting to climb again, my relief seems to be vanishing. Presumably, however, the real estate tax is still lower than it would have been without the sales tax.

When the sales tax bill was passed two years ago some other questions were asked. One was: What will happen if a municipality has to make some major improvements in streets, sidewalks or municipal services, or a township needs to replace a bridge which was washed out or its road and bridge fund is wiped out by a severe winter and they don't obtain enough from the state to meet these unexpected obligations? The only answer heard was: They will have to add it to their property tax again.

That they have begun to add such levies to their local taxes is amply demonstrated in two ways. Administration Commissioner Rolland Hatfield has complained to the legislators that local spending is rising much faster than had been anticipated and there will not be enough in the property tax relief fund to meet obligations to local units. Bills have also been coming in from all over the state granting permission to local units to increase their limits of taxation.

To meet this situation bills were introduced which would place a limit on the increase of local assessments to two per cent in any one year. This would be fine for Commissioner Hatfield in his bookkeeping to determine what might be needed from the state in succeeding years, but it met with some local opposition.

Some superintendents of schools testified before legislative committees that such a limitation would hamper them in providing quality education. With teachers becoming quite militant in their salary requests one can see the crux of the problem. School administrators want to be free to work out their local needs. At last report no such limitation has been enacted, but it could still come out.

One day last week the consent calendar of non-controversial legislation in the house was filled with local bills granting authority to counties throughout the state to raise their limitations to tax for their road and bridge fund—usually raising it from 30 to 35 mills.

Aid for municipalities—particularly the larger three—may come in the form of permission for piggy-back sales taxes, local levies on top of the three per cent for the state. House Speaker Lloyd Duxbury also said last week that he would not be surprised to see some increases in taxation voted at the current session.

So it appears that indeed the period of tax relief was brief—just two years—and will disappear with the legislation enacted by the legislature in the final 10 days of the current session.

Governor LeVander Reports

Highway construction in rural Minnesota is assisted greatly by two bills which I have signed into law. Both of these proposals were key parts of my legislative program introduced early in the session and I am most pleased to have them enacted.

One measure removes the $20 million per year bonding limit from the highway construction law that was enacted last session.

The other provides a much-needed procedure for resolving highway construction disputes and protecting local interests.

We all know of the problems existing in communities when a highway is to be built. The bill I signed sets up, as a final arbitration of the matter, a panel to listen to all sides and then hand down a decision and a course to be followed.

This local consent legislation has my full support because it will effectively involve local units of government very early in the transportation planning procedure.

The new law is the result of many hours of negotiations and compromise among state, local government, League of Municipalities and Metropolitan council representatives.

While all parties compromised in agreeing on the proposal, in my opinion, this legislation offers the widest protection for all parties involved in transportation planning.

I am sure most of you realize that, in the past, one unit of government could hold up construction of a highway because it wouldn't agree to the plans.

The new law also does much to ensure that highway funds are spent where the people will benefit the most.

My other point today is the bonding bill for highway construction mentioned earlier. It was ideally set up two years ago that there would be a five-year program to spend $100 million—in equal yearly amounts of $20 million.

Then along came the federal government and the final two years of the Johnson administration where the President wrongly put a freeze on the federal participation in the programs on the state level.

What this did was curtail much needed construction of new roads in Minnesota. Therefore, I asked the legislature to act and the two houses responded by erasing the yearly limit on the bonding program, thereby permitting the state to pick up the slack where the federal government fell short of its promised obligations.

Fortunately, the Nixon administration has indicated that highway fund freezes are a thing of the past, but we still need this new law to help us make up for lost construction time over the past two years.

While these two new laws can assist communities immediately, last week I called for legislative approval of a two-year study of the tax situation in Minnesota.

This citizens blue-ribbon committee will study the tax structure at each level of government and also governmental efficiency on the state level.

Money sources for cities, counties and schools is a big concern of mine and I know each could use additional revenues. But I am equally concerned that future sources of revenue be spread more equitably among our people.

Dist. Lutherans Elect President

Northern Minnesota district of the American Lutheran church, at its annual convention at Moorhead, expressed concern over the 34 of its 200 pastors who have a base salary of $5,000 or less. A resolution calling for raising some money to correct the situation was pressed by a group of lay delegates and was passed at the final session.

Rev. Cecil M. Johnson of Pelican Rapids was advanced to district president, and the following officers were elected: vice president, Rev. Arnold O. Blom, Cloquet; secretary, Rev. Harold M. McCullough, Stephen; treasurer, A. S. Thykeson, Detroit Lakes; and executive council members-at-large, Rev. Otto Dale, Fergus Falls; Dr. John Jensen, Crookston; and to fill an unexpired term, Rev. James H. Hanson, Crookston. Rev. Arthur C. Larson of Badger was elected to the district committee on stewardship.

A budget of $200,095 was adopted. An increase of six per cent was made in the appropriation to Lutheran Social Service of Minnesota, which is a major portion of the district budget.

The convention heard an address by Dr. F. A. Schiotz, president of the American Lutheran church and also president of the Lutheran World federation.

Letters to the Editor

Editor, TRF Times
Dear Editor:

I want to take this opportunity to call to the attention of the citizens of Thief River Falls the following: An informal council meeting is to be held Tuesday at 8:00 p.m. in the city council chambers for the purpose of discussing the proposed Maple Avenue apartment project. Mr. Welle, the contractor will be in attendance to provide information to the council and interested persons.

In a recent meeting of the Planning Commission, a statement was presented listing 36 names of 39 families contacted who opposed this project. (There are about 43 residences that are concerned.) In spite of the overwhelming opposition to the project by the residents within 300 feet of the project, the Planning Commission under the chairmanship of Jim Parkins Sr. recommended unanimously to the council that the apartment house project be permitted to be built in an area zoned only for single family dwellings.

The council has discussed this at length and has not acted either way. The purpose of the meeting on Tuesday evening may result in some action.

There are several reasons why the residents of the Maple Ave. area are opposed to this project.

1) The proposed building does not meet the present zoning requirements.

2) We already have excess traffic due to the Jr. Hi and grade schools and this would make the problem worse instead of better.

3) The building will be 3 stories high in an area now occupied by single-story dwellings.

4) The area would have 12 family units instead of the 3 that would otherwise occupy that space.

5) There is no assurance that it would be orderly and well-kept. It must be noted that one of the two apartment houses of similar design in the city has had part of an old car body laying in the back yard for several weeks now.

6) It will look out-of-place in the neighborhood. 60 x 60 and 3 stories high.

7) The increased use of the area 4-fold will undoubtedly upset the peace and tranquility.

8) There are other places to build, such as in an area zoned for apartment houses. Why not in the Industrial Park along the airport road? Sewer and water is there already and is just laying there.

9) The proposed rent is too high for family units, the result being rent-splitting by groups of single people. Married couples in our area do not spend $150 per month just for rent. Wages are not that good here.

10) 36 of the 39 people contacted signed a statement opposing the project after the true plans were revealed. The project was not always fully presented to everyone.

I want to call this project to the attention of the public because I am sure they will be interested in the action of the council. Keep in mind that 38 of 39 people contacted signed a statement opposing the Maple Ave. apt. house project. This statement together with verbal arguments was presented to the Planning Commission. In spite of this, the planning commission voted unanimously to recommend the project. The city council has discussed it a couple of times. What do you think their decision will be? Will it be in favor of the citizens who live in the area or will it be in favor of the planning commission, none of whom live in the area, but represent the business interests of the community? Shall the chance to show a profit prevail over the rights of a group of citizens who are fighting to keep their home area intact? You have a share in this too. Who knows, your area could be next.

To The Editor,

Why not stop the human slaughter house in Vietnam and give the kids a chance to live their lives and change diapers, etc., like their fathers and mothers used to instead of using them for cannon fodder, when many of them can't even vote yet. To protect American money which is invested all over the world in almost every kind of business under the sun. Let the capitalists protect their own interests if they want to invest their money all over the world, instead of bleeding our boys for blood money. When some of those capitalists meet St. Peter they might have to explain for their blood money.

Also why degrade humans on account of skin color, we are all God's children, else there would not be an Almighty or Ten Commandments.

God permitting I could straighten this round misery world in less than one term unless they shoot me too. There is plenty room, food, shelter and clothing for everybody in this round world, so why kill humans to save capitalism. We all die soon enough. If anyone don't believe it, check your dead relation. Also why can't farmers who feed the world get cost of production like the manufacturers.

Extra Caution Required With More Pedestrians

Warmer weather is bringing more pedestrians out on the streets and highways, and this calls for extra caution on the part of both drivers and pedestrians, Minnesota highway patrol chief John J. Harbinson warned today.

"Some of the needed precautions are fairly obvious, but the accident statistics indicate that they are often ignored," he said.

"For example, many more people are killed while walking on the highway with their backs to traffic than when walking properly, facing traffic. Many more people are killed while jaywalking than while crossing in marked crosswalks or at intersections.

"The tragedy of pedestrian accidents is that they take a heavy toll of the very young. More than half of last year's pedestrian victims were 14 years of age or younger. Twelve out of 100 were under five years of age," the chief noted.

"The typical report on such accidents among the very young indicates the accident was avoidable and caused by pedestrian actions. A study of the accidents indicates that there is great need for parents to teach their young children by precept and example the importance of care and responsibility in and near roadways.

"Among the especially dangerous situations is a vehicle crossing a sidewalk while exiting from an alley, a vehicle turning while a pedestrian is in the crosswalk, a driver facing a low morning or afternoon sun or a pedestrian on the highway wearing dark, low-visibility clothing. Nearly half of last year's pedestrian fatalities occurred during the hours of darkness," Harbinson said.

Want to work on a newspaper?

If you have a high school education, a good command of English, and some knowledge of typing, you qualify as a registrant in a brand-new course called "Newspaper Skills" at Anoka-Hennepin Technical Education Center.

The course will last for ten weeks starting June 10. A maximum of twenty students will be chosen for the first ten-week session.

The course is designed to give rapid training in newspaper skills to (1) educated persons who have a good educational background for newspaper work, but never had the chance to learn newspaper skills, and (2) persons now at work on state newspapers, who would benefit by such a "brush-up" course.

To the basic requirements mentioned above add "a serious interest in going into newspaper work." Many find a rich and diversified life in newspaper journalism; if you have the "hankering" to work on a newspaper, this course could change your life.

At the end of a ten-week period of intensive training, students who start with a solid educational background will be well qualified to start as beginners on any newspaper.

IF YOU ARE INTERESTED, fill out the form (right) and mail it to the Anoka-Hennepin Technical Education Center, Anoka, Minn. 55303. If you are selected for the first group, you will be given tests to measure your typing speed (35 words a minute minimum) and your command of English. The cost will be $65.00 for the whole course which includes writing supplies and books. The Minnesota Newspaper Association will share in this cost to students in need, by granting loans, repayment of which may be voided if students go to work for state newspapers and remain for one year.

Students will be trained in typing, speedwriting, newswriting under timed pressure, photography using several standard cameras, developing and printing of photographs; and sources of information in official records, libraries and archives.

Please send me more information about the "Newspaper Skills" course

HELP WANTED

We are looking for a young man, or woman, presently enrolled in college, who is a former Neighborhood Youth Corps (NYC) enrollee, to serve as Counselor's Aide for our Summer NYC program in Pennington, Red Lake, East Polk, and Clearwater Counties.

We specifically want someone who feels they were helped by their own experience in NYC during the past three years. Someone who would use their experience, and their understanding of the program and its purpose to provide "Grass-roots", practical counseling to the program's present enrollees.

The job would mean 10 weeks of summer employment at $100 a week. More important: It would mean an opportunity for you to help teenagers find their own vocational interest, and the chance to motivate their desire for higher education following high school.

If you are a past NYC enrollee, are now in college, and are interested in this newly conceived position and its challenge, send your letter of application to the Inter-County Community Council, Inc.

P. O. Box 187, Oklee, Minnesota 56742, before May 23.

We would like to discuss the importance of this position and its possible rewards with you.

Pitching Highlights Prowler Win, Loss

by Bob Wielinski
Times Sports Writer

Pitching was the story on Thursday and Saturday for the Thief River Falls Prowler baseball team as they stopped Climax 2-1 on a four-hitter by Dann Stromberg, and then were shutout on Saturday by the Warroad Warriors by a 3-0 score. Both Tony Johnson and Henry Boucha pitched two-hitters for their respective teams.

Thursday night, Stromberg had things pretty much his own way as the Prowlers collected four clutch hits as they captured a 2-1 victory over the Climax club.

Saturday, Tony Johnson was handed his first loss of the season against three wins, as two Prowlers errors and two base hits were all Warroad needed to stop the Prowlers behind the two-hit pitching of Henry Boucha. Boucha, who starred in the Minnesota state hockey tournament this past winter until being hurt, struck out eight and walked two in going the distance for the Warriors.

Strangely enough, Steve Daley, who has the hottest bat for the Prowlers during the last five games came through again with the only two hits off the right-handed Boucha. Both of the hits were for extra bases as he lashed a triple to right center in the third and then led off the sixth with a double to right field.

Warroad gained their first run in the second inning as Henry Boucha led off the inning with a walk, stole second and scored on Allan Hangsleben's hard smash to Tim Duke at first, with the ball getting by Duke for an error.

The Warriors added two more runs in the fifth inning despite a protest from Prowlers head coach Ralph Skay. Hongsleben led off with a single and moved to second on Lyle Kvarnlov's single, which was an infield type. They both moved up as Leo Marshall laid down a perfect sacrifice bunt between first and home with Johnson getting him at first with the runners moving up. Frank Krahn then hit a fly to center which was caught by the Prowlers centerfielder Steve Daley, with the runner at third, Hongsleben, leaving before the ball was caught. The throw to the plate was off its mark with Kvarnlov going to third. When the throw to third was wide, he also went home.

Skay appealed to the umpires who stated that they couldn't tell whether the runner left too soon or not, but those sitting on the third base side of the field saw that he took off too early.

The loss left the Prowlers with a 7-6 record for the season as they will be closing their season this week before moving into District 31 play next week.

Climax Contest

Thief River Falls Prowlers pitcher, Dana Stromberg, and Climax's Andy Muhonen hooked up in a real pitchers' duel on Thursday night at the fairgrounds in Thief River Falls with the Prowlers coming out on top by a 2-1 margin. The win snapped a two-game winning streak that the Vikings held over the local club in the past two years.

The Thursday evening contest found both pitchers hurling four hitters while having things in their control throughout most of the game, as all the scoring was in the third inning.

Stromberg struck out seven while Muhonen notched eight strikeouts. Each walked two batters while Stromberg hit two batters. Stromberg raised his season record to 2-3 and his strikeout total to 23 in 27 innings, highest on the Prowler mound staff so far this year.

Climax threatened to score in the first inning as Ken Mickelson was hit by a pitch, moved to second on Wayne Kobbervig's single to right field, and then stole third. He was thrown out on a bouncer to the mound which Stromberg fielded and threw to Don Balmer who made the tag at the plate.

Climax took the lead at 1-0 in the top of the third inning as Mickelson led off the inning with a single, stole second and rode home on Jim Mauritson's single down the right field line. Stromberg got Arlen Amundson pitcher to first for the third out of the inning.

The Prowlers, in their half of the inning, tied the score and then went ahead. Tom Wurst led off the inning by drawing a walk, went to second on a passed ball and took third on Steve Daley's infield single. Wurst came home on Dan Sullivan's sacrifice fly to right, tieing the score at 1-1, with Daley remaining at first. Tony Johnson then stepped to the plate and laced the second pitch to left field for a double, driving in Daley with the winning run. The Prowler win raised the team's record to 7-5 for the season.

Double-Header Scheduled For Prowlers Today

Thief River Falls Prowler baseball team will play a double-header today (Monday) at the fairgrounds in Thief River Falls. The twin bill came as the result of a game being postponed on Friday and a regular scheduled game for tonight.

The first will be a Northwest conference game against Crookston which was postoned on Friday due to inclement weather. The game will begin at 4:30 p.m. Crookston, in its last Northwest conference outing, upset undefeated Bemidji by a 12-6 score, while the Prowlers' last outing to loop action found them dropping a 7-5 decision to the Roseau Rams.

In an earlier contest this year at Crookston, the Prowlers came from behind in the final inning to score four runs and take a 7-5 win home from the Pirates. Mike Hamerlinck, in relief of Tim Duke, picked up the win in that contest.

In the second game tonight, starting at 7:30 p.m., the Warren Ponies will invade the fairgrounds. This is a regularly scheduled game with the Ponies. In an earlier meeting this year at Warren, the Prowlers halted the Ponies by a 5-2 score. Doing the hurling for the Prowlers in that contest were Dan Sullivan, Dana Stromberg and Duke, with Stromberg picking up the win. The three combined for a five-hitter in that contest.

Prowlers Defeat Fosston in Dual Track Meet

Thief River Falls Prowler track squad won its second dual meet on Wednesday by defeating the Fosston Greyhounds 86 and one-third to 31 and two-thirds on the Prowler track.

The Prowlers took 10 first places in the meet with Richard Habedank and the mile and 880 relay teams coming out the double winners for the Prowlers. Mike McNelly was Fosston's lone double event winner in the meet.

Habedank took first in the 100 yard dash and first in the long jump while finishing second to teammate Rex Rugland in the 200 yard dash. Rugland was second in the long jump and 100 yard dash as the two paced the Prowlers in scoring.

Other first place winners were Jon Swick in the pole vault with a leap of 11'9", just three inches short of the Lincoln high school record of 12 feet, which was set last year by Jon Furuseth.

Dave Schindler took first in the 440, Darrold Rodahl in the high jump, Gary Kayser, in the 880 yard run, and Mark Kays in the discus event.

Next action for the Prowlers will be the District 31 meet at the University of North Dakota starting at 10 a.m. on Saturday, May 24.

Times' Sport Spotlight
GAME OF THE WEEK

by Bob Wielinski

Six errors by Goodridge in the last two innings on Wednesday afternoon enabled Red Lake Falls to score seven runs as they swamped the Huskies by a 12-5 margin. The Eagles took a 4-0 lead after the first half inning and then held off Goodridge rallies the rest of the way. In the sixth inning the Eagles scored four times to put the game out of reach and then added three more runs in the final inning of play.

The Eagles, with a four-run lead in the sixth inning, had to go to the bull-pen for help as the Huskies came back in the sixth to tally one run with two men on and only one out recorded. Relief pitcher Mike Schmitz came in to help Arnie Klefenheim and preserved the win for the Eagles.

Scoring opened in the first inning as the Eagles scored four times on four hits and two Goodridge errors. Big blows in the inning were a solo home run by Dean LaChance and a two-run double by Roger Schmitz.

The Huskies came right back to tally one run as Aldon Hyland singled, went to second on a passed ball and rode home on Jim Smeby's double, cutting the Eagles' lead to 4-1.

Goodridge scored twice in the second inning. Ray Moisbenrger singled to lead off the inning and moved to second when Klefenheim threw wild to first on a pick off play. Brian Wiseth drew a walk. Leslie Iverson was safe on an error, loading the sacks for the Huskies. Steve Holte drove a double to center field, driving in Moisbeorger and Wiseth, making the score 4-3 in favor of the Eagles.

The roof caved in on the Huskies in the last inning as the Eagles scored three more runs on two base hits and four Huskies' errors. The hits were singles by Philion and Klefenheim.

Goodridge loaded the bases in the bottom of the inning off the slants of Schmitz after two were out, but Terry Wiseth struck out to end the game.

The Huskies are in action today (Monday) at Alvarado. A game scheduled with Newfolden was called off on Friday because of wet grounds and cold weather.

Murphy, Wedul Win School Board Posts

Voters in Thief River Falls School district 564 returned one incumbent to office and elected a new member to the board of education for three-year terms at the annual school election held Tuesday. Only one incumbent had filed for the two positions open on the board this year.

Kenneth Murphy, a new candidate, polled the most votes of the three candidates in the race with 656 of the 930 total votes cast. Maynard Wedul, incumbent, was reelected with 596 votes, while Mrs. Dennis Rodin made an impressive bid for election in collecting 542 ballots.

Four write-in votes were given to D. H. Stewart, two to L. L. Tygeson and one to Rodney Brodin. A write-in campaign which had been rumored prior to the election failed to materialize.

The 930 ballots cast were considered a large number for an annual school election, although the election contest was expected to keep voter interest high and bring out a large vote. Last year there were only 140 votes cast and a successful write-in campaign unseated one board incumbent who had filed for reelection.

Newfolden Election

In other area districts the annual school elections were generally quiet, with some notable exceptions. Among these was Newfolden District 441 where there had been recent controversy over a new school building and consolidation with the Thief River Falls district.

Newfolden voters gave incumbents a vote of confidence in all cases. Lester Elseth and Halward Anderson were reelected to three-year terms with 307 and 358 votes respectively. Ray Holmstrom received 373 votes for a three-year term in a director's position added to increase the size of the board. Lowell Lindemoen, who had been aligned with forces seeking consolidation with Thief River Falls district, polled 125 votes as the fourth candidate who filed for the three-year terms.

Elected to one-year terms on the Newfolden board were Duane Krohn and Walter Steinhauer with 362 and 346 votes respectively. There were 418 total votes cast in the election with nine persons receiving write-in votes of three or fewer.

Gatzke Voting

At Gatzke District 438 a write-in campaign generated some interest but not enough to unseat the incumbents. Arthur Peterson and Leo Orpen, incumbents who had filed for reelection, received 89 and 85 votes respectively to be elected. Mrs. Roland Klamar had 50 and Holger Nilson received 53 write-in votes. There were 143 total votes cast with some ballots being spoiled.

Grygla Election

District 35 at Grygla had 152 votes cast as Oscar Hagen and Martin Holte were reelected with 102 and 113 votes over challengers Roy Nordby with 47 and Marianne Satre with 37. In the combined District 447, with 239 votes cast, Marlin Laberg received 159 and George Mork received 182 votes to be reelected. Challengers Roy Nordby and Marianne Satre received 62 and 64 votes respectively.

Plummer Balloting

J. Raymond Rosten received 83 votes and Jerry Gerardy 82 votes to be reelected at Plummer to three year terms. There were 92 votes cast. Russell Huotari received 46 votes as a write-in candidate for the two-year unexpired term created by the resignation of Larence Granum. Robert Swanson was the closest write-in competitor with 16 votes.

Election at Oklee

At Oklee, Dr. Harold Lindquist received 31 out of 31 votes cast for reelection to the board for a three-year term. Robert Bluemke was elected with 29 votes. The only two votes he didn't receive were write-in votes for Larry O'Neill, incumbent board member who declined reelection.

Middle River Vote

Middle River had only 56 ballots cast with no contests in the election. Arne Tuura and Milton Lundquist were reelected to the board with 52 and 49 votes respectively. Several persons received two or fewer write-in votes.

St. Hilaire Election

There were 31 votes cast at St. Hilaire with Harry Sjulson receiving 31 and Kenneth Schroeder receiving 30 to be reelected.

Goodridge Voting

A light turnout of voters was noted at Goodridge as Truman Hemmestvedt and Orlin Hanson were reelected to three-year terms with 24 and 23 votes respectively. Chester Solberg received 21 votes for the unexpired two-year term. All had filed for election.

Vehicle Safety Check Slated on Thursday, Friday

Too busy to pay attention to automotive items that contribute to safer motoring? That's the excuse given by many motorists, states Larry McDowell, general chairman of the motor vehicle safety check sponsored Thursday and Friday by the Thief River Falls Jaycees.

From 6 to 9 p.m. each evening, the Jaycees will assist motorists by conducting a 10-point auto safety check for them. Inspection will take place on First street between Main and Knight avenues. Cars which pass the check will be given a sticker. Drivers of cars which need repairs will be given a list of items requiring attention.

Items to be checked include brakes, lights, turn signals, steering, tires, exhaust system, glass, windshield wipers and washers, rearview mirrors and horn.

"Jaycees conduct the safety check each year prior to the Memorial day holiday," McDowell said. "We encourage local drivers to make a special effort to have their cars checked. Anything we can do to contribute to safer driving and fewer accidents is surely worth the effort. The least we can do is be sure our cars are in the safest possible mechanical condition."

Rural Townships In Area Without Fire Protection

Recently a barn in Silverton township was destroyed by fire, reports Terry Courneya, Pennington county agricultural agent. Silverton township is located just a few miles east of Thief River Falls. The Thief River Falls fire department was not authorized to answer this fire emergency. Silverton township is one of several townships surrounding Thief River Falls which does not have fire protection.

Unless a township has a fire protection agreement with another township or a city there just isn't any fire protection, the county agent noted.

During the past year there has been considerable effort by township officials, the city council and fire officials, along with Pennington county USDA agencies, to negotiate a fire protection agreement. To date these efforts have failed, he said, leaving the following townships without protection: Numedal, Smiley, Adger and Excel. North and Rocksbury townships do have fire protection but are willing to work with other townships in securing better fire fighting equipment.

"If you are concerned about lack of fire protection, the Pennington county USDA agencies encourage you to contact your local township officials to see what can be done to improve fire protection in rural areas," Courneya said.

Welfare Center Open on Monday

Welfare center of the Seventh-day Adventist church will be open Monday to distribute clothing to those in need. The center is located at 109½ LaBree av. S., and is open each second and fourth Monday of the month.

Council Votes To Proceed On Lagoon Sewage System

4-H ONE ACT PLAY winner for Pennington county was the St. Hilaire play "If Girls Ask Boys for Dates". Members of the play from left to right are James Gunstad, Debbie Haugen, student director, Norma Bowman, Danny Larson, Wendy Sweet and Grace Dalager. The play also had the best actor and actress of the four plays that competed for the right to enter the 4-H regional contest. They were Danny Larson and Grace Dalager.

Thief River Falls city council took action to proceed with the lagoon-type sewage disposal system at an adjourned meeting held Friday. No construction work will be done this year, however, since time will not permit the project to be completed.

A resolution adopted unanimously by the seven-member council called for the city attorney to proceed to acquire whatever property rights are needed to construct a sewage treatment facility of the lagoon or settlement pond type. The city clerk was also directed to reapply for federal assistance in the project.

Federal assistance funds come from the federal water pollution control agency through the Minnesota department of health, education and welfare which administers the funds on the state level. Reapplication is necessary since deadline for use of a previous allocation had passed.

The city has an option on a portion of the property believed needed for the lagoon-type sewage treatment facility, but will institute condemnation proceedings to obtain the remainder of the property needed.

Meeting in adjourned session Tuesday evening, the council had one member absent and declined to take action on a pending building permit for an apartment building on the block east of Maple avenue and south of First street. Indications were given to the approximately 40 area residents in attendance at the meeting that no action would be taken until the full council was present to vote on the question. The next regular meeting of the council will be on Tuesday, May 27, when the apartment building permit will be on the agenda.

Most property owners in the area originally signed a petition in favor of permitting construction of the apartment building. A later petition, circulated by a resident of the neighborhood, protested the issuance of the permit and contained most of the same signatures.

Testimony presented Tuesday night indicated that the type of construction was misrepresented in the original petition, and residents of the area did not realize that a 12-unit, three-story apartment building was planned. The city planning commission, in a special meeting last week, recommended that the council approve the building permit.

In other action last night the final reading was held on the dance ordinance and it will become effective following publication.

Caldis has held several civic offices and was voted the outstanding young man of the year for the state of North Dakota. He is married and has five children.

Victoria Marie Kotaska, Robert Idovich Speak Vows

"Panis Angelicus", "O Lord, I Am not Worthy", and "Ave Maria", traditional nuptial selections, formed the background music at St. Bernard's Catholic church in this city on Saturday, April 12, at 10:30 a.m., for the celebration of the Holy Sacrament of Marriage of Miss Victoria Marie Kotaska and Robert Paul Idovich, both of Cass Lake.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Kotaska of Thief River Falls. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Idovich of Cass Lake.

Rev. Keough Patnode officiated at the single ring ceremony. The Catholic church diocese choir, with Mrs. Lowell Snyder as soloist, provided the nuptial selections. Miss Janice vanderHagen presided at the organ.

Forming the chancel background for the bridal party was an arrangement of white mums on the back altar. Before the main altar was a bouquet of white gladioli, spider mums and pink carnations.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She was attired in an empire fashioned, floor-length gown designed and fashioned by her mother. It was styled with a satin A-line skirt topped by a leaf designed lace bodice with long sleeves. Attached at the shoulders of her floor-length sleeveless satin coat was a flowing train of matching scalloped lace edged with a wide satin band. An organza floral headpiece held her shoulder-length veil of bridal tulle. She carried a large orchid accented with cascading white carnations and ivy.

The bride chose her sister, Miss Catherine Kotaska of Thief River Falls, as her only attendant. She was attired in a hot-pink floor-length, A-line gown styled with short sleeves and a cowl collar. White lace trimmed the empire bodice. A large bow of the same fabric as her gown, held her short nylon veil and she carried a single glamellia surrounded by leaves and ferns.

Ernest Ness of Bemidji, a friend of the groom, was best man. Serving as ushers were brothers of the bride, John and James Kataska. All wore business suits with white carnation boutonnieres.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Kotaska was attired in a turquoise blue knit dress accented with pink accessories. The mother of the groom wore a light blue two piece dress with white accessories. Both wore identical corsages of red roses.

Attending the ceremony as honor guests were Mrs. Marcello Foerster of Conway, N. D., grandmother of the bride, and Mrs. Anna Hooker of Chicago, Ill., aunt of the groom.

The parents of the bride hosted a reception in the church parlors following the ceremony. Approximately 65 relatives and friends were in attendance. Serving as host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Muzzy of Thief River Falls.

The three-tiered wedding cake, separated by filagreed pillars, was decorated with pink roses and sweet peas. It was baked and decorated by Mrs. Lawrence Lahitz of Thief River Falls. Cutting and serving the cake were Mrs. Art Howe of Fordville, N. D., and Mrs. Lynn Sluke of Fordville, N. D., aunts of the bride. Mrs. Elmer Kotaska of Mylo, N. D., godmother of the bride, poured.

Miss Marie Crawford of Cass Lake presided at the punch bowl and Theresa Kotaska, a sister of the bride, registered the guests. Waitresses were Mrs. Vernon Rogalla of Goodridge and Miss Darlene Kotaska of Bismarck, N. D. Serving the ice cream was Mrs. Larry Polries of Cass Lake. Mrs. Bruce Morstad of Grand Forks, N. D., an aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Carol Bohn of Cass Lake displayed the gifts.

Guests attending were from Chicago, Ill.; Grand Forks, Fordville, Conway, Bismarck and Mylo, N. D., Cass Lake, Bemidji and the Thief River Falls area.

For traveling on the wedding trip to Winnipeg, Man., Canada, the bride was attired in a lime green knit dress. Her corsage was the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of Lincoln high school and the area vocational school at Alexandria. She is employed as laboratory and X-ray technician at Public Health Service Indian hospital at Cass Lake. The groom, a graduate of the high school at Grand Rapids, operates Rock Springs resort on Leech Lake with his parents.

The newly-weds' home address is Schley Star route, Cass Lake.

75,000 in State Given Assistance In Food Programs

Nearly 75,000 low-income persons in Minnesota received food assistance from the U.S. department of agriculture during March according to Dennis M. Doyle, midwest district director of Consumer Food Programs.

The total included 14,085 persons in 21 commodity distribution program projects and 60,482 in 51 food stamp program areas. Counties entering the food stamp plan included Brown, Grant and Stevens.

Minnesota participants in the stamp plan received over $1.2 million worth of coupons during March of which more than $461,000 were bonus coupons. The average bonus per person was $6.09.

In 11 Midwest states, over 1,191,000 persons received USDA food assistance. Around 393,000 were in 318 commodity programs and 801,000 in 511 food stamp projects.

The food stamp program enables low-income families to buy more food by exchanging the amount of money they normally spend on food for coupons worth more than they paid. The coupons are spent like cash at authorized retail food outlets for any domestic foods.

The commodity distribution program provides over 20 USDA-donated foods to supplement the diets of needy people. The foods are shipped to the state distributing agency which handles the storage and transportation to local distribution centers and welfare agencies.

Aerial Photos By ASCS Serve Variety of Uses

"We think of our ASCS aerial photos as a useful tool for the farmer and, of course, that's the main objective," said Winton Knutson, chairman of the Pennington County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee. "But we find that quite a few other people also make good use of photo prints."

The chairman commented that photo prints provided to producers are a main tool of the self-certification program, where farmers who take part in production adjustment programs certify their acreages of crops.

"We also get quite a few orders for these prints from representatives of municipal or county governments, the timber industry, real estate men and even bankers, attorneys and railroads.

"Highway engineers, power and telephone companies and local or regional planning boards also appreciate the value of these photos. Even hunters and fishermen find them useful," the chairman continued.

"Other users", he said, "are agricultural vendors who use photo prints to locate fields where conservation work is to be carried out."

Nationally, sales of photo prints is big business. Although they are provided at cost, usually a very nominal figure, calendar 1968 recorded orders for 900,494 prints nationally, at a cost to purchasers of $1,207,009.23.

Prints can be provided in several sizes. Each print covers four square miles. The 9"x9" size costs $1.25. The 24"x24" size is $3.50. Other sizes are available.

"Since, we are taking aerial photos, we are glad to work with people desiring prints. Persons who are interested in further information concerning aerial photos should contact their county ASCS office," the chairman said.

Begeman Cleared Of Charge in Roseau Court

"Not guilty" was the verdict of a 12-man jury last Thursday, May 8, in Roseau in the trial of Blaine Begeman on a charge of having had sexual intercourse with a child. The jury deliberated 1½ hours before returning the verdict.

Defense's chief argument reportedly was that Begeman had been home on the night the alleged offense was supposed to have taken place—October 29, 1968. The prosecution contended the purported act had been committed on that night in a rural area.

The prosecution had the minor girl, with whom the alleged act was said to have been committed, on the stand and she testified that there was such an act, according to the Roseau Times-Region.

Both Begeman and his wife testified he was home on the night in question.

Members of the jury were Clifford Trangsrud, Randall Lorenson, Gustav Kveen, Eileen Ravndalen, Erling Larson, Helen Erickson, Gail Rowley, Jane Harders, David Brewster, Mrs. Roy Jaros, John Walsh and Mrs. Chryston Harms. Alternate was Mrs. Gilmore Dokken.

The traffic accident occurred at 2:40 a.m., when a car owned by Albert W. Johnson, city, parked in the 600 block of south Tindolph avenue, was struck by a car driven by Duane A. Swanson, city, who was going north and making a left turn onto Nora street. Damage to the Johnson vehicle was $150 while the Swanson vehicle was listed as a total loss.

3 Prowler Teams Put District 31 Titles on Line

by Bob Wielinski
Times Sports Writer

Three Thief River Falls Prowler spring sports team will put their District 31 crowns up for defense on Friday and Saturday, as they will be entering the district tennis, golf and track meets. Last year all three captured the respective titles and should once again be favored to win the titles.

The baseball team, which also won the district title, will defend its title starting next week. A complete schedule and the dates of the tournament will be announced tonight (Wednesday) after a District 31 baseball meeting. This will be the only district tournament held in Thief River Falls this year.

The district golf meet will be held at Crookston on Friday, while the District 31 tennis tournament will be at East Grand Forks on Friday. The district track meet will be held on Saturday at the University of North Dakota.

Two members of the golf squad that were entered in the regional tournament a year ago will be after their second straight appearance in the tournament as they will lead the Prowler golfers in the District 31 tournament. They were Tim Carlson and Cal Wicklander. Carlson has been pacing the local hackers for the past few meets, while Wicklander has been having trouble this season trying to stay in the top six. Others competing for spots on the District 31 team will be Randy Carlson, Rob Womack, Roger Reierson, Jay Moum and Roger Lee. Coach Jack Boyer will be conducting playoffs to determine who will be the six entered in the district tournament.

Two of the defending champions in the District 31 tennis tournament will lead the Prowlers into the tennis meet at East Grand Forks on Friday. They are Steve Edlund, number one finisher in the district last year and Kip Poppenhagen, second place finisher in the tournament behind Edlund a year ago.

Edlund has yet to be beaten in the number one singles this year and has posted easy victories over the other District 31 opposition. Last year it was Edlund and Poppenhagen playing for the number one position in the district and it could be the same way this year, as both have had little trouble in singles matches against other district competition.

Coach Whitey Olson stated on Monday that Edlund will be ceded into the finals of the tournament, while a drawing between Poppenhagen and two others will be held to determine the other who will be ceded.

The number three singles position remains in doubt as Olson indicated that either Mark Thyren or Stuart Waltonen could play here with the one that isn't entered in the singles tournament playing with Dan Jorgenson on the doubles team.

The track squad, under the direction of coach Jim Sims, will be the favorite, but Crookston will give the Prowlers a good run for the title this year, as the Prowlers lost several lettermen who gave the sport up since the season started in March.

Sims, using mostly underclassmen, will have the Prowlers in top form and with the help of a few of the underclassmen, could take the title once again this year.

Expected to be the top performers for the Prowlers in the meet will be Rich Habedank and Rex Rugland, who will be entered in the 100 and 220 yard dashes and long jump.

Others who Sims will be looking to for points will be captain Jon Harris in the 880; Mark Kays, Wayne Olson and Scott Vettleson in the shot and discus throws, Jon Swick and Ken Thompson in the pole vault, Darrold Rodahl, Ralph Swick and Jerry Breiland in the high jump, Kim Murphy, Neil Rondorf and Dave Holm in the mile and Don Schindler and Randy Wentzel in the 440.

Sims indicated that he was uncertain about the hurdles and who will be running in them as in the Northwest conference meet all the hurdlers had to be carried off the track.

The track meet will begin at 10 a.m. with the finals scheduled for 1 p.m.

McIntosh Wins First North Tri County Track Title

McIntosh won the first North Tri County football conference track meet held at Oklee on Wednesday. The Scots, paced by Jim Benson, took eight first place wins with Benson winning four events throughout the day long meet. The Scots finished with 70 points. Erskine was second with 65½ points while Oklee was third with 59½ points and Gonvick scored 15 points.

These were the only four schools that took part in the meet as Goodridge, Middle River, Menior and Plummer failed to send anyone to the meet. It is hoped, according to meet manager Roy Hokkenaa, coach of the Oklee Bobcats, that next year all eight schools will participate in the meet.

Benson took first places in the 100 yard dash, 220 yard dash, low hurdles and the high jump to take individual point honors for the day with 24 points.

The Scots took other firsts in the 880 yard run, mile run, high hurdles and discus throw.

Taking first place in the 880 for the Scots was Mike Bly. Mark Quam won in the mile, Mark Haugen in the high hurdles and Mark Schimanski in the discus.

Erskine gained two first places in the meet as the Comets relay team took the top place in both the 880 and mile relays.

Oklee took three first places in the shot put, pole vault and long jump, while Gonvick took first place in the 440 yard run.

The results of the meet are as follows and since this was the first running of the meet, all times, distances and heights are records.

TEAM SCORING: 1. McIntosh, 70; 2. Erskine, 65½; 3. Oklee, 59½; 4. Gonvick, 15.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Bernard P. Gallant who departed this life May 25, 1968

As God giveth, He taketh away
We never dreamed he really meant it that way
Our hearts, our homes left broken inside,
And only God knows how he suffered and died
We have only his grave to pamper with care,
For the one we love is sleeping there.

Prowler Pitching Shines; Stromberg Hurls No Hitter

by Bob Wielinski
Times Sports Writer

Three Thief River Falls pitchers allowed three teams a total of five hits in three games on Monday and Tuesday, with the highlight of the three games coming in the second game on Monday as Dana Stromberg hurled a no-hitter against the Warren Ponies in a 15-0 win. Dan Sullivan was the tough luck loser in the first game on Monday against Crookston as he hurled a four-hitter only to find the Pirates taking home a 3-0 win. On Tuesday against Red Lake Falls, Tony Johnson lost his bid for a no-hitter in the fifth inning as the Eagles' eighth man in the line up pushed a single between short and third base for a hit. The Prowlers won 2-1.

Prowler pitching in the last five games, a total of 35 innings, has allowed only 11 hits, while winning three and losing two of the five games. It all started on Thursday when Stromberg hurled a four-hitter against Climax. Johnson then tossed a two-hitter on Saturday against Warroad.

The Prowler bats have been almost equally silent, with the only real hit production coming against Warren when they banged out 12 hits in the 15-0 win. Against Crookston on Monday afternoon the Prowlers had two hits and against Red Lake Falls could only muster three.

In picking up his third win of the season, Stromberg started his no-hitter off in fine fashion as he retired the first five Warren batters on strike outs. He finished the game with 11 and gave up only one walk. That came in the third inning as the lead off batter walked on a 3-2 count but was erased on a fielder's choice.

The Prowlers jumped on the Pony's starting pitcher, Greg Hildenbrand for 10 runs in the first five innings and then added five more runs in the last two frames off Brad Fultz.

Having the hot bat was Tony Johnson as he collected three hits in four trips to the plate, driving in four runs. Steve Daley, Sullivan and Stromberg each had two hits. Daley's big blow came in the sixth inning, a bases loaded triple which cleared the bags for the Prowlers. Daley scored four times during the game as he reached base in the second on an error, walked in the fourth, singled in the fifth and tripled in the sixth, scoring all four times. His triple was the only extra base hit of the contest.

Against Crookston on Monday afternoon, Dan Sullivan hurled a four-hitter, but three costly errors led to Crookston runs as the Pirates took home a 3-0 win. It was the third loss for Sullivan against one win, as he has hurled good ball in his three defeats.

The Pirates scored in the first, added one in the fifth and another in the seventh. The Prowlers were held in check by Charles Reynolds and Ron Brown who combined for the two-hit shutout.

The Tuesday game found walks being Johnson's only problem as he allowed the Eagles only one hit through the seven innings that he pitched. The lone hit was a bouncer to the right of Dana Stromberg, Prowler shortstop, who couldn't come up with the ball as it rolled into left field, bringing in the Eagles only run in the fifth inning.

The Prowlers opened the scoring as Tim Duke hit a high fly to the rightfielder who lost the ball in the sun and it dropped in for a three-base error. Johnson helped his own cause by lining a single to right to drive in Duke with the first run of the game.

In the third, Duke led off by gaining first base as the catcher missed a called third strike and Duke reached first on the play. He stole second and moved to third when Johnson beat out an infield single to third.

Tom Wurst drove Duke in with a grounder to shortstop for the second out of the inning, with Johnson advancing from second to third on the play. Johnson was then called out at home as he attempted to steal home.

The Prowlers ended their regular season with a 9-7 record, and now will move into District 31 action next week at Thief River Falls. Dates will be known after a meeting tonight (Wednesday) to determine dates and pairings.

"Free" Wig Offer May Be Costly, Chamber Says

Women receiving offers in the mail that they have "won" a wig would do well to think twice before responding, the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce said today.

Merle Smith, executive secretary of the chamber, said the offer may be one of a number of promotions of "free" wigs springing up across the country.

He said the National Better Business bureau, with which the chamber is affiliated through membership, advises consumers that the offers frequently have strings attached.

NBBB said the promotions operate this way:

Postcards announcing the offer may be concentrated in one area at a time. Each recipient is told her winning number shown on the card was chosen by a member of the sponsor or "club" making the offer.

In one case, the card claims a wig of "100 per cent human hair" worth $89 will be given free, except for styling, handling and postage charges, generally $2.91, $2.94 or $2.96, payable in advance. The amounts and the conditions vary from promotion to promotion, but all are based on an offer for a "free" wig.

According to complaints received by NBBB, persons who send in the money are told that for an additional $17 they can get two $8.50 wig styles. Customers are guaranteed refund of styling fees if not satisfied.

However, complaints have been forwarded to NBBB by chambers and local better business bureaus from persons who say they received no response after sending in the handling fees or got no money back under the terms of the guarantee.

The conditions of a free offer as defined in NBB's volume on advertising practices "Do's and Don't's in Advertising," are as follows:

1. The item or service is available without cost or obligation, or

2. The item or service is available on payment of not more than the actual mailing costs, provided the cost is disclosed in immediate conjunction with the word "free," or

3. If another item is to be purchased to obtain the free article, (1) the cost of the purchased article may not be increased, (2) its quality or quantity may not be decreased, and (3) the free item is offered for a limited time.

Because the experience of customers responding to the free wig offers indicates that it is rarely, if ever, possible to obtain a wig under these terms, says NBBB, they do not constitute free offers as advertised.

Today's Fashion May Make Safer Drivers of Women

What you wear can make a difference in how well you drive, according to a major insurance company, whose Drivotrainer system is used to teach driving at 650 high schools and colleges. There's nothing like the leg freedom of a short skirt for easy braking and accelerating, the company reports.

Number of traffic accidents involving women motorists has climbed faster than hemlines during the post decade and one of every seven distaff drivers is likely to be in an accident this year.

While safe-driving habits are your best bet to remain in the accident-free majority, sensible clothing can help, the insurance company suggests.

Being mod for the mod look is a step in the right direction. For example, high skirts demand low heels, which are ideal for driving. Unlike the stiletto heels of old, today's square heels are less likely to catch in your car's floor covering or on the accelerator—a pair of situations likely to produce accidents. If you occasionally wear high or narrow heels, keep a pair of flats in the car to slip on for driving.

If you wear gloves while driving, they should be of a material such as leather that gives you a sure grip on the steering wheel. A slippery fabric such as nylon or cotton could cause you to lose control in an emergency.

Don't let coats and jackets limit your freedom of arm movement. If they're too tight or bulky they could leave you in a driving bind. Unbutton your coat or re-arrange it so you can move freely.

And watch the dangling bracelets and wide sleeves. They can catch on the shift lever, window and door handles or turn signal. Imagine the consequences if your bracelet was caught and you had to move quickly to avoid an accident.

Much of the beauty of long hair is the way it floats when you swing your head, but if it happens to swirl in front of your eyes in a car, you may be in trouble. Tying your hair back with a scarf or ribbon solves the problem quickly and fashionably.

Formal evening clothes are more restricting then day-time wear. Chances are you'll be escorted on your "night-out," but if you do drive yourself, be sure you can move freely. Fold your long skirt up away from your feet, be sure you have plenty of arm room, and keep dangling jewelry in your purse until you arrive at your destination.

You'll always be in vogue if you remember the most important accessory to any driving outfit—your seatbelt. Worn securely fastened at all times, it will help keep the risk of death and injury to a "mini-mum."

$7.7 MILLION FOR UNICEF SETS RECORD

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—New hope for millions of children of developing countries is contained in a check for $7,773,500 held by Henry Labouisse (center), Executive Director of the United Nations Children's Fund. The record-breaking check, presented by Mrs. Guido Pantaleoni, Jr., President of the U.S. Committee for UNICEF, includes the receipts from the 1968 Halloween collection and greeting card sales, totalling almost $2 million over the previous year's American contribution.

Witnessing the ceremony in the office of United Nations Secretary General U Thant (left) are C. Lloyd Bailey, Executive Director of the U.S. Committee, and students of the UN International School, representing countries aided by UNICEF.

IRS To Answer Questions About Tax Problems

With the 1969 filing period ended, IRS urges those who have questions or problems about federal tax to contact their local offices.

"We are still in the business of providing service, answering questions and helping adjust errors," states George Lethert, IRS district director.

Taxpayers were asked to mail their 1968 tax returns direct to the IRS service center in Kansas City for quicker processing service. However, taxpayer assistance, and all tax questions, including follow-ups on refunds, should be referred to local IRS offices.

At this time, Lethert indicated, many filers want to know when they will receive their refund, or how to amend their already filed returns. Answers to such questions can be provided immediately by calling local IRS offices.

As a rule of thumb, taxpayers are advised to reply to the service center only in response to inquiries initiated there. All other questions can be handled best locally.

Senior Citizen Program Aired By OEO Director

Senior citizens program has been operating under NW Community Action, Inc., administration for three years and has steadily gained community acceptance for its service to the senior citizens of the area, States Duane Otterson, director.

This program is funded by OEO for a project director (presently Mrs. Doris Hillard of Wannaska); a part-time local director at each of the 10 presently operating centers; 30 hours aide employment per week at each center; and transportation, supplies, equipment and nutrition allowances based on center attendance.

Community village councils, hospitals, V.F.W. and American Legion clubs contribute to this program by providing meeting rooms usually for two afternoons per week, and many community businesses and organizations donate gifts and supplies to the centers for their various programs. The 10 communities in the three and one half county NWCA area which have senior citizen centers are Hallock, Lancaster, Lake Bronson, Middle River, Greenbush, Badger, Roseau, Grygla, Williams and Baudette.

Purpose and intent of the program is to provide opportunities for senior citizens to utilize their time in social, educational and recreational activities, Otterson said. The seniors work on crafts and hobbies ranging from quilts, handbags and woodworking to seasonal decorations. Also, the centers have speakers to inform the senior citizens of tax and social security benefits, as well as recreational programs of wide varieties.

Each of the centers has, in addition to the local director, a board of officers including a president, vice president, secretary and treasurer. These officers, elected by the senior citizens, help carry out center activities and programs and help the center director with general overall organization. Each center also has an advisory committee, elected by the center members, composed of one-half center participants and one-half other community representatives. The advisory committees meet with the center directors and plan center policy and programs and also help to solve any minor problems which might arise.

A senior citizens festival will be held Saturday, May 24, at the Roseau village auditorium. All 10 centers will be participating in the program, illustrating the achievements of senior citizens.

Vicky Erickson Is Elected 4-H Voting Delegate

Miss Vicky Erickson, Viking 4-H club, will be Marshall county's voting delegate at the 1969 state 4-H junior leader conference. Miss Erickson was selected Thursday evening at the 4-H executive meeting held in Warren.

Bernard Crummy presided as the council discussed 4-H Club Week and money-making projects. Committees met following the meeting to make plans for the 4-H picnic, the style revue, 4-H night and 4-H food stand.

Regular cotton broadcloth is the fabric most frequently used for men's dress shirts. Look for "2 by 2 broadcloth" on the label. This means the fabric is made with two-ply yarns and is extra strong.

Roseau County Board Adopts Planning Act

Roseau county board recently took action to establish county-wide planning and zoning under the county planning act and set about establishing the terms of office of members of the commission. Members of the planning agency are to be appointed by the chairman of the board.

Such planning has been found necessary in order that subdivisions of government qualify any of a variety of aid programs available, it has been pointed out in the past.

The commissioners designated depositories for county funds, authorized $1,000 for the Roseau county soil conservation district and approved a relocation agreement with Minnkota for power lines. They charged road restrictions (effective in 1970) to five tons per axle in the county and authorized county engineer Ray Sauve to file application for federal financial assistance under the federal disaster act for flood damages.

The board approved $8,267 as Roseau county's share of the budget for the Upper Mississippi Mental Health Center, Inc., at Bemidji.

FIF Distributes Dividends and Capital Gains

Financial Dynamics fund, Inc., Denver-based mutual fund with current assets of $74 million, has declared three distrubitons—a dividend from net investment income and a fiscal year-end short term and long term capital gain distribution.
